Lyttelton Harbour Review is a 100% voluntary community newsletter initiative developed after the February 2011 earthquake. It's a Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre initiative produced by former Chairperson Wendy Everingham and Committee Member Jenny-Lee Love.

The objective of the Lyttelton Harbour Review is to help keep local residents informed with what is going on in the wider Lyttelton Harbour community. Of course the success of the Lyttelton Harbour Review could not be possible without the ongoing support and enthusiasm from the wider community.

A big thank you goes out to everyone who sends information; is willing to be interviewed or lets us know what might be happening in the neighbourhood. The Lyttelton Harbour Review project would not be possible without you all.

If you have an event, topic, sport announcement, fundraiser or cause that you would like to share with the harbour community, then Wendy or Jenny-Lee would love to hear from you:

Letter to Review

Boy Racers

I see the council is proposing restrictions on the Summit Road and down to Governors Bay on the 'boy racers'

In all the talk about the boy racers there has been no talk about the other part of their circuit - Lyttelton via Corsair and Cass Bays, Rapaki through to Governors Bay

We have a serious noise and safety problem here

The noise for the residents is substantial - those on Brittan and Park Terraces in Lyttelton must be having a horrific time. Many of these houses are very close to the road

In Cass Bay it is also highly intrusive at night - I can often hear them coming bays away

Here we also have drifting, burnouts and wheelies as well as speeds well over the 50 kph. Often closer to 100 kph

The young mother of a baby on the corner in the bay near Steadfast here, does ring the police on a group that deliberately uses that corner (complete with lookouts!) for drifting and wheelies

There is a serious safety issue throughout the whole harbour

I don't think it is just Thursday to Monday either!

I suggest talking and submissions to the proposed CCC panel is required by all of us

Exciting Possibilities Lyttelton Rec Centre

Late last year Christchurch City Council asked Project Lyttelton whether it would help to increase the well-being in this community, look at what the community wants for the Recreation Centre and facilitate these things to unfold.

The time delay in getting the Rec Centre up and running after the earthquakes is one of the reasons the facility has been functioning well below its capacity. Now is the time to get things moving!

Project Lyttelton and CCC have now signed a partnership agreement.

With the holiday season moving to its end, there has been increased activity on this project. A team of people has gathered to set action and change in motion.

The first step – and a major one – is to find out what the people of Lyttelton want; to be able to increase their well being and their use of the Recreation Centre. Margaret Jefferies, Holly Cunningham, Claire Coates and Jill Larking are out and about asking people what they are thinking about on these issues. These conversations can be for about 10 minutes – but many are for much longer, about an hour. Detailed notes are recorded and common themes are emerging. There are also single ideas that are significant as well. So far 70 people have been interviewed. Ideally we would like to speak to 10% of the population which would put us talking with nearly 300 people.

To get a clear and accurate picture we need to get large numbers and a diverse representation contributing to the discussion.

This Review piece is to let Lyttelton people know what is happening – there will be regular pieces coming out about the project over the next months. This is asking you the reader to consider – if you haven't already done so – making contact to arrange a time to talk. Send an email to reccentreinterviews@gmail.com and we will arrange a time. We would love to be able to hear your thoughts.

Personally I am finding talking with people a real delight, I am amazed at the creative thinking that is part of this community. The Rec Centre could be used for a wide variety of things as well as recreation, we are only limited by our imagination! Project Lyttelton is facilitating the process, not committing to putting everyone's wishes into action – we are looking for people who can help make things happen.

The material we are gathering from you is being analysed and will inform the plan for going forward. We have Bex De Prospro engaged in that part of the work.

Together we can develop this asset we have in Lyttelton in the direction the community desires and increase our collective well-being in the process. I encourage you to be part of this, and share your ideas.

Waitangi Day

Whānau Day at Rāpaki

It's interesting over the years to see how each Waitangi Day is different at our local marae in Rāpaki. Some years there are no celebrations on site. Other years the general public are invited to attend. 2018 Waitangi Day was chosen to be a Ngāi Tahu whānau (family) day to celebrate the opening of the new wharekai (dining hall and kitchen complex).

