End of An Era

Sue-Ellen Sandilands Retires

Sue-Ellen Sandilands has been the welcoming face at Project Lyttelton for the last sixteen years. Last week at the Lyttelton Community Garden, her work colleagues and friends came together to celebrate the wonderful contribution she has made over the years to both Project Lyttelton and the wider community. Current Project Lyttelton Chair Sarah Van Der Burch summed up Sue-Ellen's role rather nicely, "You have been the beating heart of this organisation for all these years".

Sue-Ellen has literally helped everyone who came into the organisation. Not only was she the office administrator she was the special "mother" to many. She was the "go to" person. The person who got the pipe fixed, the one who paid the accounts, kept the place clean. She went over and above the "boundaries of her job" and helped with so many aspects of Project Lyttelton life.

Hearts are what Sue-Ellen will be forever remembered for. Not only was she the beating heart of the Project Lyttelton organisation but during the earthquakes both herself and Bettina Evans sat for day after day outside the Library in a stitching circle with community members. They were making the now famous hearts that residents and visitors to Lyttelton wore proudly during those shaky days over ten years ago.

Welcome Bags for the Timebank is another legacy she leaves. "Sue-Ellen literally has stitched hundreds of these bags for all the new people who have come to Lyttelton over the years", said long time college and friend Wendy Everingham. It was very appropriate that the current Project Lyttelton Manager, Jacqueline Newbound gave Sue-Ellen her farewell gifts in a lovely hand sewn bag.

The Community Garden has also been a major part of the work Sue-Ellen was involved with at Project Lyttelton. It was rather fitting to have her farewell surrounded by the raised garden beds and the fluttering flags that was also synonymous with her and Project Lyttelton. Working with Jacqueline for so many years and with the ebb and flow of the energy a wonderful community space has been created that is really humming along now.

In a sometimes-emotional farewell, an amazing era for Project Lyttelton has ended. Sue-Ellen, Margaret Jefferies and Wendy Everingham were the core team that literally drove Project Lyttelton for most of those years and now all those links to the past are gone and the new generation has taken over. Sue-Ellen leaves the organisation and is very positive for the future of Project Lyttelton and is excited at what lies ahead for her. Margaret Jefferies spirit was overhead, and Sue-Ellen reflected that Margaret always said, "Change is good, nothing ever fails, embrace change". With that her role passed over to Claire Coates. Sue-Ellen leaves having done an amazing job. Thank you, Sue Ellen Sandilands.

Consultation opens on Freedom Camping Bylaw review

Christchurch City Council is calling for public feedback on proposed changes to the Freedom Camping Bylaw.

"Today marks the beginning of a five-week consultation period in which we invite people to have their say on the bylaw changes that we are proposing," says Council Head of Strategic Policy Emma Davis.

"The feedback we get from people will be important as it will influence the final form of the Freedom Camping Bylaw."

The Council's bylaw has been in place for five years and legally has to be reviewed. The bylaw has generally been working well, but Council staff are recommending a small number of changes.

Those changes include:

- Making the temporary ban on freedom camping in the North Beach carpark permanent. The ban would apply at weekends from October to May.
- Creating a City Coastal Restricted Zone – where freedom campers could stay for up to four nights in any 30-day period. This would replace the current rule, which allows campers to stay for two nights in a 30-day period, but not within 500 metres of where they have previously stayed. This new zone will prevent campers using the 500 metre rule to move short distances every few days to stay in the coastal area for extended periods of time.

- Introducing a new rule to encourage campers to be more careful about how they set up their camping vehicles and any other camping gear. The rule would prevent campers from blocking thoroughfares and spreading out, particularly in busy car parks, where other users need access and where it could be a safety issue.
- Creating a specified area at Naval Point in Lyttelton where freedom campers can stay, and limiting the number of freedom camping spots to 18 vehicles.

At the same time as the Council has been proposing local changes, the Government has been proposing national changes. The Government proposals are likely to lead to changes to the Freedom Camping Act, but won't be finalised for some time.

"This is a separate process to the Council's bylaw review", says Ms Davis, "It's important that we continue the process to review our bylaw, or the bylaw will lapse, leaving us with no bylaw to manage freedom camping. There's strong public support for the bylaw, so we don't want that to happen."

The Council's bylaw process will be completed before changes to the Freedom Camping Act are finalised.

Find out more about the proposed changes to the Freedom Camping Bylaw and how to make a submission. Visit <https://www.ccc.govt.nz/the-council/consultations-and-submissions/haveyoursay/show/408>

Council Moving to better Protect Native Trees and Plants

Formal submissions on a proposed change to better protect native trees and plants will open on 19 May.

