Lyttelton Harbour Review is a 100% voluntary community newsletter initiative developed after the February 2011 earthquake. It's a Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre initiative produced by Chairperson Wendy Everingham and Committee Member Jenny-Lee Love.

The objective of the Lyttelton Harbour Review is to help keep local residents informed with what is going on in the wider Lyttelton Harbour community. Of course the success of the Lyttelton Harbour Review could not be possible without the ongoing support and enthusiasm from the wider community.

A big thank you goes out to everyone who sends information; is willing to be interviewed or lets us know what might be happening in the neighbourhood. The Lyttelton Harbour Review project would not be possible without you all.

If you have an event, topic, sport announcement, fundraiser or cause that you would like to share with the harbour community, then Wendy or Jenny-Lee would love to hear from you:

Reserve Management Committees

Why we need Reserve Management Plans.

There are fifteen Reserve Management Committees on the Peninsula and most date back to the former Banks Peninsula District Council. Around Lyttelton Harbour we have five, Diamond Harbour, Cass Bay, Lyttelton Reserves, Lyttelton Recreation Ground and Allandale. Some of the committees function well whilst others are not quite so optimal. Recently representatives from all the committees got together in Little River to discuss their future and talk about the framework in which they operate. There appeared to be clear operational differences between committees but an overriding consensus that the committees were responsible for the governance and daily operational management of the reserves.

I have been a member of the Lyttelton Reserves Management Committee for the last three years. This means I am part of a community governance team looking after Urumau and Whakaraupo Reserves. During my first term I've been learning and having hands on experience re planting, weeding and maintenance. Tasks for Urumau Reserve have been guided via a Reserve Development Plan that was commissioned several years ago by the Community Board. Whakaraupo Reserve has no formal development or management plan.

What I didn't comprehend when I joined the committee was the structure around it. I'd say myself and most of the people on the committee had little comprehension of how it all fitted together. The induction for new people provided by Council staff was limited and didn't really make things clear. After three years of confused operation, much delving and general observations I'm a lot wiser and finally see what the framework is supposed to be and how our committee should operate.

Reserve Management Committees are part of the Christchurch City Council. In fact, they are sub-committees of the local Community Board. They are not advisory committees like most within the council framework. Their authority comes via the City Council in its requirement to carry out certain provisions within the Reserve Management Act. They are a rare example of council deciding to pass control to the local community which in effect means that the community elected members are the managers in charge of the day to day operations and governance of their particular reserves and council staff are there to support committee aims. This has not been especially clear for some staff that have never had to work this way. Community Boards from suburban Christchurch wards do not operate like this.

For committees to be effective they should have a community developed framework and this is guided by a publicly consulted Reserve Management Plan that has been commissioned by the Community Board. These plans provide the frameworks guiding the committee about the activities they are approved to undertake. A management plan is a very comprehensive document which outlines all the features of the reserve and intended development activities. All residents of the local communities must have the opportunity to have a say. The reserves after all are community assets.

Unfortunately, some reserves have not had this work done. In the case of Urumau and Whakaraupo in Lyttelton this has led to a vacuum and some well-meaning people, unintentionally have gone off and done work in the Reserve where there isn't official approval from the wider community. Without a clear framework for the future, it is difficult for committee members to govern cohesively. Effectively outside experts are permitted to take control. In Urumau Reserve this has meant mountain bike trails and eventing circuits are being developed within the pine forest without knowledge of the wider community but seemingly sanctioned by council staff. In Whakaraupo it has meant new tracks have been formed by individuals who thought it was a good idea. There has been no community input into this activity they just appeared. Not being clear on the framework has led to some unfortunate outcomes. With proper plans we'd all be a lot more effective, both committee and staff would have clearer and more transparent objectives enabling our community resources to be managed more democratically.

To rectify this shortcoming Pam Richardson, the current Akaroa Wairewa Community Board Chair has stated that Reserve Management Plans will be a high priority for consideration for the new Banks Peninsula Community Board.

In the meantime what is to happen? Is unauthorised work to be put on hold until Management Plans are developed or is the community going to be asked approve work that's already been done?