New Wharekai

Whānau visitors came from far and wide. Ōnuku, Tuahiwi, Kaikōura, Australia, wider Christchurch, Lyttelton, Wairewa, Koukourārata were to name but a few. Tā Mark Solomon attended the special event. Being Waitangi Day there were also Pākehā invited to share the special event. Notable visitors included the Honourable Ruth Dyson, Councillor Yani Johanson, Banks Peninsula Community Board members Jed O'Donoghue and John McLister. There were representatives from the Churches, the NZ Police and the Fire and Emergency Service. Many in the audience were also representatives of organisations who had supported the project financially. Several groups were listed as key sponsors including Ngāi Tahu, Rata Foundation, Mobil Oil and Lotteries.

As is consistent with all events at the marae, the festivities began with a Pōwhiri (welcome ceremony).

Rāpaki was proudly showing its new centre to the relatives. Both the locals and visitors had many whaikōrero (speakers). The drama and rituals played out between them all was very interesting to watch.

Rewi Couch had kindly invited the Lyttelton Review to share this special experience with people in the wider Whakaraupō/Lyttelton Harbour area. "Mostly the whaikōrero (speakers) were sharing their whakapapa (genealogy stories) with the wider audience," he said. "When we have our wider family at the marae we often hear stories that we haven't heard before", he said. This Waitangi Day was no exception. "I learned of relatives that I hadn't known about or knew little of before" he said. He also explained the whaikōrero was also about those who had made significant contributions and who had since past on. For example there was the former Labour MP Whetū Tirikātene-Sullivan. There was also the special people who had been involved in making the new addition to Wheke (the carved meeting house), complete.

Having relatives come from far and wide, this was a big event. Days of preparations were evident. Large areas of the site had been mown for car parking, the gardens and lawns were neat and tidy, the kitchen was buzzing with ringawera helpers producing kai for the enormous lunch to feed all the friends and relatives, Māori wardens were in full force directing the traffic and making sure everyone knew where things were. It was all very impressive.

Anaru and Michelle

The best part however was watching the families. Today was about relationships, catching up with the wider family, having fun, sharing food, sharing song, making connections and enjoying what had been accomplished over many years.

As the music flowed in the new courtyard visitors gathered to listen. Jay, Maria and Mikae had taken the opportunity to join the celebration. "The best part about today is having all our family around and catching up" said Jay who works locally at Lyttelton Port. His sentiments were also summed up by Ānaru McKenzie. Ānaru and his partner Michelle Crawford were really enjoying the family atmosphere. "I really love being with all my whānau. This is a great opportunity to get out and enjoy this place" he said.

Ānaru is related to the Briggs family. Our conversation then includes his wider family. Mean time Michelle comments, "This is really special being here. Everyone here is related to each other. It's not like that with pākehā whose family networks are so small". The couple are expecting their first child shortly and Michelle is pleased their child has this large family to grow up with.

From a pākehā perspective looking in, children and elders intermingle easily. This new complex is the perfect place for family and wider community gatherings of the future. Rāpaki Marae has created a special legacy for our wider community and Waitangi Day was the perfect day to celebrate that achievement.

Learning about our Bush

We grow our own plants

The new year is well and truly underway and seed collecting for the Urumau reserve plant propagation project is in full swing. By the time you read this edition of the Lyttelton Review, we'll have made three trips into the hills to look for seeds to grow into plants that we'll plant in Urumau reserve.

Plant Growing Counting Marbleleaf and Ngaio

Because eco-sourced plants are important to our project, with the permission of land owners, we're scouring the hills looking for seeds from plants in local remnant forest. Remnant forest is what remains of the forest that originally grew in the area. The plants in these forests are genetically unique to the area and are perfectly suited to grow on our south-facing hillside.

Since 2017 our wee team has grown an amazing 362 plants from seeds that we collected. Many of the plants are now safely stored in our nursery, ready to plant in Urumau later this year, some were even planted last season. Some plants will need another year to get big enough to plant but what a fabulous result for a bunch of people who are learning as they grow. Amazingly there is no manual on how to do this. Therefore by trial and error our team is learning what does/doesn't work.

Since resuming community planting in Urumau Reserve in 2015 we have found that it has been harder to source the plants we need from the DOC nursery. Due to our strict requirement that eco sourced plants meant plants only from the south side of the Port Hills, such a tiny ecological district meant we weren't a very high priority. This spurred us onto begin our own seed collecting group. Doing the work ourselves has saved our community quite a sum of money. Our plants that we have grown to date – based on DOC prices have a value of $5000!

