The Review

Is a Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre initiative designed to keep our community informed with what is going on around the harbour. It's also an opportunity to showcase the people and places that other wise would go under the radar. Our community connections ensure we know what's going on in the wider community and can share the news with you all. A big thank you goes out to all the contributors and our funders Rata Foundation and Christchurch City Council Strengthening Communities who enable the hard copies to be printed each edition. Similarly to Wendy Everingham for writing and editing and Jenny-Lee Love for design and production. If you have any local events, news or stories you would like included we'd love to hear from you.

Note from the Manager

Kia ora to all our readers.

On the first day of the school holidays, we had a rainy day. Rain can sometimes be seen as an ominous sign of things to come, particularly at the start of holidays, however this particular morning was different. There was a calm stillness, earthy smells permeating the air and a very slight cool breeze coming through the door as the rain gently watered the ground. I sat with my son, still in our pyjamas at the open doorway and with a rug around us taking it all in. What was most memorable however was the bird song. Absolutely magical bird song that transported me to Maunga Taranaki. My childhood home. I grew up in the shadow of the magnificent Taranaki and the smell of the inevitable rain and birdsong always made me feel grounded. It felt very special to share this moment with my son, in the village he was born in and growing up in.

It got me thinking a lot about parallels in life and as the week went by, I could see that in the absence of having family living close by, the many people in our Lyttelton community make up our whānau, just as they did when I grew up on the Coast in Taranaki. Whether it be our lovely neighbours that pop treats in our mailbox or share extras from their gardens or the lovely friendly people behind the counter at the supermarket, the exuberant wave from a friend across the road or the unexpected cry on a friend's shoulder during the market that you didn't realise you needed.

All of these people, all of you people, make a lasting impression with each positive interaction. I truly believe it's what makes us feel like we belong here, that we matter and that someone can see us. Lyttelton has so much diversity and I can see how there is a niche for everyone, with many overlapping social circles. And whilst there is often talk about gentrification, the 'good old days' and being a true local, I hope we can also take a step back and see that our children are still blessed to be growing up in a town with such a strong sense of community and whanau. It takes a village and all that.

Wishing you all a sense of stability as the fast-approaching silly season descends upon us and a gratefulness to be living here, in Whakaraupō.

Getting to Net Carbon Zero LPC Off to a Great Start

Just what is your carbon footprint? How do you calculate it? What measures can you take to get to net zero carbon emissions by 2050? These are some of the questions the Lyttelton Port Company has been asking. These serious conversations at the Company began in 2019/20 and have resulted in the Port Company producing its first Carbon Emissions Reduction Plan last year. 2021 is the first year that the company has been able to report on its progress. They can proudly say they have reduced carbon emissions by 19% within the first year of measuring.

Lyttelton Port Company Environmental and Sustainability Manager Kim Kelleher was the recent guest speaker at the Lyttelton Harbour Timebank Learning Exchange evening, and she explained the journey the Lyttelton Port Company had embarked upon.

One of the initial tasks was to identify how much carbon was being used in the business. As you may imagine diesel was the highest contributor to the Port Companies emissions. Kim explained that once they had a handle on how much and from where the emissions were coming from, they could then develop a plan to reduce emissions.

“Electrification of our small vehicle fleet was the first easy win for the team”, she said. The company now has an electric vehicle fleet and base station with a series of small cars and security vans for day-to-day usage. Next time you are looking down onto the LPC head office, you can see the electric vehicle station nearby for all the new vehicles they have purchased.

Over time they plan that the entire small fleet will be electric, and it’s hoped that all the small truck fleet will either be powered by hydrogen or electricity.

Another quite simple move the Company was able to make was to ensure all power used was from certified renewable electricity sources. That ensures that all company emissions from electricity are zero.

Tugboats are also high carbon emitters. “The good news is that electric tugs are now available. We intend to purchase an electric tug the next time we replace one of the existing fleet. In the meantime, we have thought hard about tug movements and have streamlined travel movements”.