Christchurch City Council wants feedback on a proposed District Plan change to better protect and maintain indigenous vegetation across the district.

Proposed Plan Change 7 – Managing Significant Indigenous Vegetation proposes new rules around the clearance of native trees and plants that apply to areas of coastal farmland. It also seeks to amend the definition of improved pasture relating to areas of existing pasture, as well as policies that apply to indigenous vegetation clearance across the entire district.

An initial round of feedback was called for earlier this year, resulting in some changes to what Christchurch City Council is proposing to better protect native vegetation, particularly around the amount that can be cleared consecutively to manage cumulative effects.

Council Head of Planning and Strategic Transport David Griffiths says the Council wants to know what people think about the proposal, in case there is anything it hasn't considered when drafting the plan change.

"The proposed plan change will affect any individual wanting to undertake clearance of native trees and plants at or above limits established in the District Plan, as well as farming activities to maintain existing pasture for grazing livestock."

From Wednesday, 19 May, the proposed plan change can be viewed during opening hours at any Council service centres or libraries. It can also be viewed online at ccc.govt.nz/planchange7 from 19 May.

Submissions must be received before 5pm on 21 June 2021.

The Christchurch Foundation

Helping to Make Your Dreams Reality

In 2015 Project Lyttelton was honoured by the Tindall Foundation as part of their 20th Anniversary celebrations, so was the Acorn Foundation in Tauranga. The Acorn Foundation was a local philanthropic organisation that offered the people of Tauranga a means to support their local community via the Foundation in the way of personal and business donations and bequests. In 2015 Christchurch did not have a Foundation. I remember Margaret Jefferies thinking this would be a great opportunity. Deputy Mayor Andrew Turner also thought the same.

"The Christchurch Foundation became a registered charity in 2017. Staff were appointed later that year and work is now well underway on the development of the giving programmes, systems and procedures, as well as securing funds from generous people and companies". Christchurch Foundation Website

The Foundation is a standalone entity that enables residents and businesses many opportunities to invest in the place we love. Donations can be targeted to specific projects, distinct areas, a specific cause or can be used for general purposes guided by the discretion of the Trustees under strict controls.

"For those who have dreams for our city, The Christchurch Foundation makes it easier for you to make a difference. We offer a personal service for seamless giving. You don't give to the Christchurch Foundation, you give through us to the causes in our city that are important to you." said Trust CE Amy Carter.

There are currently many funding streams that harbour people may be interested to apply for or donate to. With such an artistic community the Aspiring Actors Grant may be useful. This is a new funding stream donated by Shakespearean actor and writer Ben Crystal. Ben has given the Foundation funds to assist a talented actor who needs a little cash to assist them pursue their craft. Applications for this grant unfortunately close just before the Review goes to print on May 21st.

Deputy Mayor Andrew Turner is one of the Christchurch Foundation Trustees. As well as being on the governance team he is also a founding donor of the PRIDE Endowment Fund, by donating fees he earned from another Trustee role he was appointed to by the Council. "With a kick start from me, The Christchurch Foundation is seeking other likeminded people to raise a capital base of $75,000. From that capital, income earned will be distributed to the Rainbow Community via grants to support celebration of this community and it's wellbeing into the future", he said. To date 25% of the capital has been raised. The fund is open and seeking more supporters.

Lyttelton has always been a hub of inspiring women. The Kate Sheppard Women's Fund supports girls and women in our city who are change makers in our city. This fund is also an endowment fund with the aim of distributing small grants that can be used by the recipients for anything that furthers the changes they are pursuing. One of the early recipients from fund has been local Ciara Foley for her Climate Change work in Schools 4 Climate Change.

The Rod Donald Trust is another local group currently working in partnership with the Foundation to raise funding to purchase Te Ahu Pātiki. This land above Orton Bradley Park consists of 500 hectares of land including the summits of Mt Herbert/ Te Ahu Pātiki and Mt Bradley. Public donations via the Foundation will enable this farmland to be transformed into a native forest and protect an entire catchment from the summit to sea. It will also secure public access on Te Ara Pātaka, the Ōtautahi/ Christchurch to Akaroa tramping network. The Trust has until July to raise all the funding. The bulk of the $1,500,000 has been raised.

The Current Funding opportunities at the Christchurch Foundation are:

Pride Fund, Te Ahu Pātiki Fund, Sports Inclusivity Fund, The Kate Shepherd Women's Fund, Our People, Our City, Our Education Fund, Tūl Corridor Project and the Where It's Needed Most - General Fund.