We have been surprised and amazed at our results. Many of us have never grown plants before!

Plant Growing DJs Flax

If you are keen to try growing plants or if you want to be involved with the project we would love to hear from you. Tasks can include cleaning seed, germinating seed, and growing the seedlings to the next stage prior to the nursery. Our email is lytteltonreserves@hotmail.co.nz or txt 021 047 6144

And keep an eye out for our planting and maintenance days later in the year.

A big THANK YOU to our wonderful Lyttelton community: at our community planting days you helped to plant 213 plants, last year!

Did you know thatthat kowhai from our side of the hills have much smaller brighter leaves than the larger leaves of many of the kowhai on the northern side of the Port Hills.

Did you know that on the northern side of the Port Hills and the Canterbury plains there is basically no remnant vegetation left. That makes the south side of the Port Hills very special ecologically.

One year on from the Port Hills fires

A year on from the devastating Port Hills wildfires, reserve areas hard hit by the smoke and flames are showing encouraging signs of recovery. Thousands of young trees and seedlings planted after the fires are starting to take hold and other plants are naturally regenerating.

"It's really encouraging to see how much regeneration has occurred over the past 12 months," says Christchurch City Council Port Hills Ranger Di Carter.

Poroporo seedlings are breathing new life into fire hit areas of the Port Hills.

"It was heart-breaking to witness the devastation caused by the fires but it has been heart-warming to see the community come together to help us in our efforts to restore this iconic piece of the Canterbury landscape."

The Port Hills wildfires began on Monday 13 February 2017 and at their height covered an area of more than 1600 hectares. During the massive firefighting effort, helicopter pilot and decorated soldier Steve Askin, who was helping to fight the fire by air, was tragically killed when his helicopter crashed. Nine homes were lost and five damaged as a result of the fires, which took 66 days to fully extinguish. The fires burnt into reserve areas on the Port Hills and destroyed 6500 trees that had been planted by volunteers over the past decade.

Since the fires Christchurch City Council Park Rangers have spearheaded a massive replanting effort. With the support of volunteers they have planted 7200 plants over an area of 1.5 hectares in Marleys Hill Reserve and Kennedys Bush Reserve.

"We're very grateful to all the volunteers who gave up their time to help us replant these areas."

"It has been a major undertaking but we've had phenomenal support from the community who have been very keen to help with the replanting effort. We're very grateful to all the volunteers who gave up their time to help us replant these areas," says Ms Carter.

"The new plants are doing brilliantly and have come through the hot summer really well. We've had problems with thistle incursions and hares trying to eat the new plants in Kennedys Bush Reserve but 90 to 95 per cent of the plants have managed to survive," she says.

Thanks to the efforts of 15 schools who participated in the "collect, sow and grow poroporo" project, about 3000 poroporo seedlings have also been planted in the Port Hills.

"This project was essentially a trial to see how effectively poroporo could be grown and planted densely so it provides a less flammable buffer along road margins. We also wanted to see if we could encourage more rapid regeneration of native species into the surrounding bracken," says Ms Carter.

"The poroporo plants were grown in Coffee Culture cups with Living Earth compost and have survived incredibly well. We've lost a few of the smaller seedlings but we have had good success with the larger, more robust seedlings."

Ms Carter says the new plants will require regular maintenance over the next few years until they get properly established. Members of the public need to be aware that poroporo berries are poisonous and should not be eaten. The Council will be looking for volunteers to help with this work in the autumn.

Ms Carter says the focus over the winter months will be on replanting the Kennedys Bush Reserve boundaries with less flammable species of plants. The plan is to put in about 11,200 plants.

"We'll be getting volunteers to put in 1800 of the plants but the bulk are intended for planting around the less accessible boundaries of Kennedys Bush Reserve so that work will be done by the rangers," says Ms Carter.

If you are interested in volunteering to help with the ongoing maintenance or planting work on the Port Hills please contact Di Carter di.carter@ccc.govt.nz

Waterfront House / Port Talk

There are glowing reports from LPC Staff who have already moved into Waterfront House regarding the overall environment of their new offices. The layout inside is generally open plan with amazing views over the inner harbour.

