Lyttelton Harbour Review is a 100% voluntary community newsletter initiative developed after the February 2011 earthquake. It's a Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre initiative produced by Chairperson Wendy Everingham and Committee Member Jenny-Lee Love.

The objective of the Lyttelton Harbour Review is to help keep local residents informed with what is going on in the wider Lyttelton Harbour community. Of course the success of the Lyttelton Harbour Review could not be possible without the ongoing support and enthusiasm from the wider community.

A big thank you goes out to everyone who sends information; is willing to be interviewed or lets us know what might be happening in the neighbourhood. The Lyttelton Harbour Review project would not be possible without you all.

If you have an event, topic, sport announcement, fundraiser or cause that you would like to share with the harbour community, then Wendy or Jenny-Lee would love to hear from you:

Shifting

Shifting around and prancing by shy,
Shifting with a smile hello and goodbye,
Shifting so sly I and we don't see why,

Shifting to survive rather than shift inside,
Shifting winds in out breathe sigh,
Shifting like dancing we don't want to cry,

Shifting in the groove that makes you stay,
Shifting stairways until it becomes fair,
Shifting a stare so it won't leave you bare,

Shifting gears to get on a high then,
Shifting with another to hide a lie,
Shifting into space that helps you untie,

Shifting my lord where are you,
Shifting I am there I am here,
Shifting my eyes to I am with care,

Shifting with ease when you let go,
Shifting together, it's not a race you know,
Shifting into loves flow feel the grace.

Hannah Sylvester

Lyttelton Community House Manager

Hannah Sylvester is the current manager at Lyttelton Community House. She has lived in Lyttelton for almost 11 years with her family, For the past two years she has worked at Lyttelton Community House.. "I am a qualified social worker and feel extremely lucky to work here in Lyttelton in a job I feel passionate about" she said.

Lyttelton Community House has recently had a few changes the biggest being the departure of manager Christine Wilson and work colleague Kathy Bessant. "You will be pleased to know that Community House can still operate and that's thanks to a great team of dedicated volunteers who have stepped up to help out more" said Hannah. The volunteers help with a whole range of jobs that includes delivering meals to the Lyttelton Harbour Basin area, helping at the community lunch on Tuesday's and generally giving a hand in house when needed.

Hannah explains that there are two main parts to her job. "The first is welcoming people to Community House and making them feel at home with the end aim of creating a space where they belong and can connect with other people" she said. People who pop in have e access to the internet, hot drinks and a daily newspaper and on Tuesday's they are welcome to join in the shared community lunch at 12pm.

The second part of Hannah's work is connecting people into services both here in Lyttelton and the wider Christchurch area. "Recently I have assisted people with finding housing, making appointments and filling out essential paperwork" she said.

Community House isn't open to the public on Thursday but Hannah reminds everyone that the Walking Group is still self organising from there. " If you would like to join this group come down at 10.30am. Everyone is welcome to attend. The group visits destinations all over Christchurch. They prefer flat walking and then enjoy a coffee stop to catch up and chat" she said.

If you are keen to support Community House the next special social activity is a fundraiser organised by Board member Fred Tunnicliffe. Together with Sarah from Freemans they have organised this year's fundraising Quiz, it will be on Thursday 10th August at 7pm, 4 in a team at $15 per person with all proceeds going back to LCH (door sales and cash payment only). Hannah says, "This was such a success last year and great fun. There are not many tables left so call Freemans to book a table so you don't miss out- 328 7517".

If you are interested in finding out more about Community House or would like support, you are encouraged to come down and introduce yourself to Hannah or give her a call on 03 741 1427.

Open Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday 10-2pm.

Facilitating Walking Access

Useful Information for Rural Landowners.

Banks Peninsula is really lucky to have the Rod Donald Trust. They are a Charitable Trust that was established by the Christchurch City Council back in 2010. This is their vision.