“The hardest part of the fleet to de-carbonise currently are the large heavy vehicles and the straddle cranes”, she said. With the speed of change in Europe Kim is confident that change will come. “We are really in the early days of innovation. It’s pretty exciting now, there don’t seem to be the roadblocks to change as there were a couple of years ago”.

In the meantime, new Noell Straddle cranes have been purchased that are more energy efficient and they are also able to stack containers four high rather than three so that results in less movements saving fuel. The older diesel cranes are slowly being decommissioned.

The entire Lyttelton Port Company business has been put under the spotlight for carbon emissions. Naturally the container terminal is the company’s biggest source of emissions. Kim thinks Covid 19 will also change the way the company operates in the future. She highlighted that air travel is hardly used for business now.

Naturally the Carbon Emission Reduction Plan for the Port Company only focuses on the things the Port Company can control directly. For example, trains that ship containers to the Port still operate on diesel fuel but are owned by Kiwi Rail. Similarly ships that visit the port are run on diesel and are only visitors to the Port. “In Europe some ships in Ports are powered by renewable electricity when docked rather than diesel. That is something we’d like to aspire to but currently we don’t have the power supply to be able to do this and there are no standard electric hook ups for ships in the worldwide fleet”.

Interestingly the Port’s carbon emissions plan looks at the future of coal in the Port. By their calculations they predict that coal may no longer be exported by 2036.

The Lyttelton Port Company has made real progress in understanding their carbon profile and doing something to actively reduce it. Sarah Van der Burch the Chair of Project Lyttelton thanked Kim Kelleher for a most informative conversation and concluded with a catchy phrase declaring the Port Company had gone from Zero to Hero.

Editor: Project Lyttelton are really keen to help with the Carbon Zero conversation. In fact, they have just received funding to pay for a local Carbon Coach. The Port Company are keen to work with the local community on this journey as well.

The Great Rhythms –The Spring Equinox

An equinox is an instant in time, a mid-point between the longest and shortest day, when the period between sunrise and sunset is exactly 12 hours everywhere on the Earth.

Our planetary home turns, on its axis, still spinning at a speed of 1,670km/hour even after 4.7 billion years. Day and night, the circadian rhythm, enables our bodies and minds to be refreshed by sleep. The sunlight streams through the bedroom curtains and we wake to break our fast.

We are at one of the two times of the year when the hours of daylight equal the hours of darkness. After the long winter's nights as we hurtle round the sun at 107,278 km/hour, the tilt of the Earth brings us closer to our source of light and warmth, the days lengthen and the sun appears to rise higher in the sky. It is the Spring equinox, the time of new beginnings.

The Earth responds at every level. The oceans and atmosphere warm, redirecting ocean currents and changing the circulation of the winds. Snows and glaciers melt, and the rivers roar down from the mountains until they meet the plains and spread their braids over stony beds.

Sap begins to rise in the trees and kowhai already glows golden. Manuka and hebe will soon be in flower and the "white stars of the forest" puawananga or clematis, transform into feathery seeds that disperse in the strong winds. The beautiful flowers of kotukutuku or fuchsia, sprout from the bare trunks. They change from blue to red when visited by the native bees gathering the sweet nectar, and soon transform to the small dark purple berries so beloved by kereru and even by big weta, so dispersing the seeds.

Birds choose partners, defend territories with song and build nests, eggs swell in feathered bodies all stimulated by the lengthening days. Pipiharauroa, the shining cuckoo, "ko ngā karere a mahuru - the messengers of spring", arrive after flying 3,000 km across the Pacific. "When the pipiharauroa sings "Kui! Kui! Kui!" it is time to plant crops." (Maori whakatauki)

She finds a mate and searches for the domed, circular hanging nest of riroriro, the grey warbler, to lay a solitary egg. The riroriro seems not to recognize the interloper and happily feeds the large chick which has already ejected the other eggs from the nest. Another Spring migrant is the kuaka or godwit. It takes 8-9 days for large flocks of kuaka to fly from Alaska to Aotearoa never stopping to rest or feed. They spend the summer here, feeding in the rich estuaries and harbours around our coast. For Maori these birds were a mystery, 'Kua kite te kohanga kuaka? Who has seen the nest of the kuaka?' Of course, we know now that kuaka breed in Alaska.