As Waterfront House is inside the Port where only those with security cards can access it is now difficult for people who wish to gain information regarding any aspect of the Port including the various publications produced by the LPC, such as the LPCupdate. Port Talk on the corner of London Street and Oxford street is now therefore more important than ever. At the moment Port Talk consists of two small containers and these are to be replaced by a single larger structure, This will look more appealing from the street and of course be more practical.

Suddenly there is Smoke

Suddenly there is smoke in my nostrils and looking up it streams on the gale across the hill and around my home.

Walking up, the seat of the fire comes into view, orange flickering from beyond the plume,
one spur from where I am standing.

Then the thud, thud, thud of the helicopters, the pendulum of a monsoon bucket below one and a snorkel suspended beneath the other.

Working in relays, they fill and dump their briny payload on the blaze that spreads through gorse, its fingers feeling for the trees.

The urgency of the situation make the action seem to be proceeding in slow motion but the choppers gain the upper hand.

Bye and bye they are damping down hot spots and I can see men with a hose playing their jets on the pitch black earth as I walk away.

New year start for submarine pipeline work

Construction of two submarine pipelines to carry wastewater from Governors Bay and Diamond Harbour to Lyttelton will begin in February.

McConnell Dowell have been awarded the contract to build the 5km and 1.8km long pipelines, which are stage two of a four stage $53 million scheme that will end the routine discharge of treated wastewater into Lyttelton Harbour by 2021. Routine treated wastewater discharges into Lyttelton harbour will end by 2021.

Currently, wastewater from Lyttelton, Governors Bay and Diamond Harbour is treated at wastewater treatment plants in each of the townships before being discharged through outfall pipelines into Lyttelton Harbour. Under the new scheme untreated wastewater from the townships of Governors Bay and Diamond Harbour will be carried through the submarine pipelines to a new pump station on Simeon Quay in Lyttelton. It will then be piped through the Lyttelton Tunnel to the Ferrymead pump station and onto the Bromley wastewater treatment plant, where it will be treated. From there it will be discharged out to sea through the Christchurch Ocean Outfall.

Christchurch City Council City Service General Manager David Adamson says work on the first of the pipelines will begin in February and both pipelines should be completed by early 2019. The pipelines will be buried about one metre deep into the seabed, which is sufficiently deep to prevent anchors catching or the pipes being damaged in storms, tsunamis or earthquakes.

"Construction of the marine pipelines will involve pre-fabrication of pipe strings onshore before they are joined together and bottom-pulled out to the required location. A backhoe dredger will then be employed to excavate the trench, lower the pipeline and backfill it," Mr Adamson says.

"McConnell Dowell have considerable experience of this type of work. They have built several marine outfall pipes, including the Christchurch Ocean Outfall eight years ago," he says.

Lyttelton Netball Club

Like all local sports teams there is only a club if parents and supporters provide the framework for the teams to be able to participate. In Lyttelton the local netball club has been running for some years. Laura Hopper is the current head coach. Jane Walders and Tania Daly are two of the many parent supporters who assist the teams. The club has been active for the last seven years but has been a sports team in Lyttelton for many years.

The club caters for players of all ages. "You can start playing when you are in Year 3" Jane said. The importance of netball to our community can be seen by the installation of a terrific new netball court in the grounds of Lyttelton Primary. This court is central to the club. "We train at the Lyttelton Primary School netball court and also in the Rec Centre. The Rec Centre is used when the days are shorter and it's too dark to train outside," she said.

While the training is done locally the playing is centralised at the Hagley Netball Courts. That's great to know that you don't have to drive miles. "The Lyttelton teams play against teams from in and around Christchurch" said Jane. The entire centre is run by the Christchurch Netball Centre and they are part of Netball New Zealand. "This gives us access to the Future FERNs programme. This is a fantastic opportunity for our younger players - years 3-6, said Jane. This programme has been developed to introduce the skills at age-appropriate level. It's great to know that the emphasis is on fun. In this programme the girls focus on mini-gameplay. Jane tells me it's less focused on rules and more on the players actually getting to play the game.

