The Review

Is a Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre initiative designed to keep our community informed with what is going on around the harbour. It's also an opportunity to showcase the people and places that other wise would go under the radar. Our community connections ensure we know what's going on in the wider community and can share the news with you all. A big thank you goes out to all the contributors and our funders Rata Foundation and Christchurch City Council Strengthening Communities who enable the hard copies to be printed each edition. Similarly to Wendy Everingham for writing and editing and Jenny-Lee Love for design and production. If you have any local events, news or stories you would like included we'd love to hear from you.

A devilishly good afternoon's musical entertainment.

'The Devil's Marksman'
(Der Freischütz), as narropera

Carl Maria von Weber is one of the most influential composers of the 19th Century. He unquestionably belongs among 'Great' German composers. However, in New Zealand, Weber is one of the most little-known of 'great composers'.

In the Golden Room at 'Lansdown(e)', on the Old Tai Tapu Road, behind the Bicycle Thief Restaurant, there will be two weekend, afternoon performances of Weber's operatic masterpiece, 'The Devil's Marksman' (Der Freischütz), in narroperatic format: Sunday, 25th July, at 3PM - 4.20PM and Saturday, 7th August, also at 3PM - 4.20PM.

Three things characterise the mellifluous music of Weber: clarity, virtuosity, and colour.

Carl Maria Friedrich Ernst von Weber (1786 – 1826) was conductor, pianist, guitarist, and critic, as well as one of the three most significant German composers of the early 19th century, alongside Beethoven (died 1827) and Schubert (died 1828). He lived 40 years, five longer than his 1st cousin through marriage, Wolfgang Mozart.

Weber is most famous for his operas, of which Der Freischütz, Oberon, Euryanthe and Abu Hassan are the best known today. He was Musical Director of the Royal Opera in Dresden. He was also a virtuoso pianist and his solo works for piano, including the wonderful 'Invitation to the Dance' took piano technique to new heights, influencing both Chopin and Liszt.

It is no wonder that Weber was Wagner's favourite opera composer: Weber's romantic invention, orchestral colours and melodic ideas (particular in his last opera, Oberon) can be found over and again in Wagner's middle works (Der fliegende Holländer, Tannhäuser and Lohengrin).

Berlioz and Mahler, Mendelssohn and many others were influenced by Weber's creative genius (his chamber works stand alongside Mozart's). Weber's concerti and other pieces for clarinet, bassoon and horn are among the most beloved music written for those instruments. Weber's orchestration has repeatedly been highly praised, and indeed emulated by later generations of composers – Berlioz referred to him several times in his Treatise on Instrumentation while Debussy remarked that the sound of the Weber orchestra was obtained through the scrutiny of the soul of each instrument.

'The Devil's Marksman' (Der Freischütz) has been the most frequently played German Romantic Opera over the past 200 years. It is hardly surprising, given the quality of both its music and story.

Te Ahu Pātiki – Getting to Explore the New Conservation Park

On July 1st the Rod Donald Trust took ownership of a 500-hectare block above Orton Bradley Park. Now known as Te Ahu Pātiki, the land that used to be part of the farm owned by Philip King and Sarah Lovell-Smith is in public ownership. The purchase will ensure that future generations have permanent access to this beautiful location high above Lyttelton Harbour. Thanks to Crowd Funding campaigns by the Christchurch Foundation and Givealittle, 3064 people donated money to make this park a reality.

at Orton Bradley Park. Longer term the Trust announced that they have partnered with Te Hapū o Ngāti Wheke Inc and Orton Bradley Park and they have a joint aspiration to create a new Charitable Trust to own and manage the park. It is envisaged the Park will be a place of natural regeneration, along the lines of the Hinewai model. The land will also be covered by a QE11 covenant and public easements will be created for walking access.

To celebrate the momentous occasion, sponsors and supporters were given the opportunity to have a self-guided trip of the property on Saturday July 3rd. The day was glorious. Thanks to Orton Bradley Park all invitees were able to meet in the comfortable communal kitchen area known as Base Camp.