This is the time of year for many insects to emerge from overwintering as adult or pupa, in time to pollinate the flowering trees and shrubs, and in time to feed the growing chicks of the insectivorous birds. The story goes on.

So, as we enjoy the warmer Spring days and plant our gardens we can only wonder at the synchronised rhythms of Nature and how they proceed from Earth's journey around the sun.

Kauri Timber Trawler Completed

Want to Own it?

As many will know we have for some time had a new build 14.5m NZ Kauri Timber Trawler in our Timber Workshop adjacent to the dry dock that has slowly been nearing completion – around our many other Ship Repair / Dry Docking contracts / projects – for many years – some even joked it might grow legs!

But to the surprise of some, on the 15th of September 2021 the new vessel was slowly moved out of the workshop and into the sunshine - the Gantry was installed, and then it moved dockside, prior to being lifted into the dry dock at 1100 hours on Tuesday 21st September 2021, when the dry dock was full of water before the next double docking took place at 1530 hours on the same day.

A small piece of Stark Bros history – on the 12th of April 1967 the FV Bluewater, a brand new 50ft NZ Kauri Timber Trawler was lifted into the Dry Dock by the then Lyttelton Harbour Boards floating crane – the mv Rapaki – now 54 years later the 14.5m Timber Trawler is the second vessel Stark Bros have lifted into the dry dock – this time using Smiths Cranes.

The FV Bluewater was the first timber trawler built by Stark Bros Ltd for what would become their inshore fishing company Ocean Fisheries Ltd, and on that occasion the lifting into the dry dock was a launching – with ceremonies completed by Frank Stark's fiancé Liz Read, then being married on the 6th of May 1967 – so a busy few weeks.

Since 1967, Ocean Fisheries Ltd has almost constantly enjoyed the most modern fleet of fishing trawlers in NZ – and indeed “IF” the 14.5m Timber Trawler ends up in the Ocean Fisheries fleet it will be the 12th new fishing trawler they have operated in 54 years.

We say “IF” – as yes, this vessel is definitely for sale, and it would be a fantastic statement of confidence in the industry if purchased by any number of large quota owners, fishing companies, iwi's or long-term fishing operators.

It has been said that it may well be the last of its kind to be professionally built in NZ and being NZ Kauri should outlast any owner – and “IF” not sold, then Ocean Fisheries Ltd will proudly add it to their existing fleet and carry on the tradition of catching good quantities of high-quality fresh fish, landed to United Fisheries here in Lyttelton.

The basic vessel details are as follows:

Building Name : 14.5m Timber Trawler
Length : 14.50m
Beam : 4.84m
Draft : 2.05m

So while not an official launching, we see this moving to the water as another step in the process, enabling ballasting, incline testing, final completion and survey – with launching and naming of the vessel to occur at a later date – either by Ocean Fisheries Ltd or by a proud new owner

The Stark Bros team are very proud of the achievement to date, and therefore celebrate this milestone.

A reminder to look out for marine pests in Canterbury this summer

Boaties are being urged to check and clean their hulls to help stop the spread of marine pests in our harbours before hitting the water this summer. That's so marine pests, which have the potential to severely damage our marine ecosystems don't spread further in our waters.

The three main marine pests to look out for in Canterbury's harbours are Mediterranean fanworm, Clubbed tunicate and Undaria.

Play your part

Manager Biosecurity Parks and Forests Carl Diamond said it's important boaties play their part in protecting Canterbury's beautiful waterways.

"The primary pathway that unwanted marine pests are spread is via marine vessel movements. It might seem like a small thing, but when you keep a clean hull, you are protecting our marine biodiversity, our kai moana and our local economy," he said.

Carl said marine pests pose a significant risk to the waterways in our region.

"They tend to out compete our native species and they can be very difficult to eradicate once they are here," he said.

"That risk is becoming greater as marine vessel movements increase and our waters warm," he added.

Carl warned spreading a marine pest also comes at a cost.

"Transporting marine pests has the potential to cost millions of dollars to the taxpayer, ratepayer and affected industries, not to mention the impact on our native species," he said.