Lyttelton- Market Town A New Market Starts

On the third Saturday of every month another market has begun in Lyttelton. Based at the LAF (Lyttelton Arts Factory) The Lyttelton Healing Heaven Market will be open from 10-4pm. This is a locally inspired and run event. Founder Dawn Cowan is what many locals would call a "Real Lytteltonian" having been born in the town and living here most of her life.

Dawn has always been fascinated in alternative therapies and coupled with her desire to help people feel good about life and themselves she has opened this trading place where alternative therapy practitioners and people who have products that enhance your wellbeing can come and trade.

"I think that there is a lot of healing needed in our area especially since the earthquakes. People need other ways to deal with their issues other than just going to the doctor and being numbed and dumbed down with pharmaceutical medicines" she said. She believes the medical profession is only one port of call. "We are complex beings operating on many levels, mind, body and soul and this market will provide some more options for people" she said.

"Having everything under the one roof makes it easy for people to explore lots of things" she said. The first market was run a couple of weeks ago on a rare bleak and raining Saturday. Despite the weather the event was very well supported and that gave her the confidence to make this a regular feature on the Lyttelton Market Scene.

Naturally Dawn is a stallholder as well as the market organiser. Dawn's stall focuses on healing oils. Nothing really new in this concept as oils have been used for 1000's of years to treat the human body. "Health has always come from nature for indigenous people, we are really just catching up with that idea," she said.

She's working with a company called Doterra. The more she talks about this group the more it sounds in line with many Lyttelton people's philosophy of life.

The company sources most of its oils from third world countries, paying local people via co-ops decent wages. The group as a whole then reinvests extra surpluses into projects that help people directly on the ground where they live. This has resulted in improving schools, building medical clinics etc. Doterra has been running for eight years. Beginning with three oils they are now supplying over 60. Amazingly they even source one oil from New Zealand. Douglas Fir Tree oil is sourced from wilding pines near Queenstown. It's great that a weed is being used in this way to provide a product of value.

At the market place you'll find all sorts of therapies, treatments and things to improve and support your wellbeing. At the first market day some of the practitioners to attend were Janet Taylor who came along to introduce Orthobionomy, Peter Harper from Diamond Harbour provided Oric Healing, Raine Clark introduced traditional Maori Healing, Annie Durya, another successful expo creator and an inspiration to Dawn attended from Reiki Relax, and Mathew Spietz had a beautiful display of Crystals and jewellery.

Next time around there will be probably others you will recognise. The market is open to anyone who has a treatment for healing or wellness.

If you would like more information or are keen to have a stall, please contact Dawn. Stalls cost $40 for a 2*2 metre site. In line with the philosophy that you always put something back into the place you operate from, each market day Dawn will have a raffle and the proceeds will be donated to various community organisations in the area.

Piece of History Anchored in Lyttelton

At the top of one of Lyttelton's steepest streets, an anchor buried two metres underground was the last thing SCIRT's Fulton Hogan team expected to dig up, even in the charming portside town.

The anchor was unearthed whilst SCIRT's Fulton Hogan team was carrying out repairs to the wastewater, storm water and water supply networks throughout Lyttelton and the Bays. It was near the peak of Hawkhurst Road, whilst working in close proximity to a brick barrel storm water pipe from 1885, that Fulton Hogan and subcontractor EDR discovered the large 1.6m cast iron anchor.

Work was immediately stopped for archaeologist Peter Mitchel to step in and assess the situation. Anchors are quite hard to date, but according to Mitchel the general rule is wrought iron anchors are dated early 1800's, whilst cast iron or steel anchors are dated late 1800s. "It appears to be an admiralty anchor with a sliding stock. It could have been used for either a small vessel or spare anchor for kedging."

Laurence Fabian owns the land where the anchor was found and was thrilled to learn he now also owns a small piece of history. Fabian's family has always been tied to the Lyttelton community, with his great aunt being the original owner of the Lyttelton Ice Cream Parlour. Fabian had heard rumours that his land was once a storage yard for ship parts, but hadn't paid much mind to the rumour considering the steep location. "Potentially the rumours weren't far off the truth," Fabian said.

Fabian is captivated by local history and wanted this discovery to be part of something bigger than his own backyard. This is where deep sea diver, David Tattle, and his nationally renowned private collection step in. Tattle is a commercial diver of 55 years, travelling from one remote area to another to collect, restore and display a collection of shipwrecked treasures. With the permission of Fabian, Tattle's distinguished collection now also includes a piece of buried treasure as opposed to his usual dazzling deep sea discoveries.