From our Chair: A bit about consents

Consents and the consenting process may not seem the most riveting of subjects at first, but it's worth knowing a little bit about them, particularly as they affect how we manage the environment.

Consents in context

When most people hear 'consents' they probably think about building consents, but for Environment Canterbury it includes things such as releasing contaminants, taking or diverting water (such as from rivers), storing effluent, or disturbing the foreshore or seabed.

Consenting provides an important service to the community, but the process is not without its share of complexity. The overarching piece of legislation that guides and decides how applications are handled is the Resource Management Act (RMA).

Notifying the public

When we receive a consent application, we assess the effect that the activity would have on people and the environment. This in turn helps us to determine if we need to notify the public.

Public notification means the community can have a say on a consent application before a decision is made. It's usually done if the proposed activity would have a more than minor impact on the people living in the area, other users of a resource, or the environment.

There are instances where public notification is not an option, even if the impact on the environment is deemed significant.

In such instances, no matter how much we might want to involve the public, our hands are tied by the RMA. This is one aspect that is often misunderstood by the community.

Handing the decision over

Sometimes a consent application outcome needs to be determined by an independent commissioner or a panel of commissioners. This can occur if there are submitters who wish to be heard on a proposal or there are complex factors requiring technical input.

Once again, in such cases, the decision is out of the hands of the regional council.

Consent conditions

When a consent is granted, it comes with conditions that the consent holder must comply with. An individual consent may have many of these – even up to a hundred. In fact, over the years we have seen increasingly complex consents issued.

No matter who grants a consent, Environment Canterbury is ultimately responsible for checking that consent holders are acting sustainably and within the conditions set.

There are around 24,000 resource consents on Environment Canterbury's books. Every year we check around 50% of them. Usually around 80 per cent will be compliant, with the remainder requiring some form of intervention by us.

The way forward

The RMA is currently being overhauled by the Government and will be replaced with new resource management laws.

The expectation is that these reforms will work better for the environment, give proper recognition of Te Tiriti o Waitangi, and help us mitigate the effects of climate change; all the while ensuring that local participation remains a key aspect.

This is welcome, but, no matter the legislation, consenting will remain as important as ever and will always have a degree of complexity as it seeks to balance the interests of the environment and the expectations of the wider community.

The British Hotel - Your Support is Needed

The Owners of the British Hotel are applying for a Heritage grant to help with the cost of a new roof and parapet. As part of the application process Rebecca Lovell-Smith and Christian Carruthers need to let the council know why saving and restoring this building is so important for Lyttelton.

They need your help to do this. Any words, memories, or photos of what the British Hotel meant to you and why it should be saved and restored would be greatly appreciated.

Built in the 1940s after the existing British Hotel was condemned, the British is one of the few remaining buildings in the Moderne style, a late deco inspired architecture with rounded corners and porthole windows.

Although having had many publicans over the years, the British always retained a colourful reputation. It certainly holds a much-loved place in the hearts of not only locals who grew up with it but also of sailors from all over the world who saw it as home whenever their ships arrived in at Lyttelton port.

At the time of the earthquakes, there were seven traditional hotel buildings remaining in Lyttelton, of which four were still functioning as hotels. There are now just two traditional hotel buildings left in the port town - the British and the Mitre - and only the British is still open and trading.

The British Hotel is now home to community of small local businesses including The Commoners Bar and Arcana Tattoo Parlour. Rebecca and Christian are keen to keep this property as a place for the community and local businesses to use.

Work has now begun on the top floor, which was the former manager's flat and hotel rooms, with plans to keep this as accommodation. As well there are plans to set up one room as an old hotel room/museum with pieces from the hotel's history on display.

Later this year it is hoped that work can begin on rebuilding the parapet so that the British can once again stand proudly in all its Moderne glory. The British is an important part not only of Lyttelton's history but also its streetscape and architecture.

Mid-winter swim

Kevin and his team at jet junkies have come onboard as our newest sponsor and will be responsible for the warming libation after the mid-winter swim on Sunday 20 June. Last year led by commodore willie 70+ people braved the elements and swam from the floater to shore, this year we hope to better that number.

The Whisky Galore Winter Series

Week 1 of the Winter Series was certainly on the lighter side of the wind spectrum, RO Bill postponing the start for an hour and then dragging the fleet halfway to Hawaii to find sufficient breeze to race in, but from all accounts the 30+ crews on the water enjoyed the new course layout including both racing and cruising divisions. We appreciate the feedback and will make a couple of refinements on the course layout this Sunday when hopefully there will be a bit more breeze to play with. It was great to see many of the crews back in the Wardroom afterwards, a reminder that the weekly Whisky Galore vouchers can only be claimed in person. Presentation is approximately 1 hour after the last boat finishes. It's not too late to enter, and it would be great to see more boats out in the cruising division (fixed marks course) - I think the team on Sandpiper summed it up best 'we were more interested in the tea and biscuits than the actual race!'

