Lyttelton Harbour Review is a 100% voluntary community newsletter initiative developed after the February 2011 earthquake. It's a Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre initiative produced by former Chairperson Wendy Everingham and Committee Member Jenny-Lee Love.

The objective of the Lyttelton Harbour Review is to help keep local residents informed with what is going on in the wider Lyttelton Harbour community. Of course the success of the Lyttelton Harbour Review could not be possible without the ongoing support and enthusiasm from the wider community.

A big thank you goes out to everyone who sends information; is willing to be interviewed or lets us know what might be happening in the neighbourhood. The Lyttelton Harbour Review project would not be possible without you all.

If you have an event, topic, sport announcement, fundraiser or cause that you would like to share with the harbour community, then Wendy or Jenny-Lee would love to hear from you:

Lyttelton Library of Tools and Things - LLOTTs

The Lyttelton Library of Tools and Things, (LLOTTs) is supported by Project Lyttelton.

LLOTTs is a brand new innovation that will serve the community with those "once in a while tools" that we all need from time to time, but don't own.

Rather than going out to purchase a particular tool, or hire it at some expense, you will be able to borrow it from LLOTTs. Tools are available for loan, to residents of Lyttelton, Heathcote and the Harbour Basin. There will be a small annual subscription of $40, inclusive of GST. As a bonus for Timebankers, membership will be $20 per year plus 1 time credit. Please note: tools are not available for commercial or financial gain.

The registration and booking service will be available from mid-December 2018. You can also visit us at the Farmers Market on December 8th.

The next time you need a tool, check out our website and see if the item is available. If we don't have a particular tool you think would be useful, we welcome your feedback for next year's purchases.

Tell your friends to join up. The more members means the more tools we can buy.

This service is run entirely by volunteers. If you would like to help in any way, please ask for a subscription waiver. At the moment, we need extra support from people with IT experience and for handling tools when booking in and out. If you are interested, please email Stewart Henry at lytteltonlotts@gmail.com

We look forward to meeting you!

Push on to make peninsula pest free

Christchurch City Council has signed on to help work towards making Banks Peninsula and the Port Hills pest free by 2050.

Pesky possums aren't wanted on Banks Peninsula or the Port Hills.

The ambitious goal is outlined in a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) signed yesterday by more than a dozen groups and agencies including the Council, the Department of Conservation, Environment Canterbury, the Banks Peninsula Conservation Trust, the Rod Donald Banks Peninsula Trust, the Summit Road Society and Ngāi Tahu rūnanga.

The MOU commits the signatories to working collaboratively to ensure the 115,000 hectare Banks Peninsula is effectively free of pest animals so native biodiversity can thrive.

It was developed by a working group led by the Banks Peninsula Conservation Trust.

"Controlling animal pests on Banks Peninsula is not a new concept," says David Miller, who chaired the working group and is a trustee of the Banks Peninsula Conservation Trust.

"Pockets of activity have been underway for decades and have achieved significant success. For example, landowners in the south east corner of the peninsula have had trap lines in place for over 20 years and now live amongst thriving colonies of white-flipped penguins.

"DOC and the city have had a very successful programme on Kaitorete, ECan has led extensive possum control work, a collaboration of these agencies is running a feral goat eradication programme, and the Summit Road Society is leading Predator Free Port Hills, coordinating a large network of suburban trappers.

"However, if we are serious about achieving a Pest Free Banks Peninsula by 2050 we must have a coordinated approach to upscaling this work," Mr Miller says.

Conservation Minister Eugenie Sage says Pest Free Banks Peninsula is a wonderful local initiative.

"This community-led programme will transform the environment for our native plants and wildlife to flourish on the doorstep of our second largest city," Ms Sage says.

Friend and advocate

Lyttelton Museum is sad to report that we have lost a great advocate with the passing of Thérèse Angelo on 15 October. Thérèse, who was the Director of the Air Force Museum of New Zealand, was a member of Lyttelton Museum's management committee for six years and she brought her extensive knowledge and experience to our vision for a new museum for Lyttelton and the wider harbour communities. Until recently, Thérèse and her husband Rob lived in Lyttelton and she had a real passion for the new museum.

