Lyttelton Harbour Review is a 100% voluntary community newsletter initiative developed after the February 2011 earthquake. It's a Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre initiative produced by Chairperson Wendy Everingham and Committee Member Jenny-Lee Love.

The objective of the Lyttelton Harbour Review is to help keep local residents informed with what is going on in the wider Lyttelton Harbour community. Of course the success of the Lyttelton Harbour Review could not be possible without the ongoing support and enthusiasm from the wider community.

A big thank you goes out to everyone who sends information; is willing to be interviewed or lets us know what might be happening in the neighbourhood. The Lyttelton Harbour Review project would not be possible without you all.

If you have an event, topic, sport announcement, fundraiser or cause that you would like to share with the harbour community, then Wendy or Jenny-Lee would love to hear from you:

Growing Public Speakers

Public speaking is generally regarded as something most people fear – and avoid – until they are forced into the limelight to deliver a speech at a family, work or community event.

Teddington business owner, David Templeman, identified with this situation when he started a new sales business 20 years ago. Rather than muddling through a bad sales pitch, he looked to Toastmasters to help enhance both his public speaking and general communication skills – and he has never looked back.

"When I started out, I was a typical example of someone who disliked speaking in front of people. But I found that Toastmasters provided a safe, encouraging and constructive environment in which to learn and develop the skills to do it. Not only do your public speaking and presentation skills get better, but it improves your ability to generally communicate well with others."

Over several years of practice, support and mentoring through his local Toastmasters club, Templeman got so good at the art of public speaking that he became New Zealand's champion speaker winning the 2004 Toastmasters International Speech Contest. Through this, he represented New Zealand that year at the World Championships of Public Speaking in Nevada – which involved speaking to audiences of up to 2,500 people.

"Most people join Toastmasters to help them get through a significant speech they need to deliver – usually for an important work presentation or a family wedding," says Templeman. "However the making of a good speaker takes time, and many people find that once they've conquered their initial fear they want continue to improve. They realise that Toastmasters offers a lot more than just putting together that one speech – they've built confidence through enhancing their communication and interaction skills overall. They've also learned listening and feedback skills. This all helps with everyday life activities such as job interviews, putting forward ideas at meetings, managing difficult conversations or being a salesperson!"

Another significant aspect of Toastmasters is leadership development with the opportunity to take-on prescribed roles starting at club level. This includes learning meeting, organisation and presentation skills, and each role is well supported through Toastmasters' extensive leadership programme.

Again, Templeman has excelled at this aspect with his recent appointment as District Director

(New Zealand) for Toastmaster International. This role represents and leads 5,500 kiwi Toastmasters from 280 Clubs around the country, and is New Zealand's voice at the world's top table of Toastmasters International.

One would be forgiven for thinking that Templeman's Toastmasters' role could be a full-time occupation, but it's only half the story! He and his wife, Celina (a Toastmaster Division Director covering 42 Clubs in the top half of the South Island) own and operate a commercial flower business on their 850 hectare family property in Teddington. Growing Alstroemeria, Chrysanthemums, Limonium, and Spring bulbs, their business is currently one of the largest in New Zealand for Alstroemeria, with over 2600 plants producing approximately 300,000 stems a year undercover.

When he's not nurturing or harvesting flowers, Templeman is still on the speaking circuit of sorts visiting Toastmaster Clubs across New Zealand and he is an active member of his local club, Bay Harbour Toastmasters. The only difference now, is that he no longer needs to practice his speeches on the family's sheep!

Bay Harbour Toastmasters – David and Celina Templeman's local Club - has an Open Night for people interested in knowing more about Toastmasters and an opportunity to hear David and other top New Zealand Toastmasters in action, on Wednesday 26 October, 6.30pm-8.00pm, Lyttelton Community Board Rooms, 25 Canterbury Street, Lyttelton. More information about Bay Harbour Toastmasters/Open Night: Jann Meehan, 021 263 1040 or email: jann@jannmeehan.co.nz

Antarctic Gateway

Sculpture Gifted to the City

A four-year project celebrating Lyttelton's links to Antarctica culminated in the unveiling and gifting of the Sled Dog sculpture "Hector". The gift from the New Zealand Antarctic Society – Canterbury branch was accepted on behalf of Christchurch City by the Mayor Lianne Dalziel.