The Whisky Galore winter series will be an ideal opportunity for youth crews to get some training in before the South Island Interclub Regatta over the Labour Day long weekend in October. As a club NPCL is keen to defend the trophy but we are expecting strong competition and look forward to welcoming youth crews representing other South Island clubs.

Latest Dyers Pass Road Updates -

Dyers Pass Road work extends to August

Unexpectedly soft soil conditions are slowing down work on installing the Dyers Pass Road safety barriers, pushing completion of the project out by about two months.

The work to install the 3km of safety barriers is now expected to be completed at the end of August.

As we've dug up the ground, we've encountered unexpectedly soft soil conditions at a depth that was not encountered when ground investigations were completed during the design phase of the project.

As a result we are drilling anchors into the rock under the road in order to achieve the required retaining wall strength to support the safety barriers.

Work is expected to continue with similar road disruption to what is currently in place – night works, and around three work sites where the road is reduced to one lane during the day.

We understand that this work is highly disruptive to the community and we are working with the contractor to complete construction as fast as possible.

Visit our project web page <https://ccc.govt.nz/transport/transport-projects/dyers-pass-road-safety-improvements/> for the latest information about the safety improvements on Dyers Pass Road. We'll send out regular newsletters as the project progresses. If you know anyone who would like to receive these newsletters, please ask them to sign up at <https://confirmsubscription.com/h/r/53E9EA7834E916E12540EF23F30FEDED>.

Message from Tori Peden Banks Peninsula Community Board Chair

Kia ora koutou,
Like many of you, our Community Board has been busy over the past few weeks with submissions on the Draft Long Term Plan, Draft Climate Change Strategy, Draft Development Contributions Policy and the Representation Review Initial Proposal. We are aware of the importance of the Council hearing our views on all of these important proposals and we'd like to thank everyone who took the time to give their feedback.

Winter is on the way and the recent wet weather is a good reminder to check that your drains and gutters are clear of leaves, to prevent flooding in and around your property. If you'd like to help increase the biodiversity of our city, take action for climate change or feel-good doing something with friends and family, remember that winter is the season for planting, and there are events at parks all over the city – look for one near you! Stay together, look after one another.

Environment Canterbury

Would like to remind people to check conditions before burning outside
Environment Canterbury is reminding the community to check the conditions before lighting outdoor burns, as open fire season began yesterday in Canterbury.

Southern zone delivery lead, Brian Reeves said "Outdoor burns are permitted activities under the Canterbury Air Regional Plan, but they must meet certain conditions. Burns must be on properties greater than two hectares; can only involve dry vegetation, untreated wood, paper and cardboard; and cannot cause a smoke nuisance for neighbours”.

There are different conditions for outdoor burns, depending on the type of burning. More information can be found on the Environment Canterbury website: ecan.govt.nz/your-region/your-environment/air-quality/outdoor-burning-rules

Anyone wanting to burn outdoors should also check checkitsalright.nz before lighting any fire.

FABULOUS FUNGI

Autumn is the time of year when the West Coast rain and humidity makes a stroll through the bush one of appreciation for the miraculous beauty of nature, specifically fungi.

Photographer Lesley Towart has captured images detailing the diversity and vibrancy of this fascinating world. You'll see colourful jellies that would look great on a cake, corals that could live in the ocean, as well as a bizarre shaped stinkhorn with the stench of rotting flesh.

Share her appreciation and passion for this sometimes weird, often muddy and always fabulous, world of fungi.

June 2021 Exhibition at Stoddart Cottage Gallery

Michael Lidski – Stone Groove

A passion for rocks has culminated in Stone Groove, an exhibition of works of polished stone by Ukrainian-born and now Christchurch-based artist, Michael Lidski. Exploring the magnificent and varied nature of the South Island, Michael became fascinated with Birdlings Flat Beach, a place of wild beauty and power, where he began collecting gemstones. Believing that beauty should be functional, he started cutting, grinding and polishing these gems, which along with stones and petrified wood from other South Island locations, have been crafted into the pendants, bowls and sculptures, and inlaid into ornate tables of this exhibition.