Lyttelton's Junior Reporter

Welcome to the newest member of the Lyttelton Review team. Kayden Leftly is a pupil from Lyttelton Primary School and he's currently the schools reporter. We came across one of his stories and thought it was so good that we decided to ask him to join our team. He's happily agreed to share his stories about his school with the Lyttelton Review.

Kayden enjoys reading and writing. This is really reflected in his writing. We hope you enjoy his first story about a Wriggly New Business.

Lyttel Worm Co

A Wiggly New Business at Lyttelton Primary

Kayden Leftly — August 1, 2016

As an enrichment project at Lyttelton Primary, a group of students has teamed up with Melanie Morris to create a wiggly business idea.

As the Lyttelton Primary School reporter, it was just lucky that I decided to join Melanie Morris' worm group and was asked to do a report on this Lyttel business idea. Lyttel Worm Co is a small business idea that was dreamed up by a team of LPS students along with Melanie Morris, an expert on nurturing and building small businesses. As Lyttel Worm Co, our aim is to create a functional worm farm, sell off worms and their castings and therefore, build a business.

So why would anyone want to buy worms, you ask? Worms are very powerful to the environment, as they don't just eat most of your food scraps, but also excrete a rich fertilizer that is good for the soil or growing plants in.

Some of our members are currently working on a website and our team has a domain name secured, so we are on the verge of going public. We are also working on hoodies, packaging for our products and the list goes on.

I think that this is an amazing opportunity to learn about how to build and run a successful company and is fun and exciting at the same time. Although we are on a roll, we would love to have some sponsors so if you can donate or tell someone about us, then please do!!

Thanks, Kayden

How safe is our water?

A CCC Update

The contamination of Havelock North's water supply has raised questions about the safety of water supplies across the country.

Could Christchurch's water supply be vulnerable to contamination?

We put some questions to John Mackie, who is Head of Three Waters and Waste at Christchurch City Council. Here is what he had to say:\

How safe is Christchurch's water supply?

In Christchurch we're fortunate to have access to a reliable supply of high quality drinking water, most of which is sourced from underground. Most of our groundwater sources have achieved the highest possible rating for groundwater and is regularly monitored.

All of Christchurch's groundwater sources apart from one are rated as being at very low risk of contamination. The Northwest Christchurch groundwater supply is not at the same level and the Council has plans in place to upgrade this source by June 2018. This source supplies about 80,000 people.

How often does the Council test the water?

The Council tests the water daily in large distribution areas in its accredited laboratory and less frequently in areas where smaller numbers are supplied. All secure groundwater sources and reservoirs are tested monthly. Water from shallow bores is tested more frequently (eg Burnside is tested daily). The Council is not responsible for monitoring water quality in individual properties that collect rainwater in tanks or have their own private bores.

What about Banks Peninsula?

Many sites in Banks Peninsula, such as Akaroa and Little River, rely on surface water from streams for the Council-supplied water. These sources are treated with chlorine.

Is E.coli tested for?

Yes. E.coli is easy to detect and can be detected within a short amount of time, usually within 24 hours. The presence of E.coli is an indicator of faecal contamination of the water and means that other harmful pathogens could be present. Not all strains of E.coli are harmful to humans though; some are beneficial and naturally occur in the gut.

Has E-coli been detected in the water?

In the past year there have been nine incidents resulting in 14 positive tests for E. coli in the water from more than 5000 tests. This is much lower than the allowable limit.

What was done when the positive result was found?

When the contamination was discovered, health authorities were immediately notified, the source was isolated where possible, and measures taken to identify the cause and to treat the supply with chlorine or to flush the system. We also notified people in the affected areas who might have detected the presence of chlorine in the water.

Who oversees the testing regime?

The testing regime and frequency is approved by the Canterbury District Health Board's Community and Public Health division. Information about positive test results and reports of illness to the Medical Officer of Health are matched to help identify issues as early as possible.

If water is found to be contaminated, do you have a plan for dealing with it?

