LYTTELTON HARBOUR

review creators

Lyttelton Harbour Review is a 100% voluntary community newsletter initiative developed after the February 2011 earthquake by local Professionals Real Estate Agent Lynnette Baird, and Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre Chairperson Wendy Everingham.

The objective of the Lyttelton Harbour Review is to help keep local residents informed with what is going on in the wider Lyttelton Harbour community. Of course the success of the Lyttelton Harbour Review could not be possible without the ongoing support and enthusiasm from the wider community. A big thank you goes out to everyone who sends information; is willing to be interviewed by a couple of amateurs; or lets us know what might be happening in the neighbourhood. The Lyttelton Harbour Review project would not be possible without you all.

If you have an event, topic or cause that you would like to share with the harbour community, then Lynnette or Wendy would love to hear from you:

Festival of Lights

Waste Management Initiatives

The Lyttelton Harbour Festival of Lights attracts a huge crowd every year, eating and drinking, listening to great local music and celebrating the heart of winter.

Festival Co-Ordinator Lucette Hindin has been working with Sharon McIver of Our Daily Waste for the past year to reduce waste at the festivals.

What do you mean when you talk about 'Waste Minimisation'?

Lucette: "Well, we're starting to become aware, especially with the benefit of all Sharon's research, that a lot of what we send away as 'recycling' can't actually be recycled – either because the current recycling system can't do it (which is the case with bioware - recyclable plates made from potato or cornstarch and that kind of thing), or because the bin is so contaminated with non-recycling that the whole thing ends up going to the landfill. Being responsible for reducing the waste we create has to play a large part in our efforts to be sustainable. This means reusing and reducing as well as recycling. "We are planning to trial our own composting system for bioware this year though, using the community garden, which is exciting."

What does Our Daily Waste do?

Sharon: "Our Daily Waste provides a whole system approach to waste management, so we provide recycling signage and services on the day, but we also work with event management in the lead up, to find ways of preventing waste from coming on site. Not only does the event move closer towards 'zero waste', but it also means less trash for our team to sort and haul, so that we can spend the time educating people and enjoying the event instead. It's win/win."

What is one of the initiatives you're using at the festival this year?

Sharon: "This will be the second Festival of Lights we've provided recycling services for, and we're stoked that this year Project Lyttelton will be selling the reusable Globelet cups that proved so popular at February's Lyttelton Tea Party, with everyone being able to take home a souvenir as well. With each cup saving on average 2-3 disposable cups, I'd estimate that the total waste output could be reduced by as much as a third."

And there's going to be a reusable coffee cup for sale too?

Lucette: "Yes, Jen Kenix has designed a take-home 'Lyttelton' cup for hot drinks that people will be able to buy and use for their mulled wine, soup, hot chocolate or coffee at the festival and afterwards too. Both the Ideal Cup and the Goblet will be available as long as our stocks last. We also strongly encourage people to bring down any reusable coffee cup that they already own to use on the night."

Are there any other ways people can get involved with reducing waste?

Lucette: "Obviously part of it is up to the vendors on the street – whatever cups, plates etc they bring end up in the bin, so we try to make sure they are well-informed in their decisions. We've chosen not to have vendors selling glo sticks and other plastic toys that are one-use-only and go straight into the landfill at the end of the night."

Festival of Lights

Thursday June 19 to Sunday June 22

Sharon: "Our Daily Waste have worked hard to provide effective signage, so we would ask people to really look at the icons on the rubbish bins before they choose where to put their rubbish. And if you want to take it to the next level of waste prevention, consider bringing your own container for food to be served into – it means you've also got somewhere to put any leftovers for later. "

Are there any other ways people can get involved with reducing their environmental impact?

Lucette: "One difficulty we face with the festival is the parking in Lyttelton on the night. We encourage people not to bring their cars over, but rather car pool or take the number 28 bus, and we provide a shuttle bus from the gondola car park from 5.30pm right through to the end of the festival around 11.00pm."

Albion Square Update

Progress Report No.1

The Lyttelton/Mt Herbert Community Board, the local community and the Christchurch City Council are working together to develop a civic square in Lyttelton. The provision of a new civic square is one of the key actions (N1, Pg59) in the Lyttelton Master Plan.

Progress on the redevelopment has been positive on site with the cenotaph foundation excavation complete and reinforced concrete foundation complete. The cenotaph central concrete pillar (to tie the stones) is continuing with the fourth and final "lift" (concrete pour) remains on schedule. In the end there will be about 31m2 of concrete poured for the cenotaph foundation and central pillar - that's enough to fill 15,500 2 litre milk containers!