What to look out for

Keep an eye out for these pests and report any sightings:

SABELLA SPALLANZANII

Mediterranean fanworm (Sabella spallanzanii)

The Mediterranean fanworm is a large worm that has a long leathery, tube that is pale brown in colour.

The tube is usually fixed to a hard surface and grows up to 60cm in length.

They have long tentacles at the top of the tube that look like a spiral fan, which are either orange, purple or white.

CLUBBED TUNICATE

Clubbed tunicate (Styela clava)

Clubbed tunicates have a long, club-shaped body on a short, tough stalk.

The stalk tapers to a disc shape at its bottom, which anchors them to hard surfaces.

They can grow up to 160mm in length, and their surface is tough and leathery, ranging in colour from brownish to white.

UNDARIA

Undaria seaweed (Undaria pinnatifida)

Mature plants are brown, green and yellow in colour and can grow 1-2 metres tall.

The plant has a distinct mid-rib stem up the middle of the plant and a spiral shaped reproductive structure at its base. Juvenile plants are green and appear as a single leaf.

Preventing spread

To help prevent the spread of marine pests and to protect the waters we love, please:

Check your boat hulls for marine pests.

Book a haul out and clean, if necessary.

If moving between regions, check regional rules on hull cleaning before you depart.

When cleaning your hull, do it right. Taking shortcuts can make the problem much worse. You must ensure that no contaminants, like marine pests, are discharged into the water during your cleaning process.

How to report sightings of pests -Ministry for Primary Industries pest and disease hotline.

Call the Ministry for Primary Industries pest and disease hotline on 0800 80 99 66.

If possible, please take photos and record the location. The location could be the name of a vessel and where it was moored, or the physical location if it was found on the seafloor or structures. Find out more about how to report a pest with the Ministry for Environment.

Find-A-Pest App

If you come across something out of the ordinary, simply upload a picture to the app and a Find-A-Pest specialist or the iNaturalist community will help identify it.

Download the app

If your observation is considered a potential biosecurity threat, this will be forwarded to Biosecurity New Zealand to contact you if necessary.

If taking a photo of a vessel, be sure to capture the name and its location for tracing purposes.

To find out more about the app, visit findapest.nz or email help@findapest.nz.

Game changing public transport options for the community

At the Canterbury Regional Council (Environment Canterbury) meeting Thursday 30 September, the Council voted to take to the community a number of potential game-changing options to stimulate the Greater Christchurch public transport system.

“We are in a climate emergency. We all know this, and action needs to be taken now to reduce emissions. One of the key levers we have to do this is to reduce transport emissions – and getting people out of their cars and on to public transport or other modes is key,” says Chair Jenny Hughey.

“The Council wants to encourage the people of Greater Christchurch to do their bit to reduce emissions. Just moving a few more people, a few more times, on to the bus will start to move the dial on our transport emissions.

“Price isn’t the only factor that encourages, or discourages, people to take the bus – but it is a lever we can use, with the community’s support, to help those on lower incomes to maximise their use of the public transport system, and it is a lever we can use to lower the barrier to others, opening the gap between the cost of the car vs the cost of the bus.

“We know there are other things we need to work on – like the quality and frequency of the services – and we are doing that also. But these fare options are being put forward now to start to change the game and stimulate bus use in our largest urban centre.”

The first decision for the Council today was to raise the child fare age to under-19 – meaning 18-year-olds will be eligible for child fares. There is funding available for this in the first year of this Long-Term Plan (2021/22) so this can be implemented within this financial Canterbury can gauge community views in time to inform what is included in the 2022/23 Annual Plan.

The options proposed are:

Reduced fares for tertiary students using Metrocards: a two-year trial of a concession equivalent to the child fare for tertiary students. This would potentially be supported by Waka Kotahi funding and existing rates. Council agreed an implementation date of July 2022, subject to resources and funding to be agreed for the Annual Plan. This would apply to Timaru and Greater Christchurch public transport.

Creating a larger, single zone with a universal $2 fare: combining zones 1, 2 and 3, with a single, reduced fare of $2 (with child fares capped at $3 per day). To enable this, all Greater Christchurch ratepayers would be asked to pay more to support the income from bus fares.