Rod Donald Manager Suky Thompson said all staff and trustees have been overwhelmed by the public support and thanked all of the 3064 supporters who had helped the Trust achieve its goal. Of the money raised Suky said, “$600,000 of these donations had gone directly to fund the park purchase. The balance of over $350,000 from your further generous donations has been allocated for setting up the new park. The immediate work plan includes strengthening boundary fencing, improving walking tracks and clearing gorse from park boundaries with pest control to follow”.

In the short term the park will be looked after by the Rod Donald Trustees and the immediate work programme will be delivered by the staff

Delicious morning and afternoon tea plus a picnic lunch was provided. Over 60 attendees enjoyed exploring the new park. Everyone was greeted by members of the Rod Donald Trust and there were lots of interesting conversations as the guests mingled and talked over a cuppa.

Our small group consisted of Wendy Everingham, Lyttelton Review, Rewi Couch from Te Hapū o Ngāti Wheke Inc and Brian Downey, Chair of the Lyttelton Reserves Management Committee. Both Rewi and Brian had never been to Orton Bradley Park before, so the trip was not only a discovery of Orton Bradley Park but a discovery of the newly purchased land Te Ahu Pātiki. Rewi Couch said, “I have long looked over to Te Ahu Pātiki from Rāpaki and now I’m finally getting to see this land close up”.

Our team opted to take the Mount Herbert route to the new property boundary. We were most interested to see the natural regenerating and remnant bush areas along this route. It was also lovely to see the free flowing Te Wharau Stream. This is one of the few streams that flows year-round in the area. Ecologically it's very important, supporting a diverse range of local fish and invertebrate's species.

We walked up and over the newly purchased property boundary. All the cattle from the former farm had been removed prior to sale. Our team wanted to get up above the tree line to witness all the native regenerating trees growing through the broom and gorse. After a short walk we did just that and all of us were delighted that there was already so much natural regeneration already taking place. We didn't make it to the summit but saw enough to be excited for the future of this land.

The visit was a great day out.

An opportunity to catch up with many friends along the route, relaxed and up lifting knowing another wonderful patch of land is being left to return to its natural state.

What Lies Beneath Urumau Reserve?

Insights into the rocks, exposures and formation.

Lyttelton Harbour and surrounds are the remains of volcanic activity 5.8-11 million years ago. The Lyttelton Reserves Management Committee hosted Dr Sam Hampton in their most recent Speaker Series Event. Sam, a geologist, has specialised in the volcanics of the Banks Peninsula. This talk was about the rocks under Urumau Reserve.

In 2019, with a team of Frontiers Abroad students he examined Urumau Reserve in close detail. This presentation was the first opportunity that Sam has had to share those findings with the local community. “The upgrade of Sumner Road was the driver of this project”, he said. “The rock scaling project to make the road safe exposed many cliff faces with geological features that had not been exposed before and we wanted to investigate them further”. Sam and his team set off to piece together a giant jigsaw of rocks to find out what they were and how they connected up.

Their geological mapping project began down near Windy Rock Point and was to follow the ridge line towards the summit. Immediately the familiar Lyttelton red rock was present across the road behind some locked gates. “The red rock is scoria deposits”, he said. Scoria is the remains of small volcanoes that erupted on the side of the growing volcanoes. Close by where the road builders had freshly shaved the road cutting, they could see the dark basaltic rocks had been intersected with lighter cream coloured rock at angle. He explained, “The lighter coloured rock was magma being squeezed up through the gaps in the existing rocks”.

The team then proceeded up into the forest area of Urumau. In the forest they found inclined cream-grey columns of lava that had cooled into the regular polygon shapes. They also found the weathered remains of basaltic lava flows. He explained that the volcanic eruptions in our area are like the Hawaiian volcanoes. They are not big bang eruptions rather oozy lava flows.

Further along the ridge line they came across some unusual pale white rock. “This was most unusual for the Banks Peninsula”, he said. This was what excited the team the most. They found bits of this rock near Windy Point as well as all along the ridge line. They set about to see if they could connect the rock into one continuous area. Turns out they were able to.