The upper terraces excavation is complete and the curved steps and retaining walls being formed are well underway. The upper terraces will form the viewing and play areas, edible trees, village bell and the cenotaph. The artworks, mandela and the mosaic chair will be located in this area also. The kept art works currently being stored offsite will be re-installed towards the end of the project. Buried services are being progressively installed with careful care given around the historical brick barrel drain. The wharf timbers from Lyttelton Port of Christchurch has been progressively uplifted and being process on site. These wharf timbers will form the pergola, planters and the stage located in the lower terrace.

Off site activities are continuing behind the scenes and of particular note is the restoration and conservation of the cenotaph stones. The stonemason has uplifted the pallets of stones from Simeon Quay, and transferred them to their workshop, where they are cross checking stone identification for correct placement back onto the structure. About 95% of the stone has been cleaned of mortar with the remainder to be completed following deconstruction of the remaining stump this week. Repairs to individual stones are now also underway. The key focus over the next period is to continue with stone repairs and start reconstruction on site mid June.

Look ahead over the next few weeks, the site team are targeting to complete the upper terraces retaining walls, complete the central concrete pillar for the cenotaph, start lower terraces retaining walls, complete foundation bases for the pergola and the stage. Anticipated completion date is targeted for mid to late October 2014.

Exciting Wind Turbine Project

Orton Bradley Park

The team at Orton Bradley Park would much rather spend money to increase the awesomeness of their facilities than pay another power bill. By installing a wind turbine to generate electricity, the Park will dramatically reduce their power bills and dependence on the grid.

Renewable energy at Orton Bradley Park is nothing new: in the early 1900s a water wheel powered the electric lights at the homestead. The astonishing recent advances in renewable energy technology make it easy to forget that it is such an 'old-fangled' part of the energy mix in Canterbury.

Wind at the site is abundant, the turbine has resource consent and the key stakeholders are enthusiastic, we just need your help to raise the capital. To find out more, or become involved visit: www.ortonbradley.co.nz/wind-project.html

Why bother with wind power?

- Wind energy is renewable, clean, has low operating costs, is efficient and is the perfect complement to solar and hydro power.
- Help continue the long tradition of renewable energy generation at Orton Bradley Park.
- The money saved on power over the lifetime of the turbine (25 years) will be used to maintain, upgrade and improve the facilities at Orton Bradley Park.
- Increase the power resilience of the Lyttelton Harbour basin.

Antarctic Link Projects

Who is Hector?

Behind the scenes a small team of Lyttelton people are working away to highlight Lyttelton's Antarctic Links. There are three projects that are underway.

The Lyttelton Information Centre has sponsored a wonderful Antarctic Link Brochure that is due for publication any day. This leaflet will highlight all the places around that township that have some association with our Antarctic connections. The leaflet will form the basis of a new walking tour around the township.

Running parallel to this project is a wonderful new children's story book. Written by Ben Brown the book tells the story of the lives of wonderful husky dogs in and out of the port and then intersperses that story with real Antarctic historical facts from Lyttelton shores. This book will be released late August in time for IceFest, the Christchurch City Councils Festival celebrating all things Antarctic.

Ben has been working closely with the children from the new Lyttelton Primary school for this project. The children were asked to suggest names for one of the husky dogs. This special dog will be the name for the main dog in the story as well as a wonderful bronze statue the third of the projects that Mark Whyte has been commissioned to make.

Last Friday Ben was invited to the school assembly and he went through all the name suggestions the children had come up with. This was a really popular project and teacher Liza Rossie said "we even had children submit names during the school holidays. The children have been very enthusiastic about the project". Of the many names suggested Ben selected Hector as the winner. Hana from the Lyttelton Primary Hill campus had the winning name "I would like to call the husky Hector as in Hectors dolphin".

For the honour of selecting the name of the lead dog and the wonderful statue, Hana will be invited to the official opening of the statue and be part of the special team that unveils the special dog. Hector will stand tall beside our library on the corner of London and Canterbury Streets and will be looking to sea facing Quail Island the former quarantine home of the dogs when they came to New Zealand from Russia and when they returned from their sea and ice journeys. The dogs were heroes and were renowned for their strength, courage and tenacity. Hector will remind us all of our links to the deep south and Lyttelton's close connections to the ice to this day.

Whilst fundraising is well underway for this project there are still significant funds needed to be sourced. Thank you to the Community Garage Sale for enabling this project to raise $480 last weekend, however we need to raise $45,000 in total.