We have a plan for how we would deal with any positive test for contamination, including immediately isolating the source while the contamination is confirmed and treated. The plan includes details on how we will get information out to the public as soon as possible.

What is the Council doing to maintain the quality of water supply?

The Council is in the process of upgrading bores in the Northwest of the city to deeper wells to reduce the risk of contamination. This work is on track to be completed by the end of the 2018 financial year.

Consultation to shape Suburban Parking Policy

The Council is seeking community input on how we should manage our suburban road space through a survey on suburban parking that opens today.

The survey explores different ways of addressing parking demand in our growing suburban areas.

Richard Osborne, Head of Planning and Strategic Transport says, "Our suburban streets play an important role for both residents and the city as a whole. They provide space for people to move around the city, green space, places to meet and socialise, and they often provide parking.

"The Council manages more than 2,300km of roads so getting the balance right between these competing demands for road space is an important challenge."

The survey on suburban parking is the first stage towards developing a Christchurch-wide approach to address demand for public space in suburban streets and Council car parks. The overall aim is to provide more innovative and consistent solutions to parking issues that make suburban areas more pleasant and cohesive places to be.

"The survey asks the community to consider issues such as commercial parking in suburban areas, mobility parking, and houses with no off-street parking, and the Council's role in managing these issues," says Mr Osborne.

"We are keen to hear about different ways to resolve parking issues and any issues we may have missed."

Feedback and ideas put forward through the survey will shape the development of a draft Suburban Parking Policy to better manage parking on suburban streets. The draft policy will be consulted on and amended again before it is used to inform future decisions on suburban parking issues.

The survey is open until Thursday 15 September. Further information about the suburban parking consultation is available on the Council's website at ccc.govt.nz/HaveYourSay.

Call for Expressions of Interest Lyttelton Design Review Panel

The Lyttelton/Mt Herbert Community Board is seeking expressions of interest from local design professionals with qualifications in architecture and/or urban design and Community Representatives who have a good local knowledge and understanding of design and development. Panel members are to bring their design expertise to the consideration of plans and proposals for developments in Lyttelton.

The Panel will have an advisory role and consider developments which trigger restricted discretionary activity status in relation to design in the Lyttelton Character Area Overlay (of the Banks Peninsula Residential Zone) or the Commercial Banks Peninsula Zone.

Participation in the Lyttelton Design Review Panel would be voluntary, and will be on an "as needed basis" for an 18 month trial period.

To find out more, and for a copy of the draft Terms of Reference, please contact Community Board Adviser Liz Beaven 941 5602, email liz.beaven@ccc.govt.nz.

To register your expression of interest please submit a CV along with a short statement about why you would like to participate to Liz Beaven by 9 September 2016. Paula Smith, Chairperson

Lytteton Redux

This project is capturing the imagination of many Lyttelton people. On the last Sunday in August, artist and project founder Julia Holden had a fund raising event at the Lyttelton Arts Factory. She performed a live performance art piece creating, The Lyttelton Venice. The event was to show the audience what's involved in painting real life models, encourage people to get involved in her project and celebrate the portraits that she had already completed. She's looking to create over 20 portraits on modern day people becoming historical figures. They will form part of an exhibition later in the year. To date she's turned Adam Jones into Captain Thomas, David Bundy into his grandfather, Jeremy and Claire Dyer into the Godley's etc.

Advertising in the Review

Since the inception of the Lyttelton Review we have been very generous with advertising. Any one off advertisements for businesses have generally been published free. Advertisers are encouraged to make a donation to our volunteer organisation.

To be a permanently listed business in the directory and have articles written about your business we have a yearly membership fee of $165 including GST. If you would like to have a yearly listing please contact us infocentre@lyttelton.net.nz and we will forward our membership application.

Lyttelton Port Oil and Gas Berth Testing Underway

Lyttelton Port of Christchurch is planning to construct a new Oil and Gas berth as replacement for the existing berth which was severely damaged due to the Christchurch earthquakes.

LPC has today (1 September 2016) started conducting a series of tests from a floating barge in the Inner Harbour which is visible to those overlooking the area. The testing is to better understand the seabed profile to ensure an appropriate dredging operation can be conducted.

The berth will be redeveloped slightly North from its existing position and this requires some minor dredging to accommodate the vessels that will use it. All fuel for Christchurch is imported through Lyttelton Port and the oil berth is vital infrastructure needed to service the city and the region.