“This is a massive volcanic intrusion; the white rock is the remains of a dyke edge” he said. “We are seeing these rocks today because this intrusion weakened the rockmass. This weakness destabilised the landscape and as a result the rocks above the intrusion over time slipped off and what we are left with now is the exposed face of the dyke intrusion. This rock is really hard and the interesting saddle that remains is at a 45-degree angle and is the hardened intrusion. “I have never come across a structure like this before on the Banks Peninsula”, he said.

What began for the road builders as an earthquake recovery project became an opportunity for the geology community to discover more about the interesting volcanics of our area. Next time you are in the reserve, take a good look at the rocks. Are they weathered basaltic rock from lava flows, magma intrusions or scoria deposits? Can you see the dyke ridge and the creamy coloured white rock that Sam explained is a unique geological feature?

Sam Hampton is the Director of Te Pātaka o Rākohautū /Banks Peninsula Geopark. The Geopark for the Banks Peninsula will over time tell us all the unique stories of the amazing land-forming processes, flora and fauna, people, culture and communities to create a deeper understanding and sense of connection to place we call home. Sam’s presentation will be another story that will be added to that treasure of knowledge.

Matariki Celebrations at the Lyttelton Recreation Centre

Matariki Celebrations 2021

This year in Lyttelton the Matariki celebrations have been at the Recreation Centre on July 2nd. If you missed that event there are still many other events around the city that you can attend. If you aren't familiar with Matariki, it's the time of the year when traditionally Māori have celebrated New Year. Now everyone in New Zealand is celebrating this event and Matariki is known as a time of coming together, remembrance, renewal, and celebration.

Every year the time of celebrating Matariki depends on the lunar cycles and when the Matariki star cluster appears in the winter sky. Some parts of the country see the cluster at different times and celebration times can vary between eastern and western locations. Between iwi the celebrations can also differ depending on the stories from the past.

For New Zealanders in general it's an opportunity for us all to celebrate and reflect on lifecycles and natural comings and goings of the natural world.

From next year we will also get a public holiday to celebrate this event.

Road widening part of Dyers Pass Road safety work

News

Up to 1.25 metres is being added to the width of the narrowest parts of Dyers Pass Road as Christchurch City Council works to make the road safer for drivers and cyclists. Dyers Pass Road is windy and only around 5.5 to 6 metres wide in many areas, however, contractors Higgins Construction are working on behalf of Christchurch City Council to increase the width of the sealed road to a consistent 6.75 metres.

"The additional road shoulder width is expected to improve everyone's safety and reduce conflict between road users," says the Council's Acting Head of Transport Lynette Ellis.

The road widening work is part of a $7.2 million project to improve the safety of Dyers Pass Road, which historically has had a high crash rate.

"The steep terrain means that when crashes do happen, they often result in severe injuries so in addition to widening the road we are installing guardrails in high-risk locations. This should reduce the severity of crashes that do occur where vehicles would have left the road," Ms Ellis says.

In total three kilometres of guardrail is being installed.

Waka Kotahi NZ Transport Agency is meeting approximately three-quarters of the cost of the of safety improvements on Dyers Pass Road as it has included the work in its Safer Networks Programme.

The safety improvements are due to be completed by the end of August.

COMMUNITIES

Your chance to join the Regional Water Management Committee

If you are passionate about finding long-term solutions to protect Canterbury's wai (water), then this is the chance to play your part. We are currently seeking expressions of interest for up to six community members from across Canterbury/Waitaha to join the Committee.

Develop advice on regional water management issues

As a community representative, you will help to develop advice and consensus-based recommendations on regional water management issues through meeting regularly, attending workshops or field trips, and working with the community on recommendations to councils about how best to look after our water both now and into the future.

Your participation will help influence and monitor the progress being made to deliver the community's aspirations for freshwater across Canterbury.

Expressions of interest remain open for independent Chair's role

Along with the call for community members, the deadline for expressing interest in becoming the independent Chairperson to help lead the Committee with a Ngāi Tahu-appointed co-Chair now closes on Monday 26 July.

The Committee has undergone changes this year and a new committee structure was adopted by our Council on 15 April 2021. The Committee's membership is now being refreshed as a result of the change.

