Lyttelton Harbour Review is a 100% voluntary community newsletter initiative developed after the February 2011 earthquake. It's a Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre initiative produced by Chairperson Wendy Everingham and Committe Member Jenny-Lee Love.

The objective of the Lyttelton Harbour Review is to help keep local residents informed with what is going on in the wider Lyttelton Harbour community. Of course the success of the Lyttelton Harbour Review could not be possible without the ongoing support and enthusiasm from the wider community.

A big thank you goes out to everyone who sends information; is willing to be interviewed or lets us know what might be happening in the neighbourhood. The Lyttelton Harbour Review project would not be possible without you all.

If you have an event, topic, sport announcement, fundraiser or cause that you would like to share with the harbour community, then Wendy or Jenny-Lee would love to hear from you:

Hunt on for iconic Lyttelton red rock

Lyttelton residents are being urged to keep their eyes peeled for pieces of the town's iconic red rock, with contractors running desperately short of the volcanic rock as they work to reface key walls in the town.

Dubbed "The Great Lyttelton Red Rock Hunt", contractors have put out a call to all residents to look through their gardens and sections for pieces of rock so one major wall can be finished.

Christchurch City Council Project Manager Richard Humm said the red rock walls were a distinctive part of Lyttelton's streetscape, with many of them built in the 19th Century by inmates at Lyttelton Gaol.

The hunt is on to find more red rock to reface Lyttelton's retaining walls.

"The cost of restoring every red rock wall is prohibitively high, but key walls around the town are being refaced using salvaged rocks. Unfortunately we have run very short and urgently need Lyttelton residents to help us out by rummaging through their gardens, backyards, or old demolished buildings to find pieces of rock that we can use to finish some of our key walls," Mr Humm said. "This will not affect the rebuilding of the retaining walls, just the external finish."

"We're starting the Great Lyttelton Red Rock Hunt and we hope the community will go the extra mile to help us out if they can. The bigger the rock, the better. We're after pieces that are about the size of a loaf of bread or bigger."

The team urgently need 389 square metres of red rock to restore the wall on the corner of Coleridge Terrace and Dublin Street.

"We know there will be red rock lying around people's properties that we can hopefully take off their hands and use to restore these heritage walls. We can't do every wall around the town but by restoring a few of these key walls, we maintain the unique heritage of the streetscape."

The red rock walls had great heritage significance, dating back to the very early settlement of Lyttelton, Mr Humm said.

"Refacing the walls is an expensive exercise but we want to do it wherever possible because they form a key element of the historic streetscape and visual amenity of the town."

Anyone with red rock to offer the team should email Richard.humm@ccc.govt.nz.

Lyttelton community worked really hard to establish Harbour Co-op back in 2012. It was the very first consumer owned wholefoods co-op in the country. It was a mammoth effort to establish and was linked to a project that sought to increase our local community's food security around our harbour. The formation of the shop assisted many new initiatives. Some people began growing organic food locally knowing that there was a ready outlet. Others opened businesses that relied on the store for products. It became a way of life for many. This is reflected by the steady numbers of volunteers who willingly provide services to enable the shops operating costs to be lower.

Since opening in 2012 the operating environment has changed. With more possibilities since 2014 for purchasing food both locally and through the tunnel, sales at Harbour Co-op have declined. The Annual Reports show that for the last two financial years the co-op has operated at a loss. With limited capital this can't continue.

Current Chair of the Co-Op is volunteer Andrew Scott. He's assisted by the volunteer board and they are seeking to turn things around. "We have been making changes over the past year to try and improve sales and profitability but it's still a struggle. Now looking at the options for more significant changes means it's a good time to survey of all our members and customers. We encourage all members and users of the Co-op to complete this " he said. The survey is online until February 10th. The Co-op has just over 200 members and many more customers from around the harbour and from Christchurch local suburbs. "For the future of the shop it's really important that we hear from you all" he said.