Thérèse was recognised for her museum work with many awards, but highlights were the Museums Aotearoa Individual Award in 2010, followed in 2011 by being made a Member of the New Zealand Order of Merit. It was in Thérèse's nature to solve problems. A stand-out example of that was when she, with the support of the AFMNZ Board, provided space after the Canterbury earthquakes for organisations that had lost their buildings and needed somewhere to house their precious collections of objects and records. The Recovery Centre out at Wigram became a temporary home for 38 groups and Lyttelton Historical Museum Society was one of them. It is where our collection is safely stored while we work to get our new museum built in London St.

A Celebration of Time

Timeball Returns

One hundred and fifty years ago on November 2nd 1868 New Zealand became the first country in the world to adopt Standard Time. Prior to that each township in New Zealand had their own time! Settlements often differed by only a few minutes. Imagine how difficult it was to administer!

Heritage New Zealand thought the re-opening of the Timeball Station on this significant anniversary of standard time was a very appropriate date to return the Timeball Station to the people of New Zealand.

CEO Andrew Coleman of Heritage NZ talked about the significance of time to us all to the present day. Back in the 1800's the Timeball Station was essential for mariners. Opened in 1876, the ball dropping at 1pm enabled mariners to synchronise their ships chronometers with Greenwich Mean Time. This enabled them to work out longitude on their sea voyages. This vital time piece was used between 1876 and 1934. The ball worked in conjunction with the main flag pole. The flags relayed messages to ships in port. The flag system stayed operational until 1941. Whilst no longer used for navigational purposes the Timeball Station has been an iconic feature high above the port in Lyttelton.

Andrew Coleman proudly exclaimed "Look what we have all achieved" as he talked about how this iconic building had been reconstructed since the destruction of the original building in 2011. "None of this would have been possible without the support of many people" he said. The opening event was a celebration of all the people who had made this happen. All the invited guests were funders, workers, locals with connections to the site and elected members.

Landmark Inc was first to be acknowledged. This group from Auckland kindly donated their last funds to this project. They were the first major funder on board generously donating 1 million dollars to the project. "We had a desire to get the people of Lyttelton's tower back" said Viv Mill.

Project managers; architect Dave Pearson, stonemasons, crane drivers were all on site. For all of them this work was a once in a life time opportunity and they enjoyed working on this project and creating something really special.

Andrew Stark from Stark Brothers talked about his family's links to Lyttelton and the Timeball. "My family arrived in 1925. Our business has been part of this community since 1958. Over the years we have helped with repairs and during the rebuild we were very proud to repair and store the mast of the flagpole", he said.

A very new edition to the new Timeball is the wonderful lighting. Each night thanks to Kevin Cowley the Timeball will shine. "I have a passion to see heritage in the evenings".

Jan Titus the former manager of the Timeball Station spoke about looking after the site for the last 18 years. "I am still very proud to be part of this site and I have a deep sense of affection for the place". She went on to thank many others who had helped the Timeball over the years - the Late Rob Gendall from Lyttelton Engineering, Stark Bros, Lyttelton Information Centre, Margaret Jefferies, and the former staff of the Timeball.

The ceremony concluded with the Mayor Lianne Dalziel and families connected to the Timeball activating the mechanism to lower the Timeball for the first time since the earthquakes.

Take a walk up the hill to visit this old favourite. Another pleasant surprise is the new carving by Caine Tauwhare and Josh Brennan that stands tall in the back garden.

Stay a Night on Ōtamahua -Quail Island

Twenty years of native restoration is almost complete. A new chapter in the life of Quail Island has opened. Over a hundred locals witnessed the opening of the former caretaker's cottage, now called Ōtamahua Hut, as a Department of Conservation overnight hut. The new hut for the DOC estate sleeps twelve people and it's right on our doorstep.