Grant applications are in, and many local organizations are behind us. Your help would be most welcome. A tax receipt for any donation will be sent from the Society, as we are a registered charity. Donations of $100 or more will be acknowledged publicly, with your permission, and by a printed drawing of a sled dog signed by the artist. Donations may be made by:

Cheques payable to 'NZAS Canterbury Branch Sled Dog Project' may be sent to The Treasurer, New Zealand Antarctic Society Canterbury Branch, PO Box 404, Christchurch 8140.

Electronic payments may be made to NZAS Canterbury Branch Sled Dog Project account number 03-0802-0095005-018. Please show your name and in the reference field, and for a tax receipt, send an email with the transaction date, amount, your name and address to Society Secretary John Rogers at secretary@antarctic.org.nz.

Mobil Tank Farm Update

Slips, Spills and Recovery: June 2014

Mobil Oil contacted the Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre recently to enquire if there were any other issues that we'd like to ask them about the Tank Farm in Lyttelton.

We sent them a series of questions and these are the responses from their representative Samantha Potts.

Samantha reassured us that Mobil had safely transferred the petrol out of the second damaged tank a few weeks back, and as a result had concluded the emergency response efforts. The tank now contains predominantly water with a small film of residual fuel that is unable to be flushed from the tank due to the landslide.

We asked if there was any fuel left in the remaining tanks by the cliff. "The recovered petrol from the dented tank has been transferred offsite altogether. There is still some jet fuel in a storage tank which we plan to transfer offsite by the end of June. At that point, there will not be any bulk fuel remaining on site (ie: no bulk fuel left in tanks)" she said.

She explained "There are two damaged tanks that were directly impacted by the landslide, and three others close by. All of these tanks are not currently being resupplied, and we have no plans to put them back into service while we conduct our investigations" she said. Given the precarious state of the surrounding cliffs this will be good news to Lyttelton residents.

She went on to explain that there is an internal investigation underway and the company has committed to provide ECAN with information to assist their investigation as well. Further she said "there is still a lot of soil and landslide debris onsite. This will take several months to assess and develop a management plan together with the Council. Our ability to conduct a full investigation of the causes of the incident and the damage caused by the landslide is hampered by the landslide debris on site, with restricted access to some parts of the bund, piping and the tanks".

She went on to say that "We have been liaising with the Christchurch City Council since the March floods to reduce the risk of another landslide. The Council have unblocked the drain on Brittan Terrace (on the hillside above the terminal) which overflowed during the storms. Mobil has also installed temporary timber barriers as an added precaution to help prevent storm water from cascading down the hill (installed with Christchurch City Council agreement on their behalf). However we are concerned about the potential instability of the cliff face, we are monitoring it closely, and have communicated those concerns to Christchurch City Council. We are not currently removing any soil or emptying the water from the damaged tank, until we can be sure it won't impact the stability of the hillside".

We indicated that we were also concerned with the oil pipeline running over the hill. From the town you can clearly see slips around that pipeline. Samantha said "the Lyttelton-Woolston pipeline which carries fuel products 'across the hill' to the Woolston Terminal was closely inspected after the landslide in March and did not suffer any damage. There has been some soil erosion and soil movement noted in places around the pipeline, but we are fully confident in the integrity of the pipeline. The pipeline integrity is carefully and continuously monitored by computer, and inspected on a weekly basis."

To know that the pipeline is being examined physically and remotely is also good to hear. She informed us that the steel used to construct the line is very resilient. The risk of a break was very low.

We queried her about the smell oil at times and if this was still associated with the emergency event. "There have been some reports by residents of odours around the Terminals area. Mobil is not conducting terminal operations at Naval Point, and we do not have any odours present. At times, depending on the weather, bulk tanker discharging from the wharf and tank venting, the smell of fuel may be present in the area. This has always been the case, including pre-flood and earthquake. She referred us to New Zealand Oil Services Limited for odour concerns 03 328 9603.

We were also keen to learn about new emergency procedures in place to work with communities when events happen at terminals. A good thing we have learnt that has come out of this experience is that Mobil is now going to visit all of its sites over New Zealand ensuring they have key contacts and good ways of communicating with key people at each site. We also hope that emergency siren testing also forms part of the response.

She concluded by saying, "The flood and landslide response has been extremely challenging and we have worked very hard to safely manage the impacts of the landslide to the terminal and to minimise disruptions to supply, and we continue to do so. We would like to assure the Canterbury community of our continued commitment to safely managing our business in the future as we work to fully recover from this emergency".