The vision and inspiration for the celebration of Lyttelton's Antarctic links was Sue Stubenvoll, a Lyttelton resident and member of the Canterbury Branch of the Antarctic Society. Her tenacity ensured that key locals and officials were engaged with the project from the start. Her determination has ensured that Lyttelton does have a visible modern day Antarctic presence.

The projects legacies include:

A wonderful book "Dogs of the Vastness" –the story of the ice dogs of Antarctica written by Ben Brown. An amazing bronze sculpture of an Antarctic sled dog by Mark Whyte

An informative leaflet for visitors on our Antarctic history. This is available at the Information Centre.

Naming of the Sled Dog. Lyttelton Primary School children were involved in a naming competition. Hanna Hollister's suggestion "Hector" was the name chosen.

Just why is Lyttelton so special in the world of Antarctician's? "There are so many Antarctic relationships to celebrate in Lyttelton. Fishing vessels come and go from this port, current day scientists travel on icebreakers, our provedor's supply the ships, and we have those amazing links to the heroic explorers" Sue said.

The main focus of the community celebration was our new Sled Dog – Hector. "Why are we celebrating a dog? "People love dogs and they remind us of the courage, comradeship and tenacity required for past and present Antarctic journeys. They also embolden team work and team spirit essential ingredients for tackling this great continent"

Sue was the official MC for the celebration. She mentioned quite a few people who were inspirations for the project. Baden Norris, Lyttelton's Emeritus Curator of Antarctic History and Lyttelton Museum founder. Bob MC Kerrow who ensured the last Antarctic dogs were saved and he repatriated them with his own funds back to Minnesota. John Bennett the skipper of the San Aspiring who gave up spare fishing space to return the giant squid back to New Zealand for scientific purposes and the late Rob Gendall from Lyttelton Engineering who so generously supported this project. Not only did he share sea links via the dry dock but his grandparents ran the Royal Hotel.

Mayor Lianne Dalziel gratefully accepted the New Zealand Antarctic Society's gift. "This celebrates our enduring links between Lyttelton Port and the great southern continent" she said.

The Mayor, Sue Stubenvoll, Father Dan Doyle (Antarctic Chaplin) Kopa Lee (Kaumatua Rapaki) then walked over to the site of Hector- The Sled Dog on the corner of London and Canterbury Streets. Covered in a symbolic Antarctic tent, the sculpture was officially unveiled. Sculptor Mark Whyte was invited to share the moment and the most realistic looking Antarctic dog was displayed.

Take a close look and you'll see his name engraved in his collar and if you look closely at his nose you'll even see one of his battle scars on his nose. Hector points to Quail Island in memory of the dogs and horses that were trained and quarantined on the Island during the peak of Antarctic exploration from 1901-1929.

Proposed Lyttelton channel deepening resource consent application started processing by Environment Canterbury

Environment Canterbury has commenced processing Lyttelton Port of Christchurch's (LPC) resource consent application to extend the existing shipping channel in Lyttelton Harbour/Whakaraupō.

LPC has requested that its resource consent application be publicly notified to allow any person to lodge a submission. Environment Canterbury will publicly notify LPC's application in the coming weeks and will call for submissions from the general public on the project in the coming months.

Dredging to create and maintain a shipping navigation channel has occurred in Lyttelton Harbour/Whakaraupō since 1880. The harbour adjacent to the Port has a natural depth of five to seven metres, but successive dredging over the years has created a shipping channel with a depth of 12.5 metres. To accommodate larger vessels LPC is proposing to lengthen the navigation channel by approximately 6.5 kilometres, widen it by 20 metres and increase its depth by five to six metres.

LPC Chief Executive Peter Davie says the proposed dredging project represents an investment of up to $120 million by LPC in the future viability of the Port, its ability to continue to attract major international shipping lines and accommodate larger cargo ships.

"LPC handles billions of dollars of exports annually through the Port – that's overseas earnings that are crucial for Canterbury. We have had a 50 percent increase in container volumes in the last five years. We handle more than half the South Island's container volume and over 70 percent of imports," he said.