The survey is seeking to find out how you use the store. What do you buy? What would you like to buy? Have your shopping habits changed? It also seeks to gauge how much you spend and other ideas for things that might draw you into the shop.

"We are also trying to promote the shop more widely. Talking to the Review team is part of this strategy" he said. "We would love to attract more new members and/or shoppers. As a community we know that we can be very powerful. Together we can do anything" he said. "The hurdles encountered to establish the shop are testament to that. It wasn't an easy road but it was achieved and as is so often the case people in Lyttelton shared their amazing talents and the dream became real."

Former manager Brian Rick said" A co-op is defined by the people who use it, the members, the customers, the staff, the directors, the suppliers, the managers, the volunteers all of who are key factors in the overall success of the business".

For Lyttelton's Harbour Co-op to be successful and making a profit once again all the users involved have to work together and if it's still the community aim to have a store like this in Lyttelton, Andrew's advice to you is:

"The best thing you can do to enable the shop to be successful is to shop there regularly.

Please fill in the survey and be mindful of the Co-op if this is something important to you" said Andrew.

After the survey results have been collated there will be a members meeting mid to late February to plan the path forward.

Sharing passion for a much-loved sport; Viki Moore recognised for services to Naval Point Yacht Club

Known as a bright and bubbly personality in Canterbury, Viki Moore from Naval Point Yacht Club is a woman of many talents.

As well as being a sailor with big dreams, the 2016 Yachting New Zealand Service award winner is also an accomplished writer, organiser, and integral part of the yacht club she freely uses her broad skill set to promote.

Through social media, online networking, and simply encouraging people to get involved, Viki has been instrumental in building a sense of community within the club and its members, especially in the hard times following the earthquakes of 2011.

A prime example of her ability to reinvigorate organisations is her involvement in the Little Ship Club of Canterbury, which now holds meetings at Naval Point Yacht Club. In 2014 Viki was elected as president for the club which at the time had a dwindling membership base and was struggling to retain a following. In a staggering turnaround since her involvement, the club has seen a 400% hike in membership numbers and now enjoys a consistently healthy turnout at meetings which include guest speakers, safety sessions, and general boating skills and discussions. With a genuine passion for sailing and being on the water, Viki has a host of qualifications and certificates which enables her to share her knowledge with others, providing a confidence boost and source of encouragement for many.

As well as writing newsletters for the Little Ship Club, organising meetings, welcoming people into the Naval Point Yacht Club, and taking people out on her own boat, Viki has also established the facebook group 'Women Who Sail New Zealand'. Through these unique channels of communicating with groups of people Viki has been instrumental in helping new sailors find their feet on the water with many going on to buy yachts of their own.

Yachting New Zealand heartily thanks Viki for her service to the club, its community, and the sport and looks forward to acknowledging her formally at the Volvo Excellence Awards dinner.

Enterprising Student Show your Support

Year 13 is over and the next stage in many students' lives is University. With courses all over the country many need extra funds for not only the course fees but living away from home. Lucy Rossie has successfully completed year 13 and is now on her way to Wellington where she has been accepted into a Batchelor of Design majoring in Visual Communication at Massey University. With that in mind she set about starting to self-fund some of her fees whilst having fun and making people smile.

"This particular venture came about by accident" she said. She made an avocado brooch for herself in August and then started getting lots of compliments. "With all the positive attention I realised there was a demand for stuff like it and so I started to make more and then expanded the range from just avocados to things like eggs, donuts, olives and eggplants keeping the 'food with happy faces' theme in as many designs as possible" she said.

The entire process has been a great learning experience. Whilst not her first attempt at selling things she has created, this is the first time that she's begun a small enterprise to build up a brand. She's had to think about more things. Luckily her creative skills have come to the fore. A business name was needed, more products designed, packaging was required and a sales strategy was needed. It's very interesting where her ideas come from." My business name "Olive" was inspired by a young student who I help tutor in Lyttelton. I'm also a vegetarian, the happy food idea comes from things that I love to eat and that I know are healthy and better for the planet."