“The Rod Donald Banks Peninsula Trust has a bold vision to facilitate the restoration of Banks Peninsula to its traditional status as Te Pātaka o Rākaihautū – the storehouse that nourishes. In our vision Banks Peninsula has a rich biodiversity, planted streams, lakes and seas flowing with clean water. The local people are prospering and passionately participate in conservation. The Peninsula is known as an ecological island and a place for appreciative recreation, with low impact activities such as walking, cycling and affordable camping fostered to encourage learning about and respect for the environment.”

Since inception to achieve their goals they have been involved in many interesting activities. Some of their achievements include helping purchase Saddle Hill and Purple Peak/Curry Reserves, developing comprehensive walking materials, facilitating the Te Ara Pataka/Summit Walkway, purchased a tramping hut and they have partnered with many other groups and organisations to achieve their desired outcomes.

Recently at Kaituna Valley Homestead the Trust facilitated a meeting that focused on walking access. An expert panel was present including representatives from the NZ Walking Access Commission, Department of Conservation, and relevant government departments. A wide range of people were invited; existing land holders who allow walking access, potential landholders who may permit walking access, Council staff, politicians, trustees, and other interested parties.

Many of the walking trails on the Peninsula are through private farm property. The event was held to have discussions about curly issues that people who provide walking access face. The newly introduced Health and Safety Legislation was driving most of the questions.

The results of the discussion were deemed very important to share with the wider community. Representing the Lyttelton Information Centre at the meeting we have produced this copy of the summary report kindly distributed by the Rod Donald Trust. This advice applies if you allow free access over your land for walking or cycling.

The Health and Safety at Work Act 2015 is principally aimed at worker safety. When visitors access rural land on tracks they are deemed as visitors and not workers. On farming land where access is free the Health and Safety legislation only applies around work sites. This means farm buildings or active work sites. It does not apply to unattended grazing stock. These working areas need to be appropriately signed for relevant hazards. Ultimately visitors do have responsibilities about their own safety and the risks they take plus the people who are under their care.

Landowners and managers need to be aware of the tracks on their land and take reasonable steps to ensure public safety. For instance erecting signs if there is a hazard or notifying people of calving .

Interestingly the same rules apply for unformed legal roads. DOC or the CCC are primarily responsible for the visitors that use those tracks. The public is legally allowed onto these roads.

If disputes do arise from access issues this forum highlighted that the NZ Walking Access Commission can become involved and Walking Access Easements under the Walking Act 2008 provide a simple and effective mechanism to clarify rights and responsibilities around public access.

More information about the Commission is provided on its website www.walkingaccess.govt.nz. The Commission provides information about where there are rights of public access on its mapping system WAMS www.wams.org.nz.

Plastic Free Lyttelton

Since the Plastic Bag Free initiative was introduced to Lyttelton there have been some positive outcomes.

Rob De Thiers from Lyttelton Supervalu is making progress. "In store, we now have paper bags for all loose fruit and vegetable purchases. We are also going to be one of four stores in the whole country to be trialling a fully compostable bag for general purchases. We believe that will be instore from August" he said. "Fully recyclable meat trays are also coming. Just give them a wash and they are suitable for collection." He also advises that a customised hessian bag is coming.

The Lyttelton Fruit and Vegetable Collective has also made great progress. Teams of local sewers have made over 100 bags so that the weekly fruit and vegetable order can be distributed in material bags rather than plastic ones. All the vegetables inside the bags now are generally plastic free as well.

Sue-Ellen

has been one of the key people for this project. "Sewing the bags is really therapeutic for me. It's how I relax" she said. When you see these "chequered bags" around town they form part of that large order. A big thank you to all the locals who have made that happen. Sue-Ellen has literally sewn hundreds of bags over the last couple of years. She's generally also the person behind the lovely cloth bags that you receive as a Welcome Bag in Lyttelton.