"With a 50 percent forecast in trade growth through Lyttelton, it's important that this dredging project occurs – not just for the Port but for the Canterbury and wider New Zealand economy."

While LPC is committed to future-proofing the Port to secure Lyttelton's future as the South Island's major international trade gateway, it won't be at the expense of its environmental responsibilities, adds Davie.

The proposed dredging will see approximately 18 million cubic metres of spoil removed from the harbour floor in a minimum of two stages and deposited over a 2.5 x 5 kilometre disposal site 6 km offshore from Godley Head. A second offshore ground for maintenance disposal is also being established 2.25km off Godley Head. Both sites have been selected for their suitability and low environmental impact. These sites avoid sediment plumes drifting back to the rocky shore.

The resource consent application also includes dredging in preparation for the proposed reclamation at the Port's Te Awaparahi Bay and long term maintenance dredging of the deeper channel.

Davie says the environmental monitoring programme implemented will be the most extensive ever undertaken on a dredge project in New Zealand.

"We have invested more than $3 million engaging a range of expert scientists to investigate the effects the proposed dredging and ongoing maintenance might have. This includes specialists in marine ecology, sea birds and marine mammals, sediment, wave and tidal modelling, and water quality monitoring."

Special consideration has been given to the presence of an important population of the endangered Hector's Dolphin in Lyttelton Harbour and Pegasus Bay. The Cawthron Institute, New Zealand's largest independent science organisation, has been commissioned to undertake studies on the impact of the dredging on dolphins. This work is continuing, but at this early stage the science indicates that it is unlikely there will be any significant impact on dolphins or their food sources.

LPC has installed 14 real-time monitoring buoys throughout Lyttelton Harbour (picture attached), Port Levy and offshore marine areas to give continuous information on water quality. Parameters such as water turbidity (water clarity), pH, temperature and nutrient levels will be constantly measured during the baseline period. A summary of the data will be sent to a dedicated website every 15 minutes. When the system is up and running data will be publically accessible 24 hours a day.

Environmental monitoring will continue prior to the dredging work commencing, during, and for a period following its completion. A cultural impact assessment to identify and mitigate potential effects of the project on mana whenua values and interests has also been undertaken.

LPC continues to work closely with representatives from the community, regional and city councils, iwi, environmental and commercial groups to consult on the proposed project. To date more than 20 meetings have been held to update groups and seek their feedback on the dredging plans.

LPC's team will be available to discuss the project at a community event at LPC's Information Centre Port Talk, London Street, Lyttelton on Saturday 29 October 10.30am-1pm.

It is expected that a decision on the consent application will be made by the end of 2017. If consent is granted with conditions acceptable to all parties, dredging is expected to commence in early 2018 and be completed later that year.

The proposed plans, expert reports and videos of the channel deepening project can be viewed at: <http://www.lpc.co.nz/port-development/dredging/> and any feedback can be sent to feedback@lpc.co.nz

New marina to be built at Lyttelton

Lyttelton Port of Christchurch (LPC) is building a new marina at the sheltered site of the inner harbour pile moorings in Lyttelton Harbour – the first stage of a wider regeneration plan to improve public access and amenities in the area.

The new marina will be Canterbury's only walk-on floating marina and on completion of Stages 1 and 2 it will feature up to 200 berths for yachts and powerboats. Building will commence in the first half of 2017.

LPC has used the name Dampier Bay when referring to the existing inner harbour pile moorings and landside area. Working closely with Te Hapū o Ngāti Wheke Rūnanga, LPC had the opportunity to rename the area to reflect iwi cultural values. The area is to be formally renamed Te Ana, reflecting the significance of Te Ana o Huikai, a cultural site closely associated with Dampier Bay. Te Ana o Huikai was traditionally known as a sheltered rest area for safe anchorage, with bountiful fish and shell fisheries.

The new marina will be called Te Ana and its development will incorporate mana whenua landscape values and history.

"The project is a significant milestone for the Port and the wider Lyttelton community," says LPC Chief Executive Peter Davie.

"A modern marina capable of accommodating more of Canterbury's recreational boating community is well overdue," says Davie.

"Public feedback gained during consultation for the Port Lyttelton Plan indicated a strong desire for a more attractive and accessible waterfront. Te Ana Marina is LPC's first step towards regenerating the inner harbour as a vibrant community-focused destination, with direct connections to the Lyttelton township."