Cholmondeley Sod Turning Progress

Celebrating the Beginning of the Rebuild

Last week the Cholmondeley Children's Centre celebrated the beginning of its rebuild with a sod turning ceremony.

Sir Miles Warren, renowned architect and Governors Bay resident, and Lachie Griffen, well-known long-time resident "turned the first sod". At the same time a concerted fundraising campaign is underway to raise the final $1million needed to re-build debt free.

Shane Murdoch, Cholmondeley's General Manager, says a rebuild was never in doubt but the cost to rebuild Cholmondeley to modern standards is only partially funded by insurance. "An additional $4million is required to ensure the project can be completed debt free and without affecting the future financial viability of Cholmondeley. Generous support from many organizations and philanthropists in the Canterbury community have committed almost $3million and we're now embarking on an ambitious campaign to raise the final $1million required before our July deadline."

The new building, designed by RMBH Architects, will be child-friendly and non institutional, with a modern and researched approach to the physical location in which children are cared for. Shane believes Christchurch needs Cholmondeley now more than ever. The service takes in children between the ages of 3 and 12, many of them affected by the ongoing toll of the earthquakes. Cholmondeley cares for more than 300 children every year; the need for its services has risen over 50% since the earthquakes.

Locally established and primarily funded by the community, Cholmondeley provides respite care for children when there is distress or a crisis within the family, whether due to illness, a disaster, or other family stresses, and when the supports that many of us have are inadequate or absent.

With an average stay per child of just a few days, Cholmondeley focuses on preserving the bonds that tie a family together. Through their experiences at Cholmondeley children return to their families more refreshed and more resilient than when they left.

Cholmondeley is a perfect example of a facility meeting a community need. It is available to every family that needs it, without needing to go through the complexities of our social system. It recognises that working with children cannot occur in isolation from their parents, carers and the rest of the family or whanau. Early intervention and Cholmondeley's involvement takes the pressure off children and their families and reduces the likelihood of care and protection issues for children escalating to the point where the statutory services are required to intervene.

BNZ Closing

After a week of interviews with locals in the Lyttelton Harbour, about the closing of the only bank in Lyttelton, the BNZ, the attitudes and wishes and hopes are quite clear.

The most common feeling was that this was especially unfortunate timing, as Lyttelton is now showing signs of real recovery and expansion, three years after the quakes. In another year, even the BNZ might have been profitable here!

Some customers of the BNZ cannot move out to another bank because of loans, mortgages etc. Most respondents will leave the BNZ as soon as an alternative is available. Many are pulling out immediately. The BNZ ATM, which will remain for two years, (its location not yet decided) does meet some needs of some people, but not entirely.

68 out of 85 respondents would prefer to be with a fully New Zealand-owned bank. Only one of those is considering helping out, with a limited presence here; discussions are ongoing. Coincidentally, 68 out of 85 (not necessarily the same people) would be open to the possibility of a local, community-based Money Exchange to meet the cash needs (deposits of cash and cheques, withdrawal of cash for tills/floats, etc). Such systems are already in use in New Zealand, though not well-known, so this idea is being investigated.

One common feature of the responses was the strong desire for a face-to-face service; many commented that the bank staff used to feel like members of the community, even if they didn't live here, so it was a welcoming, and welcome, service.

Already, three main-street businesses are interested in providing premises for whatever can be set up; two can even help with staffing. Maybe there are more people in this community who can offer help.

Further ideas and suggestions will be most welcome, in our progress towards a satisfactory development. Contact Juliet julietruthadams@gmail.com

Flooding Taskforce

Christchurch City Council Taskforce members came to Lyttelton last week. They are starting a more detailed examination of Lyttelton next week.

If you have had a property that has flooded, they want to hear from you. They want to know how often your place has been flooded, what has flooded, where you live etc. You can email your details directly to council floodmitigation@ccc.govt.nz or call the call centre 03 941 8999 and leave your contact information with call centre staff.

Alternatively a survey form to complete is available at the Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre and the Council Service Centre.

For the latest information about what the council is doing for flooded residents follow this link. <http://www.ccc.govt.nz/cityleisure/projectstoimprovechristchurch/landdrainage/taskforce.aspx>

Check Insurance Settlements

A Lyttelton resident wrote to us recently and explains: Southern Response came around to do our non-EQC scope assessment, for pathways and patios etc. I found out that on top of what they usually pay, there is ALSO a small allowance for difficult to access sites, which can be paid on top of the normal costings. I know they are due out to Lyttelton in the not too distant future, and I think it'd be worth putting the word out there so people can be forewarned.