Creating a larger, single zone with a universal $3 fare: as above, combining zones 1, 2 and 3, with a single, reduced fare but with that fare being $3 for adults (with child fare $1.50). To enable this, all Greater Christchurch ratepayers would be asked to pay more to support the income from bus fares.

Free fares for under 25s, students, mobility and community card holders: this travel would need to be paid for through rates in the Greater Christchurch area.

By engaging with the community on these options – with information regarding the impact on rates – Council will be able to gauge the community interest in these options ahead of determining the 2022/23 Annual Plan.

“We’d love to hear what the community thinks of these options to increase the number of people taking the bus, optimising the network and reducing the number of car trips.”

Next steps will include modelling these options to provide material for community engagement and feedback.

year, with an undertaking to have it in place before the start of the new school year.

“Currently, when a young person turns 18 they cease to be eligible for child fares regardless of whether they are still in school – potentially inadvertently encouraging them into cars, and certainly costing them adult rates to get to/from their place of study.”

There is provision in the Regional Public Transport Plan for raising the age, and today the Council agreed to an implementation date of February 2022. This will be publicised ahead of the new school year so students are aware of the reduced travel costs available to them.

By way of an example saving, a Zone 1 adult Metrocard fare is $2.65 and a comparative child fare is $1.50.

The second decision made by Council today was to engage with the community on a number of other options so that Environment

Naval Point Club News

Snippet from "Sailing in a Volcano"

One hundred years of competitive club sailing on Whakaraupō/Lyttelton harbour from the port of Lyttelton has a back story. Competitive sailing began with races organised by the first English settlers in 1851 before the popular annual Lyttelton regattas, which ran for decades, were organised by town authorities. The Canterbury Yacht Club was formed in 1886 and hosted local and provincial competitions until it could no longer function during World War One. The Canterbury Yacht and Motorboat Club, comprising many of the same members, was formed post-war in 1921 specifically to become involved in national sailing contests. It operated with a focus on yacht racing for 80 years until 2001. At that point, the club recognised the need to embrace a wider range of water-based activities and changed its name to Naval Point Club Lyttelton, the sailing and water sports club that operates from Erskine Point, Lyttelton today.

Extra Funding for Lyttelton Harbour Wastewater Scheme

Extra funding has been approved for a major project to upgrade wastewater services around Whakaraupō Lyttelton Harbour. The Council originally budgeted $54 million to the project that will bring an end to the routine discharge of treated wastewater into the harbour. The budget has now been increased to $60.5 million and will be used to redesign and construct some elements of the pump stations, work around some unforeseen ground conditions and slips, and cover the costs of Covid-19 related delays.

Cass Bay planting day

Was a success despite weather. Inclement weather tried its hardest to put off about 45 dedicated volunteers from the Cass Bay planting day recently, but to no avail.

The hardy souls – made up of Whaka-Ora Healthy Harbour staff, Wai Ora staff, volunteers from the community, Cass Bay Residents Association and Cass Bay Reserves Management Committee members, and Environment Canterbury staff – met on the morning of Saturday 14 August.

Te Hapū o Ngāti Wheke representatives opened proceedings with karakia before the volunteers got the planting underway.

The weather packed in at about midday though. A strong southerly and rain howled in to cut the planting day a couple of hours short.

Nevertheless, about 400 seedlings were planted and the barbecue was staffed by Sea Cadets volunteers in the shelter of the Cadets Hall.

The rest of the natives were planted by Wai Ora staff and local volunteers when the weather had calmed enough to return to the site.

We're Working in Your Area – Updates

Cressy Terrace Tennis Courts: HEB Construction is undertaking a renewal of the tennis courts in Cressy Terrace (between 16 and 24 Cressy Terrace) in Lyttelton. Work is set to begin on 11 October and run until mid-November. For more information on the renewal works please see the attached flyer below.