Constructing this new Oil and Gas berth is part of LPC's focus on providing port services that meet the region's needs and support Canterbury's long term trade growth.

LPC will provide further updates about the Oil and Gas berth development as the project proceeds.

Farewell. In memory of Rob Gendall.

Rob was the CEO of Lyttelton Engineering. He passed away suddenly last month. We just wanted to acknowledge his wonderful contributions in Lyttelton. For many years in the early 2000's he was both a board member of the Lyttelton Information and Resource Centre Trust and the Lyttelton Harbour Business Association. He was incredibly generous with his time, money and company services in this community. Nothing was ever too much trouble. His company is a shining example how community and business can work together.

Change the conversation

Too often we hear people in poverty being blamed for their 'poor choices'. Children don't get to choose their circumstances, and in dealing with it often show strength, courage and dignity beyond their years. Variety has started a new campaign to get New Zealanders talking about child poverty and what we can do. They asked kiwi kids living in poverty to write in with their stories, and prominent New Zealanders have read some of these in videos.

SEWN is asking you to help change the conversation about poverty by sharing these videos:

Sir Graham Henry - <https://youtube/bYpHkSVmO4U>

Toni Street - https://youtube/9l_Bx7kWyKs

Taika Waititi - https://youtube/my0_Mbkr1f8

Please choose one today to share on your Facebook page, and in a few days time share another, and then the last one. Let's see if we can get everyone hearing the voices of these children and thinking about how things can be changed.

The campaign also has videos of prominent people talking about possible solutions and ways to help. We hope that once you've shared the videos above, you'll share some of the solutions videos too.

You can find out more about the campaign at <http://www.dearnz.co.nz/>.

New Oral Surgery at Charity Hospital

Residents of Lyttelton Harbour Eligible

A new oral surgery will launch later this year at the Canterbury Charity Hospital Trust in Bishopdale as an extension to their current dental service to include wisdom teeth extractions.

The two new clinics will be supported by four new volunteer oral surgeons who have joined the hospital team to support our current volunteer dentists with more complex procedures. The addition of an extra chair means that hygienist and dentures services will also be offered.

Over the years many doctors, nurses, dentists, other health professionals and public-spirited people have volunteered their time and expertise to help make the charity hospital a success and enable them to provide their services for free.

In addition to the current dental services for WINZ clients only, the Charity Hospital also offers colonoscopy, general surgery (abdominal & lower colorectal surgery), gynaecology and women's health, ophthalmology (eyes), orthopaedics (hands, elbows, minor shoulder), vascular surgery (varicose veins), vasectomies and counselling for adults.

It costs over $15,000 a week to run the Canterbury Charity Hospital and, as the hospital does not receive any Government funding, it relies on funding from a range of trust, and organisations, along with donations from the public.

To access the Charity Hospital's surgical and medical services, patients have to have received a letter from the public health system saying they do not make the waiting list and a referral from their family doctor. As well as that they do not have medical insurance or the means to pay for their operation privately.

As part of the Canterbury Charity Hospital's fundraising, the Trust is hosting two events this year:

A Night at the Races

On Friday 14 October, A Night at the Races is being held at Addington Raceway and promised to be a fun night out including a delicious buffet dinner. Tickets cost $45 per guest.

F.V. ENDEAVOUR

STARK BROS LTD AND OCEAN FISHERIES LTD are proud to present the FV ENDEAVOUR, for launching today, the 30th August 2016.

The name "ENDEAVOUR" has strong historical links to Lyttelton, and its dictionary definition (to attempt to achieve a goal, earnest, prolonged and industrious effort) also in many ways reflect the Stark Family's Business attitudes, achievements and aspirations.

Launch days are very special occasions, the culmination of a huge effort in design and building of the boat now presented here today, likewise the actual launch celebrations are also carefully thought out to provide special significance.

Today, Jean Stark will perform the official launching duties. On preparing for launch day, we identified Jean had not previously launched a vessel. Given Dave Stark (Frank and Ralph's brother) had 50+ years working for Stark Bros this possible omission needed to be investigated — we found Frank Stark had asked Jean many years ago but she was too busy with six children — so had said NO. This time Andrew Stark managed to convince Jean she was still up to the task and secure a YES — a very fitting tribute to the four generations of Stark Family attending this ceremony today.