This particular initiative with the Fruit and Vegetable Collective has flowed onto other communities. Now Heathcote vegetable orders are also collected in material bags made by their community. The umbrella organisation, Linwood Affordable Fruit and Vegetable Group are also following suite and in the near future it's hoped all the communities will have material bags for their fruit and vegetable orders.

Lucette Hindin and Kerry

Donnelly have looked at waste streams with the Farmers Market. Focusing on vendors they have created a waste scheme that rewards sellers for not having plastic bags and other non-recyclable products at their stalls. If stallholders insist on still using plastic and other non-recyclable products they are charged a small levy as a disincentive. A separate Waste Matters stall also operates at the market. They sell reusable coffee cups, plastic free wrappers etc.

Many shops in Lyttelton don't offer plastic bags at all. The Information Centre is plastic free. Henry Trading, Harbour Coop and others are as well. Keep an eye out for the returnable cloth bags that will be available from the front of Harbour Coop shortly.

Looking further afield the Christchurch City Council is also helping move forward with positive outcomes. Back in 2002 they launched Rubbish-free Parks. If you ever wondered why there are no rubbish bins in Urumau and Whakaraupo Reserves this initiative was introduced to increase people's awareness of their impact on the environment and to gently encourage them to reduce, reuse, and recycle and take their rubbish home with them

The Yellow Bin scheme has also been beneficial. Some plastics can be recycled. You can get really detailed information by installing the Christchurch City Council Kerbside Collection App on your mobile phone. The most important thing to note is that lids are not recyclable. It is just the container. Similarly, tetra packs for milk substitutes are not recyclable. Plastics labelled 1-7 are fine as well as supermarket plastic bags.

The challenge for us all is to think of ways to eliminate the plastic we use.

The Lyttelton Reserve Management Committee Planting Group is another great example of a group not using as much plastic as some planting teams do. They don't use plastic covers to encase newly planted plants. They have discovered that long grass is just as effective. Most pests hate long grass and together with a no spray programme they have found plastic covers are not required!

What have you done to eliminate the need for plastic?

Get in touch we'd love to publish more community examples of Plastic free Lyttelton

Polhill Bay Shooting Range Ever Heard of It?

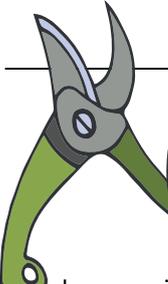

Lyttelton has loads of well kept secrets. Polhill Bay Shooting Range is one that I had never heard of until fairly recently. It is named after the family of Baker Polhill who immigrated to New Zealand in the 1840's. In September of 1849 Baker was employed by the Canterbury Association and became a foreman who headed up the work crew for Captain Joseph Thomas on the newly forming Sumner Road project.

His family lived at Polhill Bay. The bay doesn't exist anymore but was in the vicinity of Cashin Quay. The name however remains with a small historic shooting range located on Urumau Reserve and adjoining Lyttelton Port Company land.

The rifle range runs parallel to the Lyttelton Sumner Road. There are two mounds in Urumau Reserve. The range dates back to 1866 and were actively used by the Lyttelton Volunteer Artillery. At this time in New Zealand the military was a voluntary organization.

Another gem located in Urumau Reserve.

The Story of Lyttelton Community Garden:

Part 1

In a series of three articles we look at a part of Lyttelton that you may have walked through, thought about but may not have visited in a while, the Community Garden. Tucked up behind the swimming pool and regularly visited by those walking up and down into town it is part of the landscape of Lyttelton but is it still part of our community. When was the last time you thought about the garden?

Energy still existed for the new garden. With the promise of the former nursery above the original garden, plans were made to turn the rundown site into a fully functioning garden complete with hot house, potting shed and larger grounds than previously gardened. The former maintenance building was also the perfect building for Project Lyttelton to locate its own offices as before this volunteers and workers had worked from home.