Last year the Lyttelton club had seven teams. Age groups included Year 3/4, Year 5, Year 6, Under12's, U13's, U14's, U17's. In 2016 they also had a senior team in the third grade. Unfortunately that team dropped off due to life changes and other commitments. But that's not to say there can't be a senior team this year.

Before the season starts, May-September the Lyttelton Netball Club is seeking new players, coaches and managers. It appears that most of the people helping out have done so because they have daughters who have got involved. This is the case for Jane. For Tania Daly she was a player and then when her daughter got involved she started to coach her team. Laura Hopper who is the team club captain and coach also got involved this way.

Are you a mum or dad with a young child who wants to play netball? Maybe you'd like to like to help the team. Jane says often a parent will get into coaching as they guide their child through the club. "Some coaches take the development path with their child; where the coach grows as the players' grow in their skills and development. Christchurch Netball Centre provides workshops prior and during the season for coaches at all levels Lyttelton Netball Club is committed to helping coaches with their professional development and cover the coaching workshop fees" said Jane.

If you are interested in getting involved with the Lyttelton Netball Club they would love to hear from you. "We are not only promoting for players, but we are also in need of coaches and managers (this role is generally filled by a player's parent, given they are school-age players)" said Jane.

The club is having a fun registration day on Saturday February 17th 1-3pm at the Lyttelton Recreation Centre. Come along and express your interest. If you can't make that you can contact the club LytteltonNetball@gmail.com or ring Jane Walders 027-415-6545

SUMNER ROAD GEOTECHNICAL RISK MITIGATION PROJECT ROAD CLOSURE - JANUARY 2018

The Sumner Road Geotechnical Risk Mitigation Project team have been working to reduce rock fall risk along Sumner Road.

There are many existing retaining walls below the roadway that need to be repaired and reinforced this year. One of the walls in need of repair is approximately 100 metres in length and is located below Sumner Rd at the intersection with Reserve Terrace.

The work includes drilling anchors into the bedrock behind the existing wall and the installation of new reinforced concrete facing, safety barriers and the reinstatement of surface pavement.

To safely perform these repairs, Reserve Terrace will need to be closed to the public for approximately three months from as early as 17 January.

People will still have vehicle and pedestrian access to their properties but restrictions to the existing closure of Sumner Road will be extended. See the map below for where the closest retaining wall will be built and the road closed.

Just Checking.

It used to be said that plots were hatched in smoke-filled rooms. Nowadays there is probably less smoke but plots, under the title of plans, are undoubtedly still being hatched.

This particular group of planners (let's be kind) was made up of a few who saw themselves as the probable progenitors of a new, fringe political party but the first problems that they were facing were: 1. what introductory message should they put out to voters thoroughly dissatisfied with the status quo: 2. what would they call the party? And 3. where did they stand on the political spectrum? Were they Left, Right, Centre, Populist (whatever that meant) or just wanting change?

One of the group said that they needed to get back to fundamentals and should be called the Fundamental Party. That immediately raised the question: what was fundamental? Was it Health? The economy? Equality? Debate raged until one argued that those were all derivatives and that the real fundamentals were: air, water, food and shelter so what could they do about those?

It didn't take long to realise that these were the things most threatened by climate change, opening up a whole range of possibilities. Time to stretch legs and have a coffee break.

Back from that it was soon agreed that as one could not put green-house gases in prison, the attack had to be directed against those factors most responsible: the global economy/transport/consumerism/whatever. They decided that consumerism would be the easiest to go for, possibly by legislating against advertising, especially of non-essential luxuries.

That is when things got a bit devious. Over the next few meetings they agreed a statement condemning the more flagrant aspects of consumerism and promising that, if elected, the Fundamental Party would bring in legislation severely proscribing the activities of the advertising industry. Having done that, one member was asked to leak that statement through the internet.

The response was immediate and overwhelmingly negative: from the media who saw revenue vanishing; from established parties with rude comments about fundamentals; the advertising industry itself using its wide-ranging techniques and, surprisingly, the general population.

Satisfied that alternatives would have to be explored, the Party's spin doctor blandly claimed through the media that they had no idea of the source of the leak, that it would certainly not be part of the Party's Manifesto and that someone was obviously flying a kite.