Adventure Activities Health & Safety Regime – Public Consultation Opens

The Government has announced the start of the public consultation into the health and safety regime for registered adventure activities. Following the Whakaari/White Island eruption in December 2019, a targeted review found that safety standards in adventure activities were improving, but identified certain areas that required strengthening. Lyttelton Top Club News – New President

It feels like a lot has been happening recently up at the club most notably the resignation of Club President Steve Targus, so I would like to introduce myself, Jed O'Donoghue as the new President of the Lyttelton Club Inc, proudly known as the Top Club. I have big shoes to fill with Steve leading the Club through some very challenging times.

My day job is a Locomotive Engineer for Kiwi Rail, I have been doing this for quite a while and remember coming down to shunt at the Port in the 80's when we still put rail onto the wharf. In the breaks we would pop up to a welcoming establishment for refreshments and I saw what a wonderful place Lyttelton was and still is. I have served on the National Management Committee of the RMTU and was Deputy Chair of the Banks Peninsula Community Board for a term, as such I know meetings. My commitment to the other committee members is to get through the mahi in an efficient manner. I have been on the committee for a number of years and supported the team through the transition into our wonderful new club. 18 years ago, I "connected" with the wonderful Kirsty McNabb who lived here, and the rest is history!

My vision for the Club is to be a welcoming inclusive place that the wider community values. Lyttelton's hospitality sector has suffered like the rest with Covid, with the lack of cruise ships and now the cancelling of the Sail GP event is another blow for our business.

We need your support so that when we go to Level 1 we can start having a bit more FUN, watch this space!

on the consultation, including where to provide feedback (open through 5 November) is available at <https://www.mbie.govt.nz/have-your-say/adventure-activities>

Draft Coastal Adaption Framework - Opens for Public Feedback Today

The draft Coastal Adaption Framework opens for public feedback today and will close on 15 November. The framework sets out the respective roles and responsibilities of Council and private asset owners, along with guiding principles for adaption planning, and a process for engagement and decision-making. Council intends to start adaption planning in the Whakaraupō Lyttelton Harbour next year. More information, including how to make a submission is available at <https://ccc.govt.nz/the-council/haveyoursay/show/456>

Key Report on Coastal Hazards Released

An updated Coastal Hazards Assessment was released on 1 October and provides the most up-to-date information currently available about how coastal and low-lying areas of Christchurch and Banks Peninsula might be affected by coastal flooding, erosion and groundwater. The Assessment will help support discussion between the Council, Ngāi Tahu rūnanga and committees across the district on how to manage and adapt to coastal hazards. More information, is available at <https://newsline.ccc.govt.nz/news/story/key-report-on-coastal-hazards-released>

Albatros to complete maintenance dredging

To ensure our main navigation channel and the areas ships berth and manoeuvre in Lyttelton are maintained, LPC regularly undertakes a programme of maintenance dredging. This dredging removes the naturally accumulating sediment within the channel.

On Saturday October 9, the dredging vessel Albatros will arrive in Lyttelton to start maintenance work around the harbour. This will take approximately three months, with the vessel and crew working both 6am-6pm shifts and 24/7 while they are here.

If you have any questions about the vessel, or the dredging program, please contact lpccommunications@lpc.co.nz.

Issues and Options Paper for Coastal Hazards District Plan Change - Opens for Public Feedback Today

The Issues and Options Paper is a first step in Council's District Plan Change process and identifies how coastal hazards might affect communities across Christchurch and Banks Peninsula. The paper also discusses why changes to the District Plan are needed and sets out a range of options for how the District Plan could manage the risks associated with these hazards. More information, including how to make a submission is available at <https://ccc.govt.nz/the-council/haveyoursay/show/458>

Looking for Quintessential Lyttelton Harbour Snaps

How absolutely thrilling it is to get posted mail that isn't a bill, statement, fine or new bank card. To know that someone was thinking of you and thought to bring you a little mailbox joy can really make one's day.

We all know and appreciate how stunning our geographical landscape is, every morning and every evening we have the opportunity to marvel at the stunning views we get, no matter what way you face within the harbour. Unfortunately, postcard companies don't seem to share the same sentiment as it is very difficult to source postcards that feature Whakaraupō. So instead of sitting around waiting for someone else to do the work, we have decided to take matters into our own hands and design our own. Our very own unique set of postcards. But why do it ourselves when we have all of you lovely people out there who may be able to help us out.