Endeavour represents at least the 43rd commercial boat longer than 10 metres built by Stark Bros, and is the second biggest by displacement weight behind the Frontier at 146 tonnes.

The ENDEAVOUR is fully equipped with a variable pitch propeller, onboard salt water ice maker, computer controlled split hydraulic winches with auto scrolling, and will fish alongside our other vessels — FV Frontier, FV Legacy and FV Nessie J on the East Coast South Island, fishing depths from 10m to about 500m.

With 58 years of Stark Bros history, lots of boats built, and far more ships dry docked for repair, we sincerely trust that the majority of the stories about Stark Bros would reflect the honesty, integrity and hard working nature of the Starks and their team of loyal staff — and of course their fishermen.

We would welcome your inspection of this new vessel at the wharf today, or indeed at any time in the future.

Stories of Banks Peninsula

PUBLIC PROGRAMMES 9 September–2 October 2016

Film Screening:

Te Heke Omaramataka 2016

18 September, 11am and 1pm

Free event, limited seating

Join us for this special screening of a film following the Te Maihāroa whānau and friends, in the summer of 2016 as they retrace the footsteps of their Pōua Great Grandfather and prophet Te Maihāroa, to celebrate 139 years since he led his people on Te Heke (1977-79). Te Maihāroa opposed the sale of Māori land to settlers, and with wider kaumātua support, he believed that the interior of the South Island hinterland was never sold and remained ancestral land.

Te Heke Omaramataka was filmed and produced by Bronwyn Judge, longtime friend of Auntie Sissie Te Maihāroa-Dodds, who is a great granddaughter of Te Maihāroa.

Kaiwaiata:

Music from Banks Peninsula

24 September, 7pm

Cost: $22 general admission

Bookings essential,
<http://tinyurl.com/kaiwaiata>

Acclaimed musician Ariana Tikao will perform waiata from and inspired by Banks Peninsula, accompanied by Mahina-ina Kai (taoka pūoro) and Jon Hooker (guitar).

This intimate concert will feature traditional stories of the area, as well as modern compositions which serve as retellings of old kōrero, of love, betrayal, survival – an expression of unique identity.

The performance will include a 'Q and A' session afterwards about the instruments and waiata. It will be a special one-off event, not to be missed.

Spoon Tingling Creations:

Curry From Scratch Workshop

Diamond Harbour School
Sunday 11th September at 11:00am.

Learn to make Thai Curry Paste and Sri Lankan Curry Powder, along with curries and condiments.

You will get to eat a Thai Red Curry for lunch and to take home a curry paste, a curry spice blend as well as a sample of a beef curry. Please bring two jars and a take home container with you.

Cost $50 per person. All ingredients included.

Contact Maria Lee on 329 3359 for bookings.

A percentage of the cost goes toward Diamond Harbour School fundraising efforts.

Pohatu penguins fundraising event for the Akaroa hospital.

On the 1st of October, join our Evening penguin safari at a special price of $50 per person with all proceeds going to the Akaroa hospital.

It is the middle of the breeding season so it is the perfect time to see the largest colony of Little penguins on mainland NZ in full swing.

Tour includes:

- Pick up at 5.00pm from Pohatu penguins office at Unit 2, 8 rue Balguerrie situated just behind the BNZ bank.
- Scenic drive to and from Pohatu/Flea bay with photo stops along the way and up to 700 metres standing on the edge of Akaroa extinct volcano crater rim.
- Once arrived at the bay and by small groups you will learn about the conservation that we do and see some penguins up close in their nesting sites.
- With camouflage gear and binoculars, we will then watch them interacting on the water and jumping on the rocks with darkness rising.
- As we are offering a natural viewing without any human disturbance or artificial lighting we will drive you back to Akaroa before it starts to get too dark to see anything.
- Expect a return around 8.00pm.

For more information and booking the tour you can visit our website www.pohatu.co.nz/Penguin+Tours or give us a call on 021 246 9556/03 034 8542

Lyttelton Harbour Catchment Management Plan with Bianca Sullivan from ECan

Considering an area from the top of the hills, down the streams to the harbour, and out to the heads, what defines an ecologically & culturally healthy water catchment?