Stage 1 will see the existing inner harbour pile moorings removed and in excess of 130 berths built. A promenade linking the marina to the Lyttelton town centre, via existing access ways, will also be developed, along with a walk way to the marina from Voelas Road. Associated landside infrastructure such as parking, a marina office, washrooms and other facilities will be progressively completed through 2017 and early 2018.

Stage 2 will see the marina expanded and development of the landside area to provide an accessible and attractive commercial precinct. This subsequent development will be subject to commercial demand and port operations.

A Registration of Interest (ROI) document will be released in mid October. Current berth holders will have first priority in securing a licence in the new marina at commercial rates. People who are not existing licensed inner harbour pile mooring berth holders can apply for a licence for a new berth, and if oversubscribed, a ballot system may take place.

"We appreciate for some existing berth holders the closing of the inner harbour pile moorings at the end of March 2017 will be disappointing and some may not choose to licence a berth in the new marina," says Davie. "LPC will work with existing berth holders where possible, to identify alternative mooring options."

Ian Cooper has moored his boats in the inner harbour pile moorings for the past 12 years, including his current yacht Lady Puluia. He's looking forward to the new marina being built, saying "it's been a long time coming".

"There's good boating to be had in and around Lyttelton that is not being tapped into because people don't have great facilities to moor their boat. This new marina will encourage other people to get into boating because there will be new facilities which are safe and comfortable. It's a great opportunity for the Canterbury boating community."

This week LPC also released its Te Ana Design Guide which provides an overview of the type of development that will take place. It has been prepared in collaboration with Te Hapū o Ngāti Wheke, Christchurch City Council and the Lyttelton community following consultation.

The document, which is publically available on LPC's website, addresses how the new buildings and public spaces in Te Ana will reflect the marine environment, local character of Lyttelton and the region's cultural heritage.

LPC will continue to liaise with the local community as the new marina project advances.

"Construction is expected to commence from the middle of 2017 and strict environmental noise control measures will be enforced and communicated to the community, alongside relevant timeframes," says Davie.

Total Marine Services (TMS), a specialist marine contracting company based in Auckland and the Bay of Islands, won a competitive process to design the new marina.

Time to Widen the Conversation? Lyttelton Mountain Bike Tracks

High above Lyttelton township in amongst the pine trees a group of local mountain bike enthusiasts have literally been chipping away year by year creating a series of mountain bike tracks of varying degrees of difficulty. Some members of the community are helping develop the tracks, some have joined the newly formed mountain bike club and others are just enjoying the tracks riding, running and walking.

There has been no formal council led community feedback on the work that is proceeding. To get a snapshot of thoughts about the tracks the Review asked for feedback. Twenty people responded.

"I think it's great that a bunch of locals have got together and created these tracks and I love the way it has also involved a lot of younger people."

"It's great for our kids to be able to start mountain biking in town rather than loading the car up and driving through the tunnel."

"It's not often I pass bikers yet due to the time of day I go up there too I guess but when I do they are happy to slow down for my crazy beasts and I tell them well done".

Our limited feedback has also highlighted a few issues for users: safety and access.

To get a wider appreciation of the network that has been evolving in Uruau Reserve we asked track development leader Daryl Warnock what his vision for the network was. He stated "The Lyttelton Mountain Bike Club's vision for the tracks in the reserve has been to develop a broad network of biking tracks that offer a range of different tracks for bikers of different skill levels. Some tracks would also be suitable for shared use with walkers and other users ".

Currently access to the entire network for all users is via a narrow curved path at the end of Foster Terrace. Brian Downey said "There is a real choke point at Foster Terrace. Signage is urgently needed to indicate that it's walk only on this access track. In fact, the track is even too narrow for shared access, a biker and walker can't pass each other on the path."

Another resident highlighted, "My only concern is whether my family and I can continue to use those narrow tracks and how we can do that safely if there are more mountain bike riders? Hopefully we can continue to share the reserve even as it gets busier."

The Mountain Bike Club has clear views on how the tracks should be used. Greg Jack, the Chair kindly supplied this map and notes for suggested track usage.