Have you taken a photograph that is just 'so' Lyttelton? Perhaps you snapped a beautiful rainbow with its pot of gold in Whakaraupō or the sunset hues reflected in the harbour. Maybe it's a photo where the light was just right, shining on a historic house with the garden in full bloom or a streetscape shot, capturing what Lyttelton is about now.

This is definitely not limited to just Lyttelton either, but anywhere within the harbour. Governors Bay, Rāpaki, Charteris and Cass Bay, Diamond harbour, Teddington and all the places in between. This goes to each of you also for we all have and celebrate our unique perspectives and views within Whakaraupō.

Either way, I am looking to put together a series of photographs that will be printed onto postcards to form a distinct and unique set. The photographer will be credited on the back of each postcard and can feel pretty darn great at contributing to a one-of-a-kind series. There is potential for this to turn into a card series also, maybe a calendar, tote bags, the opportunities are endless!

If you have a photograph or two, stored on your phone or computer that you feel may be in with a chance to be part of this quintessentially Lyttelton set, then please send your images to Rushani at office@lytteltoninfocentre.nz with a brief description of the photograph. We will decide which photographs form the best collection and notify the owner for permission to print them.

I'm looking forward to seeing my inbox flood with beautiful images of Whakaraupō.

October Exhibition:

Kintsugi: embracing the scars of healing - Group show: presented by Artists Against Slavery

Kintsugi is group show presented by Artists Against Slavery that explores the concept of brokenness, its repair, and how it can become part of a new whole. Kintsugi is the Japanese art of restoring broken ceramic vessels with lacquer and gold, with the resulting object becoming more valuable than before. As a philosophy, it treats breakage and repair as part of the history of an object, rather than something to disguise. It highlights cracks and repairs as simply an event in life, rather than allowing its service to end at the time of its damage or breakage.

Interpretations of Kintsugi are made in the exhibition through ceramics, pottery, painting and printing. Its artists range from established professionals to emerging practitioners, largely from Christchurch and the Banks Peninsula. The artists are Tania Bostock, Nina Brown, Julia Dower, Bev Frost, Renate Galeztka, Naomi Goto Garrett, Sarah Harper, Aamira Jain, Jane McCulla, Janie Porter, Gaby Reade, Soon-Lee Spicer, Kaylene Worrall.

As an organisation, Artists Against Slavery (AAgS) raises funds to help with the rehabilitation of women and children who have been trafficked and abused. A great deal of shame can hang over a victim, usually for life. Rehabilitation helps victims to see that they are of great value together with their painful history. AAgS will take a commission of 10% but artists can give more if they choose. AAgS gives 100% of money raised to Hagar NZ who work with victims of human trafficking and abuse in Afghanistan, Cambodia and Vietnam.

Exhibition dates: 1-25 October 2021

Details

There has been a further delay to our work on Simeon Quay, which has had an impact on the project's expected end date.

The work is now due to finish mid December 2021, not August as earlier communicated – although this is dependent on the weather and whether any further unforeseen issues arise.

The delay is due to a landslip occurring below the construction area of the new retaining wall. This slip needs to be repaired and stabilised prior to the completion of the retaining wall and road works.

The hours of work and impacts remain the same.

Work continues to be undertaken predominately on day shifts and night shifts will be required for some roading activities.

Please see next page for further information on the impacts of these works.

Impact of work:

- There will be some noise disturbance.
- Some evenings Simeon Quay will be reduced to one lane, with stop/go traffic management in place. This is likely to cause delays overnight, particularly for west bound traffic coming from the tunnel and heading along Simeon Quay.
- A temporary queueing route will be set up for west bound traffic (heading towards Governors Bay and Naval Point), in case of heavy queueing demands.
- The queueing route will be along London Street, between Dublin and Canterbury Streets, on night shifts only – when traffic may be reduced to one lane.
- Some on-street parking will be restricted for safety reasons.

The Simeon Quay work is part of the renewal programme for our bridges and retaining walls across the city, which ensures their safety and effectiveness.