Michael Lidski was born in Kyiv, Ukraine, and spent time living in Israel before relocating to Christchurch in 2004. As a press photographer in Israel, hundreds of his images were published in newspapers, magazines and books. In New Zealand he started making artworks based on photography, which have been exhibited in Christchurch art galleries and sold to private collectors. Over the last decade he has honed his stone polishing skills, with the spare time afforded by the lockdown providing the impetus to expand his work further to the kind of complex works showcased in Stone Groove.

Well-known Canterbury lapidary expert, Malcolm Luxton, the author of the book “Agates of New Zealand”, will be joining Michael to speak at the exhibition’s opening event on 5 June, to which all are welcome.

Exhibition dates: 4-27 June 2021

Opening event: Saturday 5 June, 2-4pm

Gallery Opening Hours: Friday-Sunday 10am-4pm and public holidays

Address: 2 Waipapa Avenue, Diamond Harbour

COVID-19 vaccine:

Your safety and side effects questions answered

How does the Pfizer vaccine work?

The Pfizer vaccine is a messenger RNA (mRNA) vaccine. It contains a small strip of genetic material encased within a lipid (fat) bubble. It does not contain any live virus.

Once inside the cell, the mRNA works with our own cell's machinery to produce the spike protein that is found on the surface of the virus. The immune system, presented with the protein, learns to recognise the virus and creates a new memory. Then, if the body is exposed to the real virus, it can quickly stop illness or, at least, reduce the severity of the illness.

Although mRNA is a piece of genetic material, it is not a piece of our genome. Messenger RNA does not enter the nucleus of the cell and cannot alter our own genetic material.

Following injection with an mRNA vaccine, the mRNA in its protective lipid bubble is taken up locally by cells where the instructions to produce the virus protein is followed. Once our immune system has learned to recognise the protein, the mRNA is broken down, and doesn't remain in our body.

How long does the vaccine last?

Getting a COVID-19 vaccine is an important step you can take to protect yourself from the effects of the virus. As with any vaccine, the Pfizer vaccine may not fully protect everyone who gets it.

The clinical trials performed on the Pfizer vaccine show it's approximately 95% effective against symptomatic COVID-19, around seven days after receiving two doses.

We don't yet know how long you'll be protected, or how much it stops you from catching and passing on the virus. Research has shown that immunity following natural infection remains for at least eight months and it may be even longer.

Is the Pfizer vaccine safe?

All vaccines, including the Pfizer vaccine, made available for public use in New Zealand, are assessed and approved by Medsafe (New Zealand's own medicines safety authority).

They robustly assess all vaccines to ensure they meet international standards and local requirements for quality and safety.

Although this vaccine was approved more quickly than others, that's not because safety was compromised, but because of several factors that enabled its rapid development:

1. International cooperation supported by significant financial backing has helped overcome roadblocks that have traditionally slowed vaccine development. The different stages of development and approval usually happen one after another, taking many years to be completed. For COVID-19 vaccines, many of these stages were overlapped and run in parallel. This reduced the amount of time needed dramatically, but still means every step was completed.
2. Large manufacturing plants have been developed, so vaccines can be produced faster and on a larger scale than what was previously possible.
3. Authorisation bodies like Medsafe have prioritised reviewing the vaccine's data as quickly as possible.

We're moving quickly but without taking any shortcuts or compromising safety.

What are the side effects?

Like all medicines, the vaccine may cause side effects in some people. These are common, are usually mild and don't last long. They won't stop you from having the second dose or going about your daily life.

The most reported reactions are:

- pain at the injection site
- a headache
- feeling tired or fatigued
- muscle aches
- feeling generally unwell
- chills
- fever
- joint pain
- nausea

Side effects may be more common after your second dose of the vaccine.

Serious reactions are very rare. For more details on side effects, see: health.govt.nz/covid-vaccine-side-effects

What cover is available if I have a reaction (ACC)?

A physical injury resulting from a vaccination, including the COVID-19 vaccine, may be covered if the criteria for treatment injury are met. Under ACC legislation, the injury must be clearly caused by the vaccination and must not be a necessary part or ordinary consequence of the treatment.

See the ACC website: acc.co.nz/covid-19/clients/

What are the ingredients of the Pfizer vaccine?

You can find the ingredients of the Pfizer vaccine on our website: health.govt.nz/pfizer

Is the Pfizer vaccine live or does it contain any animal products?

No, the Pfizer vaccine does not contain any live virus, or dead or deactivated virus.

It will not give you COVID-19. It works by triggering your immune system to produce antibodies and blood cells that work against the COVID-19 virus.

The vaccine does not contain any animal products. Find out more: health.govt.nz/pfizer

How many people in NZ have been vaccinated?

Statistics on vaccinations are available on our website: health.govt.nz/covid19vaccinatedata