Growing up in Lyttelton her creativity has been developed with her love of music, art, including drawing and sculpture plus her acting work. Living in such a creative and inspiring place has also contributed significantly.

All Lucy's work is handmade and the brooches are moulded from fimo clay.

"I'd say they are more of an accessory rather than jewellery as they can go on bags, lanyards and clothes. I designed them so that they are unisex ".

You can support Lucy when you buy her accessories on line at Etsy store called OliveCollective https://www.etsy.com/nz/shop/OliveCollective or visit her stall at the Lyttelton Market on February 11th.

Community Foundation Exercise Course 2017

Expressions of Interest

The Active Canterbury Network is currently seeking expressions of interest from community organisations and people in the community who are interested in attending a foundation exercise course in April-May 2017. This course is for leaders of group exercise in a community or church setting, plus new or inexperienced leaders who want to build confidence and come away with practical ideas. No previous exercise or instruction experience required. For more info or to register your interest, contact: Nadine Milmine, Active Canterbury Network Coordinator: nadine.milmine@activecanterbury.org.nz

Supporting non-profit Community workers

Social Equity & Wellbeing Network

Remember what it was like during those first weeks and months after the 2010 and 2011 quakes? Working in your communities in circumstances you could never have imagined, dealing with your own stresses and fears, and doing the best you could regardless?

You know what your non-profit whanau in quake and/ or flood affected areas are going through and what they face - those people working on the ground in not-for-profit organisations and community groups, supporting their local communities. Would you be prepared to be a buddy for one of them? We're looking for people who would be prepared to be on the end of a phone, able to maybe offer helpful advice but definitely people who understand what it's like, who can empathise and reassure, and be a listening ear for them to offload and talk things through with. If you fill the bill and would like to help, then please contact us.

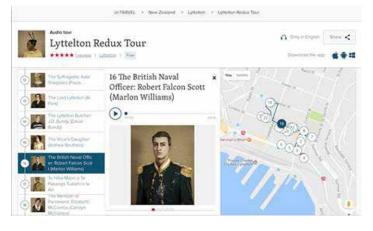

For more information please contact Sharon. Phone: 366 2050 or email: sharon@sewn.org.nz

To be a permanently listed business in the directory and have articles written about your business we have a yearly membership fee of $165 including GST. If you would like to have a yearly listing please contact us infocentre@lyttelton.net.nz and we will forward our membership application.

Half Price Pool Keys

With the pool season well underway the Council is now offering pool keys from February 1 for half price. For an amazing $70 your household will have access to the pool between 7am-8pm each day of the week until March 26th. To register, please fill in an application form. These are available from the Council Service Centre in London Street or the Information Centre. Alternatively email infocentre@lyttelton.net. nz and we can send one to you. Please note that from February 6th the only way to access the pool is via the key system. There will be no Council Lifeguards on duty from this point until the end of the season.

Repairs to Lyttelton clock tower

Another historic Lyttelton landmark is being restored.

The Lyttelton Clock Tower was built in 1953.

Contractors for the Christchurch City Council are working to fix the damage to the Lyttelton Clock Tower caused by the earthquakes.

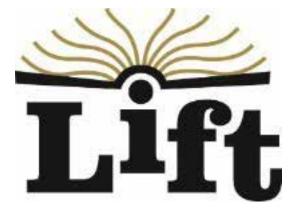

The clock tower dates back to 1953 when it was erected on the site of the old Lyttelton Gaol. It was designed by John Hendry, a well-known Christchurch architect, and built as a memorial to Dr Charles Upham, a notable and much loved figure in Lyttelton.

The tower suffered moderate damage in the earthquakes and is considered earthquake prone. The work the contractors are doing will bring the tower up to 67 per cent of New Building Standard.