The land the group had been given included a section of flat land that had previously been a prison (with the blue door still visible in the walls), native plant nursery, a very steep slope and a building that although originally part of the nursery complete with holes in the ceiling for propagation lights had also been used downstairs as a furniture makers. The site did have an existing large glasshouse and structures on site, however the site needed a huge amount of work which was carried out by a small number of people. Skip loads of rubbish including large amounts of glass were removed, paths were carved into the hillside, orchards developed and fruit and vegetables began to grow and a community garden blossomed.

So why does Lyttelton have a community garden? How did it start? The community garden was started in the late 1990's by a small group of local people who came together around the desire to heal following a shared emotional event. Gardening behind a house on the site that had been donated to the community and located where the grassed area is now uphill alongside the pool. Others became involved and the garden thrived.

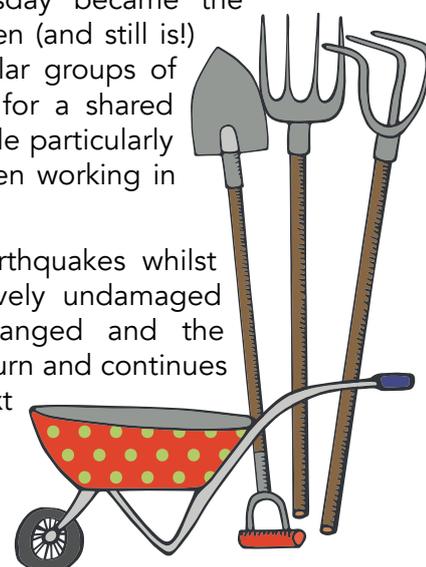

Plans for the land higher up the slope were mooted with ideas around hot pools and car parks being discussed but never eventuated. Discussions between members of the gardening group and the former Mayor of the Banks Peninsula District Council, Bob Parker resulted in the Community garden being relocated to the top section of land where it remains today. A twenty year lease was granted to Project Lyttelton for the upper part of the site and the Council took over the lower section of land to use for the pool extension. This arrangement however meant that the garden that had been tenderly developed was part of the pool redevelopment.

The community garden naturally came under the custodianship of Project Lyttelton as many of those working in the garden were also involved with Project Lyttelton and Wednesday became the open day for the garden (and still is!) with lunches and regular groups of 20+ coming together for a shared lunch with lots of people particularly those with small children working in the garden.

However, after the earthquakes whilst the garden was relatively undamaged peoples' priorities changed and the story takes a different turn and continues in part 2 in the next Lyttelton Review.

August 26th Wunderbar Aaron Carpenter & The Revelators release new single 'Pretty Lies'

Beloved Waiheke country/rock act Aaron Carpenter & The Revelators delve into their newfound swamp sound with their grinding and gritty single, 'Pretty Lies'. Recorded in a barn on Waiheke Island with producer Nick Abbot (The Subways, Robert Plant, The Datsuns), the track conjures up a raw rock incarnation of their deep-seated country and blues sound.

Written about a fleeting romance kept secret and the affect of decisions made in the heat of the moment, Pretty Lies is a song that explores the frustrations of love's fragility.

The single is the first from Aaron Carpenter who has a strong history in country and blues music since sneaking into famed Ponsonby venue The Glue Pot and nestling himself on stage with local blues legends like Midge Marsden.

It wasn't until he returned to New Zealand after traveling the world as a vagabond musician that Aaron began exploring his love of music and creating his own material for the first time, leading to the formation of his band The Revelators, made up of drinking buddies and fellow Waiheke Musicians, Derek Solomon, Lee Carlin, Nikki Ngatai and Miles Gillet. Since their formation, Aaron Carpenter & The Revelators have become an integral part of New Zealand's steadily growing Americana scene and has seen the band perform at Spark Arena's Southern Fork Americana Festival alongside names such as Robert Ellis, Hayes Carl and Blind Boy Paxton.

The single is the first from the band's upcoming debut album of the same name and is due for release in early August.