Also, once people get payments can I urge you to check everything on your site plan, and to cross reference it with the payment schedule. I checked mine and when I questioned everything they had missed, and I asked for the extra payment for difficult to access sites, I actually get double what I was originally paid!

Thanks for sharing, Suzanne. Great advice.

Rushani's Cake for Greatness

Acknowledging: Hickford Family

For the 13th 'Cake for Greatness' Rushani baked a dark chocolate and beetroot cake for the wonderful Hickford family.

As Rushani reports: "Cake for Greatness #13 goes to the lovely Kim and John Hickford. Kim and John are an excellent example of awesome parents that exemplify the spirit of Lyttelton.

Lyttelton is well known for being a home to young families and arriving at the mums group this afternoon to plenty of babies crawling around, I couldn't imagine a better recipient than Kim.

Kim is absolutely lovely and no doubt full of wisdom from raising her three boys and now Isobel. Over the years Kim has done various baking for school and Scout fundraising as well as manning stalls at festivals.

Husband John dedicates a lot of time to the Under 13 rugby team. I'm sure those that know them will have plenty more stories of how wonderful these people are. Pictured here with Isobel, Kim was nominated by Helen Holyoak."

Rushani is always eager to hear about who is in the community doing great things, so if you would like to nominate a local group of people, business or individual who deserves special recognition and a well deserved treat with their morning cuppa, send your nominations to Rushani via her Facebook page.

You will also find Rushani at the Lyttelton Farmers Market, every second Saturday, with a range of delectable home baked treats. And, Rushani's cakes are now available from Harris & Turner on London Street—available by the slice, or the whole cake.

St John Thank You

Kia ora, a big thank you to the Lyttelton Harbour community for supporting St John Banks Peninsula during our annual appeal week. Our fundraising collection at the Lyttelton Farmers Market totaled $605 and enable us to provide support to the Lyttelton and wider Harbour communities.

Lyttelton Harbour Vouchers

Scheme Continues

The Lyttelton Harbour Voucher Scheme has been running for nearly six months. The idea came from Project Lyttelton's Harbour Resilience team.

Forever thinking of ways to help our community become more sustainable the idea was to try and keep spending local whilst developing a form of currency that supported this area.

Working together with the Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre and the Lyttelton Harbour Business Association the project was launched in December 2013. Vouchers have been bought by locals as presents for staff, friends and family. To date over 200, $20 vouchers have been purchased and then spent at our participating businesses.

Vouchers have a shelf life of six months so this is another reminder that if you have received some, especially around last Christmas they will expire during June.

The Harbour Resilience Project at Project Lyttelton is winding down but we think these vouchers are a great idea. The scheme will now be continued and administered by the Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre but the web information will continue to be hosted by Project Lyttelton.

Vouchers are available for sale at the Lyttelton information Centre and participating businesses include:

Black Cat Cruises—Quail Island Ferry	Civil & Naval
Coastal Living	Diamond Harbour Country Store
Everest Indian Restaurant	Fisherman's Wharf
Freemans	God Save the Queen
Godley Cafe	Governors Bay Hotel
Ground Gourmet Essentials	Hands on Health
Harbour Co-Op	Harris & Turner

Report Graffiti Promptly

"Reducing the impact of graffiti vandalism on the residents" is the goal of dedicated staff from the council's graffiti programme, who briefed the community board about their work at the monthly meeting in April. There are different responses depending on whether the graffiti appears on Council property, Orion assets, small businesses or other private property. It really helps if people report graffiti as soon as it appears. This can be done by calling the council's Info Line 941 8999 or by emailing a photograph along with a location to info@ccc.govt.nz. Racist, rude or offensive graffiti is normally removed within four hours of receiving a report. If graffiti appears on your property, please try to remove it as soon as possible, preferably within 24 hours. Anyone interested in volunteering to help report or remove graffiti can contact belinda.barrett-walker@ccc.govt.nz.

New Hours at the Garage Sale

More Opportunities for Groups to Fundraise.

You will be aware that the Lyttelton Community Garage Sale has moved to 25 Canterbury Street. This has meant some positive new changes for us. It enables Project Lyttelton to open this all weather facility to the public more often.

From June we are introducing Wednesday openings. The first Wednesday in each month will be another opportunity for your community organisation to run a sale for your own fundraising.

All you need to do is make a booking with Sue-Ellen 03 328 9243 or email office@lyttelton.net.nz, supply your own volunteers and you can open from 11.00am to 4.00pm. All proceeds excluding $40 for overhead costs will be yours to take home.