Andy Thompson the Operations Manager at Mahaanui DOC is very proud of this new hut. "As a member of staff this has been such a lovely peaceful place to stay. We felt it was time to share this experience with the public". It's a new type of accommodation for the Department of Conservation.

the project. Their generosity helped fund the hut restoration. With their support DOC was able to contract David Brailsford to do the wonderful restoration work on the hut. For David the entire project was described as his Robinson Crusoe experience. Chair of the Rod Donald Trust, Simon Mortlock hopes the hut will be "A Place for Children to collect Memories".

Ian McLennan the Chair of the Ōtamahua -Quail Island Trust was also very hands on with the project. A draughtsman by trade he did all the draught work required for the project. He explained some of the history of the hut. "It was built between 1910 – 1920, as a caretaker's cottage for the animal quarantine station. When that closed down it was used by the farmers who lived on the island". David Halliwell was the last farmer on the island and left in 1975. Unfortunately no member of the family was able to attend this event. Another momentous event that Ian explained was timely for the opening was the planting of the 95,000th tree!

The hut, already 100 years old is now ready for its next 100 years of stories. After a blessing by Kopa Lee representing Te Hapu o Ngāti Wheke it was appropriate that a large group of children performed a Waiata.

Article Lyttelton Review

Minister for Conservation Eugene Sage said "There are 1000 huts owned by the Department of Conservation. 700 of those are in the South Island. Until very recently the huts were for mountaineers, hikers, game hunters etc. They were pretty basic. This hut is very flash. I'd call it a front country hut that is accessible by public transport"! Yes this hut can be reached by public bus from Christchurch and then a quick boat trip by Black Cat from Lyttelton. The other wonderful news about this hut came from Black Cat. The opening of the hut means the island will be accessible all year round. That is very positive for locals and visitors. Paul Milligan also added that if you are visiting the island for an overnight stay there will be a 20% discount from Black Cat as an added incentive to come over for the experience.

The Rod Donald Trust was also a key supporter of Major Milestone Mr Gamble Turns 100!

A recent knock on a local door was an introduction to our newest centenarian. Mr Charles Gamble is very pleased to be turning 100. "My secret is good living", he said. "No smoking, no drinking, good wholesome food and just looking after my body".

Charles better known as Charlie is as active and fit as a person many years his junior. He proudly shows off his garden. It is immaculate. Everything is manicured. It has the feel of a country manor house. He also does most of the housework whilst his wife of 31 years does all the cooking. Between the two of them there are a lot of years in the Gamble household.

Charlie is a recently new import to Lyttelton! He arrived in the 80's when he married local Cynthia. Previous to that he was born in Christchurch and spent most of his young life on his parent's farm near Oxford. They were grain farmers. He grew up with the discipline of farm life and working hard just came naturally to him.

He recalls being very lucky as a young person. His parents decided to sell the family farm and the proceeds were distributed between his family members. He was able to purchase a place out at Dunsandel with an additional 70 acres of land. "No sooner had I purchased the land, a guy from Wellington approached me to sell. He spoke the right sort of money so within no time the land was sold and I was off on a new path", he said.

Woodturning was something that really appealed to him. There was an opportunity to learn locally and so he relished the opportunity. For many years he supplied hand crafted pieces of furniture to locals and a store in Wellington. He's still got lots of pieces at home in Lyttelton. He then switched to bus driving and had twenty eight years driving children to Brookside school. "The company I drove for was taken over by Midland's and that got me involved in the visitor industry. This opened up opportunities for me in Australia and Fiji".

"Back in those days you had to retire. I managed to keep going two years longer than I should have. The boss said I had to say goodbye. I had driven one million miles for the company"!

Retirement has been his Lyttelton life. "Initially it was a little strange being in Lyttelton", he said. Charlie wasn't used to being by the sea having spent all his life inland. "However I do love Lyttelton and there is nothing to criticise", he said.

"Life just keeps on going. I'm up at 7am each day. I take no medication. Nothing stops me" he said.