The Urumau track from Foster terrace, the 4wd Access track, the traverse track(yellow) (to the track closed sign in the forest) and the LPC Urumau track would all be suitable for shared use with some further development.

Looper and Sloanstar are the easiest MTB tracks that other users will also enjoy but need to be aware of and give way to bikers.(green)

Grommies, Stormer and Sunnyside are steeper but still tracks some other users may enjoy. Other users will need to be aware of bikers and give way. (blue)

Jackasaurus and Zombie Lurch are challenging tracks for skilled riders only and are not very suitable for non bike use due to steep terrain features incorporated in the design of them. Other users would be discouraged from using these two tracks.(black)

What are your thoughts? These tracks do not appear on the community consulted Reserve Development Plan of 2008. The Development Plan needs to be revisited. Our new Community Board has a role to play seeking the feedback from the wider community so that the work of the track makers is actually approved and enhanced with all the great suggestions this passionate community has to offer.

Contact Councillor Andrew Turner andrew.turner@ccc.govt.nz or your Community Board Members Christine Wilson Christine.Wilson@ccc.govt.nz and/or Jed O'Donoghue with your thoughts.

Naval Point Club News Youth Windsurfing Programme

The Youth Windsurfing Program is a development program for young windsurfers to come together, socialise with other keen youth windsurfers and have fun out on the beautiful Lyttelton Harbour. The course runs over the summer months on Saturday mornings from 9am until 12:30 pm, participants will be grouped according to their ability and goals, and coached by one of our qualified instructors. Throughout the summer students will build on their skills, make new friends and gain confidence on the water. Students are also encouraged to participate in club events and fun days, including regional and national championships. This season Naval Point Club is proposing a Saturday afternoon session of supervised sailing for those who want to make the most of lyttelton's great summer conditions. As well as the provided coaching, the group often organises other times to go out and spend time on the water together. Anyone is welcome to come and join, as long as they have completed the Learn to Windsurf course or have had experience.

Other events in conjunction with the YWP are Show weekend at Lake Clearwater & the Youth Windsurf Summer Camp (January 8th - 11th 2017).

The pre christmas season will be held on the dates following: Oct 22nd, 29th, Nov 5th, 19th, 26th, Dec 3rd, 10th, 17th

IMPORTANT NOTICE FOR BOATING IN CANTERBURY

Kayakers and paddleboarders will be required to wear personal floatation devices (PFDs) and have an identification number on their vessels from October 10. Environment Canterbury (ECan) passed changes to its navigation safety bylaw last week. The bylaw applies to all vessels six metres long and under, and aims to ensure consistency with national legislation. The bylaw also aimed to improve safety for all water users in Canterbury, EC...an said. Vessel identification will be the trailer registration number for those vessels on trailers.

Another Lyttelton Icon

The Top Club

It's wonderful how many community led organisations there are in Lyttelton. Each group is so passionate about what they do and each taps into a slightly different part of the general population. Steve Targus, dropped by to update the wider community on the current news from the Lyttelton Club.

Just in case you don't know, this is the club that is on the corner of London and Dublin Street. It's similar to an RSA club. You pay a membership and that entitles you to discounted prices and the use of the facilities. To make all this happen there is a volunteer committee and Steve has just been elected chair. Supporting him is Vice President Pete Bloxham and Treasurer Rob Swann and committee members Mark Hughes, Christine Wilson, Lester Wilson, Jed O'Donoghue, Ricky Foster, Ian Moore, Jane Purdue and Andrew Bennett.

Steve is keen to get the club to be the place to be for Lyttelton Community. "Over the earthquake period we were the place to be, the only bar in town", he said. "That's changed and the length of time it's taken for the repairs to get underway has been half of the problem. The good news is that's all about to change with the repair programme scheduled to get underway in March".

The Top Club is going to be totally re-vamped. For those familiar with the space, the bar is going to be re-located to the front of the building with the great views of the port. The restaurant will be where the bar is currently and the hall area is going to become a lovely outdoor BBQ grill and seating space plus a play area for children. Upstairs there will also be some commercial office space. Steve explained by making The Club smaller in size the committee hoped they would have enough money from the insurance payment to do all the repairs and upgrades planned. The repairs will be done in stages giving members the added bonus of still being able to use the facilities.