For the remaining Wednesday's of the month we are proposing money earned from the sale is divided equally amongst four community groups. We initially thought groups could be part of our "Chip in the Box" project and customers could nominate who to donate money to based on their spend. We have slightly revised this idea. Instead our team will now nominate four community groups each month who are existing Timebank members and proceeds from Wednesday trading excluding week one will be divided equally amongst them for the month .

For this month June 2014 the lucky groups are:

- Lyttelton Kindy
- Lyttelton Primary School
- Lyttelton Community Garden
- St John

We hope you will be excited by this new funding possibility. If you know of other community groups that might like to participate the only prerequisite is they need to be members of the TimeBank. If they aren't members contact Timebank Coordinators Wendy Everingham or Sarah Pritchett at timebank@lyttelton.net.nz or call 328 9093.

We are always on the look out for new volunteers.

Sales assistants required Wednesday, Thursday Friday 1.00pm to 4.00pm. If you would like to help please pop up to the house and talk to Claire or Teresa. Alternatively give Sue-Ellen a call 328 9243. TimeCredits are available for these positions.

The new operating hours of the Community Garage Sales at 25 Canterbury Street are:

Wednesday	11.00am to 4.00pm
Thursday	11.00am to 4.00pm
Friday	12.00pm to 4.00pm
Saturday	10.00am to 1.00pm

Report Local Crime

"If it is not reported, it never happened" is the key message from Senior Sergeant Peter Laloli who urges everyone to report crime, no matter how insignificant it may seem. It helps the police build up a picture of offending.

Reported crime forms the basis of police staffing. The number of police officers based in our area is falling because the reported crime rate has fallen, which is good news, but local police are aware quite a lot of crime occurring in our area is never reported. If the crime is happening call 111 and to report "historic" crimes call 3637400.

Going Shopping for Your Bread

Lyttelton Life Remembered: 1940s

Buying your loaf of bread at the bakery in the 1940's was very different then. We had two bakeries in Port, Souter's and Norton's. All baking bread, cakes, and the like were made locally. An attractive range of fresh bread baked daily was available for sale. We walked to the bakery of choice and at Souter's a large table just inside the shop door was covered with clean white flour bags with the customer's name embroidered on it. No precut loaves in those days. You cut it at home with a bread knife yourself. Inside was ones daily order, brown, white, wholemeal or buns one would smell yards away from the shop.

Norton's had their specials too, and if it was the time of year to preserve eggs, they made their own preserver called waterglass. It was a wonderful setting agent for whitewash for stone retaining walls and new concrete. But back to the bakery, Souter's made their famous wholemeal fruit squares, never to be forgotten to this day! Norton's also had one of New Zealand's first electric slicing machines to precut loaves. One remembers it in a corner of the shop, finished in cream enamel and with a large cutting blade.

Many a small child walking home up the hill remembers feeling for the crust of a Vienna loaf tucked into the lovely and irrespirable fresh bread inside the bag, and by the time the bread arrived home most of at least one loaf had been consumed! Yum Yum! An uncut Vienna white loaf cost sixpence. At Norton's custard squares, cream cakes, fruit cake, apple pies and a host of mouth-watering goodies all available from their tea rooms. Who remembers Souter's Boston Buns, along with a mince pies and fresh hot cross buns at Easter time? Going to the bakery every day was the opportune time to catch up on the local parish pump.

[parish pump] = catching up on the local news and a chance to say hello to a friend.

Editor: Since John Denton wrote this story, by chance Elaine Back nee Souter came into the Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre reminiscing about Lyttelton. We were able to put them back in touch with one another, and they have been sharing stories from the past - and maybe a recipe or two!

Artist: Nigel Bennett

Nigel Bennett is relatively new at painting having been a professional photographer in a previous life.

"Making these paintings has been a battle at times, trying to understand the difference between what I think I see, and what is really there. In photography, sharpness and detail are considered to be a priority, but to me painting seems to be more about finding the essential and leaving out the rest for the sake of clarity. It's an ongoing challenge, but the process of painting is making me see the world in a new way"

Banks Peninsula Water Management Committee

New Community Members Appointed

Three new community members from the Lyttelton Harbour region have been appointed to the Banks Peninsula Zone Committee as part of a process to refresh its seven community members. The three new members are Thomas Kulpe, Paula Smith, and Claire Findlay. Kevin Simcock has been reappointed to the committee.