Mean while Charlie is looking forward to his special celebration at the Brighton Working Men's Club with his friends and family. His special day has already been recognised by the Queen and the Governor General. Their cards sit proudly on the table.

Happy 100th Charlie.

Seniors Photographic Opportunity

Diamond Harbour Camera Club are very pleased to have won funding from the Lyttelton-based Cressy Trust to help run an introductory photography course for senior residents of the Lyttelton Harbour Basin.

We are very fortunate to have Christchurch photographer Scott Fowler to teach the free, two-day course. It will be held in the Green Room of Diamond Harbour Community Hall on Saturday and Sunday 19 and 20 January 2019 from 10 am to 4 pm.

The Cressy Trust was established to support senior residents of the Harbour Basin, so all those accepted onto the course must be aged 60 or over and must live in the Lyttelton Harbour Basin (evidence will be required).

To apply for a place on the course, applicants should email Camera Club Chair Joan Gladwyn at jgladwynnz@gmail.com with their details. Applications must be received by December 15.

Naval Point shipshape for summer

Work crews have set sail for Naval Point to relevel parking areas, fill in potholes and improve drainage in preparation for the busy boating season.

The popular public slipway in Lyttelton will also benefit from tree pruning and site maintenance work, as well as improved line marking and signage.

The six-week programme of work will boost waterfront access for boaties and pedestrians alike, supporting a range of summer activities.

Contractors using the eastern section of the site, near the Coastguard building, are expected to finish their weekday work by Christmas.

The targeted maintenance and improvement programme is not part of the Naval Point Development Plan and will not affect future planning and site development.

The development plan has yet to go out for public consultation.

News from Naval Point Club

A Class World Championships

Two NPCL club members are going to the A Class World Championships in Australia which starts in two weeks time. Daniel Philpott is already over there practicing and John Kennett is heading over this weekend. New Zealand has 12 sailors attending, which is a record for NZ boats at this overseas event. Team NZ have their afterguard of Peter, Glen and Blair sailing identical boats so they are likely to be the ones to beat. They are now foiling both upwind and downwind with speeds up to 30 knots. Entries are around 110 boats so it will be a big event in the beautiful Hervey Bay in Queensland. The event should be fun for all competitors and there will certainly be some stiff competition. Good luck Daniel and John!

SITUATION VACANT - Cleaner

Kiri, our cleaner is moving on to a new career and we need someone to replace her for casual cleaning work of the club facilities. This would be ideal for someone that lives locally and wants a job with flexible hours. Kitchen/Bar support can also be part of this role. Please contact Marina in the office on 328 7029 or email if you are interested.

Club Cafe

Hours during sailing season:

Saturdays 9am-12noon approx

Wednesdays 4.30-6pm approx

Coffee and hot chocolate are on offer as well as pies and mini muffins.

We are still looking for volunteers to help in the cafe and bar over the summer season. If you can help out please let Marina in the office know.

Jikyo-jutsu – Lyttelton Class

Jikyo-jutsu is a Japanese exercise that began in 1916 with some influence of Chinese medicinal ideas. It includes 31 movements altogether. Each movement has a specific effect on particular body parts, with a lot of stretching and breathing.

Our Lyttelton weekly sessions started in 1996 when Sachiko, who was a Jikyo-jutsu instructor, visited her daughter Maki in Lyttelton. Some of Maki's friends were curious and wanted to try this exotic-named exercise and booked Lyttelton Rec Centre as one-off experience.

It has been very popular. Jikyo-jutsu, has been on every week since for more than 20 years despite all the mishaps such as earthquakes.

Many of our members have been doing Jikyo-jutsu for more than a decade and Sachiko, who is now 88 years old, comes to New Zealand every year. She is still very agile and supple, thus has been a great inspiration for all the members.

In our Jikyo-jutsu session, each participant donates $2 every week to pay for the venue. This small contribution by everyone enables us to donate a good sum to charities at the end of year, as well as subsidising our twice-a-year lunch.