In the meantime it's business as usual. Here's Steve's selling line to sign up:

Tell your friends, why wouldn't you join?

ONLY $10 for new memberships,

FESTA brings celebration of vibrant urban creativity to Christchurch this Labour Weekend

Photographs by Peanut Productions.

FESTA 2016 has the theme We Have the Means, which focuses on making the most of the resources available to us, in terms of our people (and their skills and knowledge) and reusable materials.

There are more than 30 events that explore creative urban regeneration over the course of the weekend (21- 24 October) – from speaker sessions, activities for kids and workshops, through to dinner and dancing and the live-making of art works.

This year's main event is Lean Means – a spectacular temporary city, live for one night only on Saturday

22 October (5-11pm). 18 student studios from seven leading design and architecture schools from across Australasia will transform vacant sites in and around the Christchurch Art Gallery by transforming materials: they will design and fabricate imaginative installations from reused 'waste' materials.

This temporary city is packed with imaginative installations, music, markets, food and more. It is free and open to all. Join Christchurch's most creative street party!

Visit festa.org.nz for the full programme listing!

Mr. and Mrs. Periwinkle

By

Patricia Shannon

Diamond Harbour Writers Group

Mr. and Mrs. Periwinkle live in an ordinary house in an ordinary street, but they themselves are anything but ordinary. In fact, the people in the neighbourhood think they are rather creepy.

Early every morning, Mrs. Periwinkle talks to the birds. She chats along with sparrows, finches, blackbirds and other species that visit her beautiful foliage. While they feast on the treats made available to them, they spill the neighbourhood secrets.

Yes, Mrs. Periwinkle keeps well-informed about the comings and goings in the area.

Mr. Periwinkle works around the veggie patch every day. If you look closer, you will see him talk to the lettuce, tomatoes, spinach and strawberries. Sometimes he even dances around them, which gives him much pleasure. And apparently the veggies too, as they all grow out of proportion!

Mr. and Mrs. Periwinkle always share a drink together late afternoons, on the porch at the back of the house. It overlooks the colourful garden, filled with bright coloured flower arrangements; red, yellow, purple, orange and blue. During their drink hedgehogs, rabbits, dragonflies, bugs and other flying insects join them. You can hear them all yapping away. The community thinks the Periwinkles are an odd couple, but the truth of the matter is they simply enjoy the little things.

Mr. and Mrs. Periwinkle thrive in their paradise. They climb up the walls, in and over plants, around fences and decks. They produce small, delicate lavender blue flowers to serve the bees and butterflies and to please the human eye. It is sad people misjudge them, but they resign to their fate.

Korean research perspectives in the Ross Sea

Christchurch Antarctic Talks

Speaker: Yeadong Kim
Korea Polar Research Institute

Korea began Antarctic research in 1987, as a latecomer amongst the Antarctic Treaty Parties. Since then Korea has extended its research capacities in the Antarctic and the Southern Ocean, and recently set up a research station - 'Jang Bogo' - in the western Ross Sea and engaged in cutting edge science utilising the icebreaker 'Araon'. Hear about the scientific perspectives that Korea has in this region.

If you have any enquiries please don't hesitate to call Windsurf coach Greg Bowater at 3288755, or David Noakes NPCL at 02102288411

a passion for the Port Hills

Towards a Predator-Free Port Hills

The Summit Road Society is launching an initiative which it is hoped will result in a 'Predator-Free Port Hills'.

Why?

The Port Hills are valued by Christchurch as part of the natural identity of the city and also for all the recreational opportunities for residents and, increasingly, for visitors. People are drawn to the road cycling experience, the fantastic network of walking and mountain-bike tracks in a stunning environment of rock outcrops, tussock grassland and regenerating native forest. The Christchurch City Council, a number of groups such as the Summit Road Society, private landowners and volunteers are working hard to continue to improve the recreational opportunities and the biodiversity of the Port Hills.

Why 'predator-free' and how can this be achieved?

There is no longer any doubt that the major threat to our native flora and fauna is introduced animal pests. Major efforts at pest control are taking place on the Port Hills by the Council, organisations like ourselves and resident volunteer groups. This is now leading to a noticeable increase in native bird numbers, not only on the hills, but around the city in general, and the rate at which native forest is regenerating.