The Canterbury Water Management Strategy refreshment process requires community members from each zone committee to put their names forward to be refreshed each year. This means community membership terms are staggered to ensure there is an opportunity for new perspectives on the water management committees. Some zone committees have already had recent community membership changes so began the refreshment process later.

Christina Robb, Programme Manager Canterbury Water Management Strategy, said the selection process focussed on finding people who can see others' points of views and who can work collaboratively to find solutions for water issues. "The Canterbury Water Management Strategy is an innovative approach to managing fresh water. It's about finding the best ways to restore our environment as well as provide for viable farming and communities throughout the region."

"It will help to ensure safe drinking water supplies, sustainable farming practices and clean rivers and streams, as well as enhancing recreational opportunities and protecting environment and cultural values. We are sure the make-up of the Banks Peninsula Zone Committee has found a good balance of community members who are passionate about making a positive difference in local water management," she said.

Each of Canterbury's ten zone committees has four to seven community members, Rūnanga representatives, an Environment Canterbury Commissioner, and councillors from the relevant district or city council. Over the past year the Banks Peninsula Zone Committee has been particularly focussed on the issues facing Wairewa / Lake Forsyth, cultural values and the rights and interests of iwi and the crown, and the aquatic health of streams in the zone.

The committee has also been working with local community boards and Christchurch City Council to facilitate discussions on the recent flooding events in the zone. The other community members on the Banks Peninsula Zone Committee are Richard Simpson, Pam Richardson, and Steve Lowndes.

New Community Member Information

Thomas Kulpe lives on a 10-acre block in Purau and has a background in information technology and business process improvement. He is a founding member of the Uniquely Purau Society Incorporated and a member of the Purau Residents Association.

Paula Smith lives in Diamond Harbour and has a background in landscape architecture, conservation management, early childhood education and community governance. Paula is currently Chair of the Lyttelton Mt Herbert Community Board, and has been active in many community groups including the Lyttelton Harbour Wastewater Working Group.

Claire Findlay lives in Corsair Bay and has extensive professional and voluntary experience in engaging with communities. Claire is the current Chair of the Lyttelton Harbour/Whakaraupo Issues Group. She has a background in earth sciences, landscape architecture and community facilitation.

Re-Appointed Community Member Information

Kevin Simcock is a consulting engineer who is involved in the Akaroa Waste Water Working Party and Duveauchelle Waste Water Working Party. He lives in Christchurch and has a holiday home at Takamatua in Akaroa Harbour. He chairs the Takamatua Residents Association

Information on all community members can be found at www.ecan.govt.nz/get-involved/canterburywater

“Who knew that chimney smoke is really just firewood that hasn’t burned completely. What a waste.”

Wood Burner Users Set a Challenge

Burn Clean and Wood Burners May Stay

Last week Environment Canterbury offered the Christchurch wood burning community a challenge – burn better with no smoke (most of the time) to help clean up the air, and allow the use of wood burners in the future.

Commissioner David Bedford says Environment Canterbury is responsible for managing air quality across the region and the aim is for everyone to have clean, healthy air. “Nobody wants to breathe polluted air” he says. “The Government has set national air quality targets to ensure everyone has access to clean air which supports having a healthy community. In Christchurch the target is to have three high pollution nights by 2016 and one by 2020. However, we still have a winter-time air quality problem so we need everyone’s help.”

“Apart from completely banning wood burners, no one measure will solve the winter-time home heating air quality problem - a range of measures is necessary. But it is possible to operate your wood burner so that there is no visible smoke coming from the chimney,” says Mr Bedford. “Smoke is really firewood that hasn’t burned completely so it is just wasted heat. If you have a wood burner, we need your help to clean up the air so will be asking you to learn the art of starting and maintaining a smoke-free fire and to share your tips with others through our Facebook page.

“We are also continuing to work with developers and manufacturers to encourage them to develop an ultra-low emission burner which will make reducing air pollution much easier in the longer term.” Mr Bedford says “But we still have a way to go to meet the national targets and tougher measures may be necessary. So we are reviewing the current Air Plan which identifies the activities that we as a community have agreed can and can’t be done.”

“During the past 10 years many people have played their part to clean up the air in Christchurch. As a result air quality has improved significantly and the number of high pollution nights has come down from around 60 to around 20. However, the current Air Plan has been in place since 2002. A lot has changed since then, so we have been reviewing the plan. We have also been consulting with a wide range of stakeholders, including district councils, health boards and industry to find out what they consider is important and have tried to reflect these views in our review.”