The Committee was established in 2010 to address regionally significant water management issues such as infrastructure and environmental enhancement projects, specifically, delivering on the Canterbury Water Management Strategy (CWMS).

How to apply:

Please send a cover letter outlining your suitability for the role and a short curriculum vitae to RCapplications@ecan.govt.nz by:

26 July 2021 for the Chair's role, or

2 August 2021 for the community roles.

A description of the Chair's role and the Committee's terms of reference are available on the Regional Water Management Committee page.

If you are shortlisted, you will be required to attend an interview or workshop.

Matariki, Sustainability and Fairies

Latest News from Busy C's

Matariki is a special time for celebration at Busy C's Preschool. Mānawatia a Matariki! Last Monday our tamariki worked collaboratively making kai for their whānau - preparing a huge, delicious pot of vegetable soup and baking bread. We welcomed the preschool community to join us in the evening gathering at Busy C's to share stories, kai and waiata before returning home in time for bed. Tamariki had been rehearsing waiata with actions and with poi - which they performed on the night with gusto! It's always a fun and nurturing way to welcome in the Māori new year.

This month we also enjoyed a visit from Tock the robot (TOCK. earth). Tock came to preschool to inspire and teach the tamariki about recycling and reducing waste and caring for our environment through his adventures on planet earth. Sustainability is very important to us here at Busy C's, and we are an Enviro-preschool part of a nationwide programme committed to a long-term sustainability journey.

Tamariki have been exploring creating wild and wonderful potions for the preschool fairies that might visit Busy C's at night. We have been using different plants and herbs from our garden and mixing them with "magical" water. We love using our imaginations, creating special spaces and props to help care for the fairies, and all contributing good ideas to making up great stories about the possible lives and activities of these fairies... # Imaginary play - so good for cognitive, social and emotional development.

Please follow up on Instagram and Facebook for daily happenings at Busy C's Preschool.

All Right Campaign

Editor -Since the Canterbury Earthquakes the All Right team have supplied so much useful information to support our mental health. The Review Team have reproduced lots of it in the Lyttelton Review. The All Right teams funding has been cut. Here is a note they issued detailing their situation. From the Lyttelton Review Team, thank you to all involved with this campaign. Your information has been so useful at a local level.

All Right? and our future

We've had a few people get in touch this week about a Stuff article on All Right? and our funding.

Just to clarify – it's true that we haven't had our main contract renewed. This means that from 1 July this year, we no longer receive specific funding to promote good mental health and wellbeing in Canterbury.

For the last eight years, it's been our pleasure to be alongside people in Canterbury as we've traversed the highs and lows together.

Earthquakes and aftershocks, fires and floods, and a heinous act of terrorism. Insurance woes, broken homes, a munted city centre, families devastated by grief, and a global pandemic. We've learnt a lot, and we hope Cantabrians have too!

We're not going away just yet, however - we have some funding to deliver the national Getting Through Together campaign which will take us through until February 2022.

Our social pages remain active, our website is still live, and our wellbeing resources can still be ordered.

Galleries

Stoddart Cottage Gallery is located at historic Stoddart Cottage, Diamond Harbour, birthplace of well-known Canterbury impressionist painter Margaret Stoddart (1865 -1934). It is just a short walk up from the Diamond Harbour ferry.

July Exhibition: Artists Against Slavery presents, Zoomers; an exhibition of work by four talented Generation Z artists, who all live in Diamond Harbour and are students at Cashmere High School. They will be donating 10% of the sale price of their artworks sold to Artists Against Slavery. 2-30 July Open 10-4pm Friday, Saturday Sunday and public holidays.

LEARNING EXCHANGE EVENT

FABULOUS FUNGI

Autumn is the time of year when the West Coast rain and humidity makes a stroll through the bush one of appreciation for the miraculous beauty of nature, specifically fungi.

Photographer Lesley Towart has captured images detailing the diversity and vibrancy of this fascinating world. You'll see colourful jellies that would look great on a cake, corals that could live in the ocean, as well as a bizarre shaped stinkhorn with the stench of rotting flesh.

Share her appreciation and passion for this sometimes weird, often muddy and always fabulous, world of fungi.