A new roof will be put on the tower, decorative lighting added and the clock restored to working order.

The work should be completed in May.

LIFT Library

Many new books have come into the library over the summer. Here is a sample of some of them. Visit Juliet Adams Saturday mornings at the Farmers Market if you are keen to join the library or borrow a book. Also keep an eye out for the new series at the WEA where Juliet will be showing many of the interesting films that she has in her collection.

The new empire of debt: the rise and fall of an epic financial bubble

2009 (2nd ed) William Bonner, A.Wiggin

This book is about the economy. Usually I struggle with this topic. But with this book I was smiling and chuckling all the way through, even though the writers were detailing the disastrous management of various economies, especially the American one, up until 2009. The book is full of hard-hitting jokes and irony, as it reveals how things went well and how they went badly, for citizens of the USA and of other countries. All the way through I kept connecting with NZ's economic situation too, for example our current crisis in housing costs, although I'm pretty ignorant of this sort of thing; and of course the coming Trump era is going to affect us here, in ways which are bound to encourage more localisation of our endeavours.

Lean logic: a dictionary for the future and how to survive it

2016 David Fleming (Shaun Chamberlin ed.)

"A dictionary unlike any other, it leads readers through Fleming's stimulating exploration of fields as diverse as culture, history, science, art, logic, ethics, myth, economics, and anthropology, comprised of more than 400 essay-entries covering specific – and often interlinked – topics such as Boredom, Community, Debt, Growth, Harmless Lunatics, Land, Lean Thinking, Nanotechnology, Play, Religion, Spirit, Trust and Utopia." Each topic's definition is followed by information, often with links provided to all other topics that connect with it.

An example:

"Growth. There are two meanings relevant to Lean Logic :

- The natural development of an immature system or organism to maturity.
- A pathology in which a mature system or organism continues to grow."

This is followed by 8 pages of detail and further links!

Surviving the future: culture, carnival & capital in the aftermath of the market economy

2016 David Fleming (Shaun Chamberlin ed.

From the blurb: "Drawing on the heritage of Schumacher's Small is Beautiful , Fleming's beautifully written and nourishing vision of a post-growth economics grounded in humanscale culture and community – rather than big finance – is both inspiring and ever more topical." Caroline Lucas, British MP, was Green Party leader This book was composed from material in 'Lean Logic', the dictionary, above, for readers who need something more accessible. I found most of it well within my range of understanding, unlike lots of books on improving our world that rely on technical knowledge.

Legal training for Community Groups

Canterbury Community Law are running two upcoming workshops designed to help if you are a manager or a volunteer board member of a Christchurch non-profit.

These workshops usually fill quickly. To help make the training available to as many groups as possible, attendance is limited to two people from each group.

You can register your name and your group name by emailing Susan at Community Law Canterbury susan@ canlaw.org.nz. Staff will check availability before confirming your registration and then send through further workshop details.

Health and Safety Laws

The "new" health and safety rules came into force last year. They affect all community groups who have one or more paid staff. This workshop will be of particular interest to managers - many of whom face the risk of personal liability for breaches of health and safety.

This 90 minute workshop for Board members and managers will cover:

- The new rules and how they will affect your group
- A look at the liability issues that could arise for your group and for your manager
- The six key duties you have and recommendations to help you meet the new laws

Date and Time: Tuesday 21 February 2017, from 10.00 - 11.30 a.m.

Cost: $20 per person

Privacy

The law requires that your group handles personal information in accordance with the Privacy Act and the Privacy Principles. This means that you have to take particular care when collecting, sharing, storing, using or disposing of the personal information you hold about your clients, volunteers, staff and members. It also requires that your group has a Privacy Officer – someone whose role it is to deal with any privacyrelated requests. We'll also look at how the proposed new incorporated society's laws will affect your privacy obligations.

Please note: this workshop will not cover the Health Information Privacy Code (a specialist set of privacy principles which apply to those providing health services). However, it will apply to other groups.