To complement all this work, the Society would like to focus on the urban/rural boundary around the Port Hills and to encourage and support suburban residents to become involved in predator control.

The Summit Road Society will:

- Arrange for the provision of traps.
- Advise on where to place them and how they should be managed.
- Collect information on what animals and how many are caught.
- Publicise the work and encourage others to join in.
- Provide support to any individuals or groups already carrying out predator control.
- Keep everyone involved up to date on the progress of the initiative.

What can I do?

If you as an individual or a small group already involved in conservation want to contribute to this initiative, please consider having a (pet-friendly) trap or traps in your garden or on your land. You will:

- Be part of what we hope will develop into a significant community-led conservation movement and a part of a growing trend nationally such as on the Otago Peninsula and Miramar Peninsula in Wellington.
- Join the Predator-free New Zealand by 2050 initiative.
- See increased biodiversity in your own backyard or on your own patch, particularly an increase in native birds.

Registering interest:

If you are interested in taking part, please contact the Summit Road Society Secretary, John Goodrich on 326 3035, or by email at: secretary@summitroadsociety.org.nz

a passion for the Port Hills

“Towards a Predator Free Port Hills”

The Summit Road Society welcomes you to attend a meeting to help it launch its initiative to work towards a Predator-Free Port Hills. We will be assisting individual residents and local groups to achieve what we hope will be a community-led, long-term project to improve the biodiversity of the Port Hills, to make them safe for our unique fauna and to encourage the continued regeneration of our native flora.

Where: Cashmere Presbyterian Church, 2 Macmillan Avenue

When: 7.00pm to 9.00pm on Thursday 27 October 2016.

Agenda:

1. Welcome and introduction:

Jeremy Agar, Summit Road Society Vice-President, will outline the concept of a Predator Free Port Hills and what the Society hopes to achieve

2. The Summit Road Society's Role:

Secretary, John Goodrich, will explain how the Society wants to proceed and what we want to achieve from this meeting.

3. Sumner Pest Control Group:

John Cook will explain how the local community is becoming involved in pest control in Sumner and Redcliffs.

4. Questions and discussions:

There will be ample time for questions and discussion.

5. Invitation to register interest:

Anyone who is interested in taking part in the Predator Free Port Hills initiative by hosting a trap on their own property, helping to maintain traps, or who simply wants to be kept informed, will have the opportunity to register their interest.

Light refreshments will be available after the meeting.

There is no need to register and anyone who is interested in this initiative is welcome. However, it would be helpful to have an indication of numbers, so if you do intend joining us please email John Goodrich at:

a Lyttelton Primary School Family Hub initiative

Lyttelton Book Fair

LAF is the venue for a major second hand book fair on 5th November. The event is being organised by the Lyttelton Primary School 'Family Hub' who are excited to be behind a big push to reinvigorate the school library.

By advertising widely both within the Lyttelton community and greater Christchurch this is set to be a big-scale event.

The sale will include books for both adults and children in fiction and non-fiction categories. The Family Hub are delighted to have had some fantastic new books donated, many only recently released and some of these will form part of a silent auction of more valuable books.

The book fair will celebrate the end of the school's Book Week, and is a great way of both recycling resources as well as generating funds to update the school library collection.

Donations of books are being gratefully accepted through the school office (9-3 weekdays) until the 3rd of November>

This is a great way to spring clean your bookshelves for a really good cause!

Any questions please email familyhub@lyttelton.school.nz

Work notice: Simeon Quay, Lyttelton, storm water replacement

What	Replacement of the earthquake damaged storm water pipe
Where	Simeon Quay, near house number 1
When	Monday 26 September for around two weeks

Where:

Sourced from LINZ data, Crown Copyright reserved

Traffic impact:

From Monday 26 September for around two weeks a road closure will be in place near 1 Simeon Quay to replace an earthquake damaged storm water pipe. Due to the narrow width and the amount of conflicting services in that section of the road, it is not possible to open up the road at all during this time. Driveway access to all properties, and pedestrian access past the worksite will be maintained at all times. A short detour will be in place on Godley Quay and Voelas Road.