The review looks at air pollution not just from home heating, but from industry, outdoor burning and nuisance such as dust and odour. It proposes ways all sectors of the community can help play their part. Mr Bedford says “We are not stepping away from the need to improve air quality and this may mean some rules may have to change. We are asking the community to consider the proposed changes outlined in the Air Plan Review Discussion Document and flyer and to give us their feedback on how we should best address these issues across the region.

Copies of the flyer are being delivered to homes in Canterbury and the discussion document can be obtained from customer services on 0800 329 276 or found at ecan.govt.nz/air-plan-review.

“We are working with our partners to help clean up the air in Christchurch and there is also assistance available for householders who may be finding these changes difficult. For more information go to www.letscleartheair.co.nz”

Surviving Winter

Preparation is Key

Now that we are officially in winter, it's time to prepare ourselves for anything that this season may throw at us.

Cantabrians have recent experience of flooding, wind storms and power outages so may have already made use of their emergency kits, so now is the ideal time to restock and review emergency plans. "We know the people in this region have had their fair share of weather-related events in the last few months but unfortunately that doesn't mean there isn't more to come," said Jessica Petersen, Community Resilience Coordinator for Canterbury Civil Defence and Emergency Management Group.

"Everyone still needs to have the necessities in place to be able to be self-sufficient for three days or more in the event of road closures and power cuts. "This includes having stocks of food, water, warm clothing, fuel, alternative cooking and other emergency supplies on hand." During a power cut its suggest using torches rather than candles, but if there is no other option make sure they're in a stable, non-combustible holders and away from anything that could burn.

"For general readiness," explains Jessica, "every household should create and practise a Household Emergency Plan, which should include having a plan for any pets and animals.

Even in small quantities, snow can be hazardous. It only takes a few centimetres on a road to make driving dangerous. Motorists considering driving over mountain passes in winter are advised to take chains with them in case of snow and to check road conditions and the weather forecast before setting out. "As well as the chains, it is a good idea to carry another emergency kit in the car with a warm blanket, water and first aid kit the necessities."

Members of the public should contact their local council for further Civil Defence information. There are also a number of places people can find information on getting ready, including items for emergency kits; a good place to start is www.gethru.govt.nz or www.cdemcanterbury.govt.nz . Weather conditions and warnings can be found at www.metservice.com

Social Housing Consultation information

Christchurch City Council is considering changing the way it provides social housing in its district. You can access further information, including the full Statement of Proposal and Summary of Information at www.ccc.govt.nz/haveyoursay. The Council wants to know what its City Housing tenants, stakeholders and the community think about the proposal. The objective of the Council's proposal for the provision of social housing in Christchurch & Banks Peninsula is to:

- Have more flexibility in the future ownership, management and development of the Council's own social housing portfolio;
- Ensure that the portfolio has a financially viable and sustainable future;
- Maintain the capacity to provide the current number of social housing units in the Council's portfolio; and
- To act as a catalyst for the provision of at least 1,000 additional units in the city.

Copies of the consultation documents, including the Summary of Information and Statement of Proposal, are available: through the "Have Your Say" web page: www.ccc.govt.nz/haveyoursay; at Council libraries and service centres, or by phoning the Council on 03 941 8999.

Please note: There are a number of Public consultation sessions across the city - residents and interested parties are welcome to attend any of the public drop in sessions listed on the flyer: The Top Club, 23 Dublin Street, Lyttelton 12 June 4.30pm to 6.30pm.

Submissions on the Council's proposals may be made to the Council from Wednesday, 21 May 2014, to no later than 5:00pm on Thursday, 26 June 2014. Submissions may be sent either: through the Council's website: www.ccc.govt.nz/haveyoursay; via email to housingsubmission@ccc.govt.nz, or completing the submission form, or any other written form, and posting to the Council.

LPC Project Update

A number of projects are underway at Lyttelton Port of Christchurch. Below is a list of recent activity.

- Piles for the construction on Cashin Quay 2 wharf continue to arrive in containers and are stored at the site near Godley Quay.
- Construction of Cashin Quay 2 has begun with demolition work and pile driving underway. Thirty of 284 piles have already been installed. Impact pile driving works will take place between 7.30am and 6.00pm, Monday to Saturday.
- A large 110 Tonne long reach excavator arrived at the Port this week and will be used to reconstruct the sea wall batter slope of the new wharf. A barge also arrived to complete dredging work along the front of the berth.
- The reclamation project, at Te Awaparahi Bay to the east of the container terminal, continues and has now grown to more than five hectares.
- The new crane arrived this month and will be assembled on the western end of the container terminal. It is expected to be operational in August 2014.

Want to find out more?