Is it having strong populations of mahinga kai such as shellfish, finfish, & karengo (edible seaweed)? Is it seeing Hector's dolphins regularly in the inner harbour? Is it less erosion & silt in our waterways during rainy periods?

What would make our harbour healthier from your point of view? Now is the time to submit your observations & ideas at HealthyHarbour.org.nz or attend one of the community workshops from Sept 20-23rd (See events below for details).

A science advisory group has been formed to collate current data & document the marine environment along with current land use and erosion, stream and storm water quality, the cultural importance of aspects of our harbour region's environment. This brings together the community, the many organisations who are currently monitoring our harbour, and those who have active projects in and around our harbour, so we may all work together towards a healthy harbour.

Representatives from the five primary organisations (CRC, LPC, Te Hapū o Ngāti Wheke, CCC, & Ngāi Tahu) are meeting fortnightly to create a clear picture of the current state of the harbour, and determine what projects could improve the harbour's health from all viewpoints. Then in June 2017, the group will become a working group to implement the ideas.

Starting with projects that may have a large positive impact with a small budget & time frame, and working through to fulfilling the larger visions of a healthy harbour as defined by the community's input, it is intended that this group will be an ongoing group collaborating on projects for continual improvement in harbour health.

LHBA Committee members

The LHBA is looking for new committee members to help shape the direction of the association. We meet on the second Tuesday of each month from 5:30 - 6:30pm in the Structex meeting room (the next meeting is on Sept 13th). Any member of the LHBA can join the committee - no experience or formal position required. Two particular projects that could use some attention are quarterly evening member events, and someone to help with advocacy matters when they arise.

LHBA AGM

We are looking at Tuesday Sept 20th at 5:30pm as the date and time for the annual LHBA AGM. We'll let you know the venue & details when they are confirmed.

COURAGE TENACITY COMRADESHIP

The New Zealand Antarctic Society's Canterbury Branch invites you to welcome international Antarcticans and share in the unveiling of a bronze sled dog statue to celebrate Lyttelton's enduring Antarctic links.

©Trish Bowles

Please join us in Albion Square, Lyttelton by 2.30pm, Saturday 1st October 2016 for a short ceremony .

Lyttelton's safe harbour was named Te Whakaraupo by Maori explorers before James Cook named its surrounding volcanic cone Bank's Island as he sailed past to find the Great Southern Continent. Later expeditions by Scott and Shackleton, explored the icy continent, while whalers, then fishermen, explored its icy oceans. Lyttelton has earned its place as one of only five Antarctic Ports.

Mawson's Aurora berthed on her return from the Sub-Antarctic, America brought steel ships to support air exploration by Admiral Byrd and construction of bases. This past year Lyttelton has welcomed ice-ready ships and staff from Italy, Korea, China, Great Britain and Russia.

Dogs supporting the early expeditions were held on Quail Island. Early explorers soon learnt that dogs could break new ground, work hard and persevere, yet rarely broke down and were joyful companions. Their courage, tenacity and comradeship, 1900-1987, symbolise Antarctic exploration today.

This new work of art, a full sized bronze statue of an Antarctic sled dog, is a gift to the people of Lyttelton and Christchurch by the Antarctic Society's Canterbury Branch with guidance from a local committee. Sculpted by renowned local artist Mark Whyte and named 'Hector' by a local student, this statue is a strong yet playful celebration of the port's Antarctic links, fortitude and community spirit.

LYTTELTON HARBOUR TIMEBANK

September 2015 marked the tenth year in the life of the Lyttelton Harbour Timebank. To celebrate we thought it would be great to have the founder of Timebanking, Edgar Cahn, visit from the USA. With no budget Margaret Jefferies set about to make this happen. Letters of support came from various sources and the next thing Air New Zealand was sponsoring his flight over. An amazing Timebanking Christchurch Hui followed and then everything was capped off with a terrific member party at the Lyttelton Top Club.

Timebanking has made its mark in New Zealand. The world is looking in our direction to see how we do it. As a result of Edgar's visit the Governance team in the Lyttelton Mount Herbert Ward on the City Council joined and we had our first story published in the UK Guardian.