Black Point rock remediation works

What	Rock remediation work will be carried out on the cliff face/rock bluff around Black Point to allow a public walking track to be built below as part of the Head to Head Walkway
Where	Black Point, along the cliff face on the northern side of the subdivision
When	Between Monday 12 February - Thursday 22 February (weather dependent)
Why	Loose and unstable rocks on the cliff face and rock bluff will be dislodged to remove or minimise the hazard to the proposed walking track below
Contact	The contractor is Solutions 2 Access, phone 021 270 6737 between 8.00 am - 5.00 pm Monday to Friday

The Head to Head Walkway is an aspirational project to create a continuous walkway around the coastline of Whakaraupo/Lyttleton Harbour, from Awaroa/Godley Head to Te Piaka/Adderley Head.

Driven by the Banks Peninsula Community Board and volunteers from the local community, this aspiration is a work in progress. Some sections of the route are already available as public walking tracks, other sections are being developed in stages to create linkages between existing tracks.

Before we can formalise the walking track around Black Point, we need to carry out some rock remediation work to make the area safe. This will involve removing loose and/or unstable rocks on the cliff face to remove or minimise the hazard.

The work includes the use of low intensity explosives, you may hear small 'pops' during work hours (8.00 am - 5.00 pm, Monday to Friday), these 'pops' should not cause alarm. There will be signage and spotters in place during the work to keep the public safe.

Thanks for your patience as we work in your area

Noise

There may be increased noise, dust and vibrations during work but it shouldn't impact on your power, water, gas or phone services

Safety

Safety is our biggest priority so please keep children and pets away from worksites.

Bins

Please put your bins out as usual before 6am on your collection day. Our crew will move and return them if needed.

CO-CREATING COLLETT'S CORNER...

Ohu Development is working with the Lyttelton community to create a building on the Collett's Corner site that will be collectively owned by the community it supports. We listened to your ideas for this project, and we would like to thank you for taking the time and giving thought to what we could create on this site. From the many ideas we received, we have identified the following two possible options:

Option 1 - INTERGENERATIONAL

For this option we envisage a mixed-use development with a focus on building intergenerational connections through how we live and work.

During our listening phase, we heard from you that there are many active elderly residents that would like to continue to reside in the area but may have limited mobility. The proposal is to build intergenerational accommodation for our local residents who want to live in the heart of the village, so they can easily get around as well as be involved.

Below is an outline for the different functions the building will have:

First and Second Floor: A mix of accommodation for people looking to downsize as they move into their later years, as well as short-term leased apartments to enable the digital nomads to visit and stay in the community.

Ground Floor: An integrated co-working space, community focused restaurant and shop will provide a space for small businesses, local community groups and creative practitioners to work together. The restaurant will be designed to bring the community together to share conversation and kai. At the heart of the space will be an elders circle to inspire sharing stories.

Basement: A small fleet of approximately 30 shared electric vehicles complete with charging stations. Vehicles would be available for both residents and visitors.

We have two questions for you

1. Which of the two options most appeals to you?
2. Do you want to be involved in one of these two options? For example are you an investor or would you like to operate one of the businesses?

To stay Informed visit us at:
www.facebook.com/collettscorner/
www.ohu.nz

To get involved contact Jules Lee at 027 739 1832 or jules@ohu.nz

Option 2 - ATTRACTION

We envisage a mixed use development with a focus on creating a unique attraction in Lyttelton to serve locals and visitor alike i.e. promoting Lyttelton as a destination. We heard from you that you would like to have a memorable place to take your visitors, the suggestions we collected were: hot baths, boutique hotel, quirky cinema and a souk like market.

Below is an outline for the different functions the building will have:

Second Floor: A quirky cinema with views towards the hills and harbour, reflecting and connecting to Lyttelton's creative scene. We heard from the Lyttelton Primary School Student Council that they would like a place to screen locally made movies, together with themed movies that would cater for all generations.

First Floor: A unique hotel accommodation for loved ones to stay and experience our vibrant and thriving community, designed to cater to a range of interests including small self contained apartments, single well appointed hotel rooms and backpacker dorm room accommodation for those traveling on a budget.

Ground Floor: We heard from many of the market stalls holders that they wanted a more permanent presence in the township. The ground floor will be designed as a market hall with eateries and shops featuring local products and a range of restaurants catering local food, wine and beer similar to the Saturday market but indoors and open during the week.