This 90 minute workshop for managers and volunteer co-ordinators of Christchurch non-profits will cover:

- Membership, client and HR records privacy rules about collecting, storing, sharing and disposal of personal information
- What to do if your group inadvertently breaches the privacy of a client or member

Date and Time: Tuesday 21 March 2017, from 10.00 - 11.30 am Cost: $20 per person

Other training

Subject to resourcing and criteria, Community Law Canterbury can provide training for individual Boards/Committees. If your Board wants training on governance issues tailored specifically for your group, you're welcome to contact susan@canlaw.org.nz. to find out more.

Our general education service can also provide training on a wide range of legal topics. To find out more about the training we can offer for your staff and/or general service volunteers, please contact penny.arthur@canlaw.org.nz

We'll be partnering with Volunteering Canterbury in February 2017 to deliver a workshop on complaints and volunteers. If your volunteer co-ordinator/ manager/interested Board member would like to keep up to speed with volunteer-related issues or if you're interested in attending that workshop, we'd recommend the great newsletter and training regularly on offer from Volunteering Canterbury. You can find out more about their training by checking their website here: https://seekvolunteer.co.nz/events.

If you're interested in some guidance on financial issues relating to your non-profit, we'd highly recommended the training offered by the Christchurch Community Accounting. You can find out more about their training by checking their website here: http:// commaccounting.co.nz/training/

Lyttelton SummerFest 2017: Speed Dating meets Arts Retreat

Everyone likes the idea of learning something new. But making time for creativity often comes last nowadays. Busy lives mean selfexpression, imagination and fun can fall off the bottom of the priority list.

If you relate to this, The Creative Sampler might be for you. The Creative Sampler is a day of short, creative workshops Project Lyttelton is organising for Lyttelton SummerFest. The Sampler is a day of speed workshops starting on the hour and lasting 45 minutes each. 4 workshops run each hour, with a total of 20 offered. You can dabble, get a taste for something you are interested in, and come and go throughout the day, without the commitment of a longer or weekly class.

The second new event in the SummerFest this year is the Big Whakaraupo Lyttelton Community Barbeque on the Grassy. Planned as a bookend to farewell summertime, it'll be on Sunday March 5th. There'll be a bouncy castle, heritage games, a licensed bar and BBQs to cook up your own favourite BBQ food, plus local DJs providing sounds. There'll be a simultaneous party at the pool next door too.

Summerfest also sees the 5th Strange Bedfellows, at Lyttelton Arts Factory on 26th Feb. With a whole new group of artists mixing it up together and presided over by the inimitable Viktor Kropotski, the premise is 'what happens when my art form meets yours?' See local creative folk taking risks and merging their artistic forms with others in fresh unexpected ways.

The SummerFest's goal is to bring people together through the arts, music and broad appeal social events. We also list other community events in the programme to help promote all the wonderful things that are happening in our community this summer. Visit www.lyttelton.net.nz for more.

Rock blasting puts some Port Hills tracks off-limits

People using Port Hills mountain bike and walking tracks are being warned to keep away from sign-posted areas because of dangerous rock scaling and blasting work.

The blasting and scaling work is part of a multi-million dollar project to get the Sumner to Lyttelton road corridor reopened.

A large area above and below Sumner Rd on the Lyttelton side of the Port Hills is currently extremely dangerous and offlimits to the public.

For their own safety people are being advised they must stay out of the mountain bike and walking tracks in the area shown in the map below at all times, including weekends.

Signage and fencing has been increased to make it clear where the hazardous areas are and that people should not enter.

The blasting and scaling work is being carried out by McConnell Dowell, in partnership with Beca, Doug Hood Mining and Geovert, and is being jointly funded by Christchurch City Council and the NZ Transport Agency.

Learn more about the Sumner Lyttelton Corridor project.

Loose rocks are being removed from the cliffs above Sumner Rd.