Basement: Roman style bath and spa for locals and visitors to relax and heal, this would incorporate therapeutic treatments such as massage and physio therapist

Save the JETTY

Since 1874, Governors Bay Jetty has graced our fine bay, but now it is in danger of being lost to history.

Help save it by becoming a Plank Sponsor. Donate $500 towards the Jetty rebuild and get your name or a short message engraved onto a plaque which will feature on a plank of the new Jetty.

Don't have $500? No problem, every little bit helps!
We appreciate all donations.

History

The first part of Governors Bay Jetty was built in 1874 for the princely sum of £242 (about $32,000 in today's money).

Due to silting of the bay, the Jetty was extended in 1915 and again in 1927, when it reached its final length of 300 metres long, the same length as New Brighton Pier.

In the early days, the Jetty was used by a regular steam boat service, which ran from Lyttelton to Governors Bay carrying picnickers and visitors to the Pleasure Gardens at the Ocean View Hotel, now known as Governors Bay Hotel.

Over the last 140 years, the Jetty's function has changed from practical to pleasure. From a place where steam boats moored, to a place for recreation, where people can walk, kayak to, and jump off for a refreshing swim in the bay.

The Jetty was closed in 2011 when an engineering inspection found it to be unsafe.

Why are we saving the Jetty?

Our community could not abandon this amazing, iconic Jetty, so we set up Governors Bay Jetty Restoration Trust to help save it. The Trust is led by a group of local volunteers committed to replacing the Jetty.

A full like-for-like replacement of this Jetty will cost $3 million. Christchurch City Council has committed at least $535,000 towards the rebuild, which represents 50 metres of the 300 metre long Jetty.

Help us

We have everything in place to rebuild the Jetty. All we need now is the money to restore this magical place.

Every donation helps, and the first 1500 donations of $500 or more will get their name on a plaque on a plank on the new Jetty.

WHAKA-ORA
Healthy Harbour, Ki Uta Ki Tai

E aro ki te hā 2018: Be the Change

“ Change will not come if we wait for some other person, or if we wait for some other time. WE are the ones we've been waiting for. WE are the change that we seek. - Barack Obama ”

Yvette Couch-Lewis

It's this sentiment - that everyone is a change maker - that encapsulates the essence and vision Te Hapū o Ngāti Wheke, Te Rūnanga o Ngāi Tahu, Environment Canterbury, Christchurch City Council, and the Lyttelton Port Company have for the future of Whakaraupō/Lyttelton Harbour, and the basis of which the Whakaraupō /Lyttelton Harbour Catchment Management Plan (otherwise known as Whaka-Ora Healthy Harbour) is built on.

Being a change maker in the context of Whakaraupō /Lyttelton Harbour is about recognising the area has some unique issues - sedimentation and erosion, pollution, protecting indigenous plants and marine life among other things- and being willing to get involved to ensure the harbour is protected and preserved for our children and grandchildren.

In November we launched the draft plan and invited anyone with an interest in Whakaraupō/Lyttelton Harbour to have a read, meet with us at both formal community meetings and drop-in sessions, and provide feedback which we could incorporate into the final plan.

Thank you again to all those who attended these meetings and all those who took the time to read the plan and give us your feedback and suggestions.

The biggest feedback we received was that it was an easy read for the community and you really enjoyed it.

For us, that was encouraging to hear because this plan is intended to be a community plan that provides the overarching vision of the harbour and it is for the community to take ownership of and build on this vision.

We were excited by the enthusiasm the community had for being involved in turning this vision into a reality.

You also told us it was important to ensure children were involved in the implementation of the plan. One way we intend on doing this is through supporting local schools in their environmental projects.

One question you asked was who will fund and ensure the implementation of this plan happens. This is something the partner organisations are currently working through as the plan is finalised.

For those who are interested in learning more about the project, you can find the draft plan on our website www.healthyharbour.org.nz

The Whaka Ora Healthy Harbour project will be officially launched on March 7 at Rapaki Marae.

Yvette Couch-Lewis is the Chair of the Whakaraupō/Lyttelton Harbour Catchment Management Plan Governance Group.
