Coming Home After 36 Years

St Saviours Returns to Lyttelton

It is official, the historic St Saviour's Chapel is going home, back to Lyttelton.

St Saviour's has been the Chapel for the Cathedral Grammar School and was only slightly damaged during the Christchurch earthquakes. But now the Cathedral Grammar School Trust Board has decided to gift St Saviour's Chapel to the parish of Lyttelton. "This is an excellent opportunity to preserve some of Canterbury's history and give a new lease of life to a beautiful and much admired historic Chapel," headmaster Paul Kennedy says.

Holy Trinity Church in Lyttelton [above] suffered extensive damage in the earthquake on February 22, 2011. The stained-glass windows were retrieved for storage in early June 2011 by Graham Stewart and the following week, on June 13, the stone church completely collapsed, leaving the roof sitting on the ground. It was subsequently de-consecrated before being removed in pieces from the site. St Saviour's Chapel was originally constructed in Lyttelton in 1886, to a classically elegant Cyril Mountfort design.

In Lyttelton it was the church for many sailors from Captain Scott's "Discovery" and the tragic "Terra Nova" expedition. It claims to be the church in which Scott prayed just prior to leaving New Zealand shores. This beautiful wooden chapel was cut into large pieces and relocated onto its current site in 1976.

The Cathedral Grammar School Trust Board is extensively redeveloping the school site as a result of the 2010|2011 earthquakes. Growth in roll numbers has meant that over recent years the chapel is slightly too small for the school's needs. The school has decided to build a larger chapel.

Bishop Victoria Matthews has been quoted saying "This co-operation and consideration of others' needs, which both honours the past and looks to the future, is an example of what all of Christchurch Canterbury needs to commit to if we are going to succeed in building a new future that makes our descendants proud."

It is hoped that the return of St Saviours to Lyttelton will happen before Christmas 2012, but could take up until early 2013.

about the lyttelton review

Lyttelton Review is a community newsletter initiative developed by local Professionals real estate agent Lynnette Baird and Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre chairperson Wendy Everingham. The objective of the Lyttelton Review is to help keep local residents informed with what is going on in Lyttelton and the wider Lyttelton Harbour community. Each week readers can read about community groups; businesses; events; and everything in between. Ultimately we are a collective of vibrant, like minded, unpaid volunteers striving to give an independent, and uncensored voice. If you have an event, topic, cause, or other, that you would like to share with the harbour community, then we would love to hear from you. Be heard, be seen, be informed - read it or offer it here.

Demolition Out Of Control

Plunket Needs Your Help

Demolition of the Lyttelton Plunket rooms is scheduled for this week, but the scope of demolition is beyond being practical. Plunket and the Toy Library may lose everything. Lyttelton local and Plunket Playgroup organiser, Lisa Jones, has been talking with Tim Priddy from the Christchurch City Council, and co-ordinator of the demolition work for the Plunket rooms. It has been implied that demolition of the Plunket rooms may begin as early as today, and instructions given to the demolition contractor are to "clear the site completely". This level of site clearance includes the demolition of the toy sheds and play area.

Over the decades, fundraising events have enabled the Lyttelton community to provide outdoor playground equipment, sandpit and sheds. It now appears that this community investment will fall as pray to the demolition crew. Discussions with the Council to simply demolish the building and leave the playground in situ are proving futile.

Compounding the problem further is the matter of the property lease. Lyttelton Plunket was formed in 1922, and has called the location on Sumner Road home for the past 68 years. Although Plunket have leased the building and site from the Council since it was purpose built in 1944, with demolition comes the termination of lease. There has been no communication from Council as to whether or not Plunket can even occupy the site after the building has been cleared; or if a new building will be made available for Plunket.

Banks Peninsula Councillor Claudia Reid; Christchurch City Council Community Support Unit worker Phillippa Hay; and Port Hills Member of Parliament Ruth Dyson, have all been notified of these issues around the demolition and lease.

How can you help? Plunket would like people on the site from Monday 28 June in case the demo work begins so that they make sure the play areas are not destroyed or sheds removed. They would like to set up a roster to cover the whole of Monday and following days if necessary. If you are willing to go to the site for an hour or so please let Bridget O'Dempsey know what time you can do: phone 328 7512 or 021 613 1574.

Plunket have contacted the Press and local television media. Placards would be a helpful addition also, such as: "don't evict Lyttelton Plunket" or "don't demolish our play areas". You are also welcome to call Lisa Jones phone 03 328 8777 for any further media enquiries.

Brothels Okay in Lyttelton

But Not For Sumner or New Brighton

The Christchurch City Council are working toward sending a clear signal as to where in Christchurch, brothels would be welcome to trade.

Christchurch City Council last week unanimously resolved to consult on a proposed bylaw that would restrict the location of brothels and control signage advertising commercial adult services. The bylaw proposes restricting brothels, other than small owner-operator brothels, to specific commercial areas in Christchurch and Lyttelton.

Small owner-operator brothels as defined in the Prostitution Reform Act, would continue to be permitted across the city. This is in line with the High Court's ruling on the Council's Christchurch City Brothels [Location and Signage] Bylaw 2004. Signage provisions are largely consistent with the previous bylaw and would only be allowed in the mapped areas and prohibited elsewhere.

Mayor Bob Parker says the Council has decided there is a need for a bylaw as many of the known brothels were located in the Central City and their business premises are inaccessible or badly damaged following the 2011 earthquakes.

"These businesses may wish to temporarily or permanently relocate to other parts of the city. At the moment there are no controls around where a brothel can set up in the city. This proposed bylaw will provide controls on where brothels, other than smaller owner-operated brothels, can operate, and will send a clear signal as to what is acceptable, and where," Parker says.

A full special consultative procedure process will be held. Consultation with the community will begin 11 June to 10 July. Details of the consultation process will be available from 11 June online at www.ccc.govt.nz/HaveYourSay/

If hearings are considered to be necessary, they will be held in July 2012 with a final decision likely to be released by September 2012.

Festival of Lights: Countdown

9 Days until the Lyttelton Harbour Festival of Lights

What is wonderful about the Lyttelton Harbour Festival of Lights team is that new people want to join each year. They all bring fresh ideas and energy that give this festival a special feel. Rich Humphreys is one of the newer members of the team. This is the second festival he has been involved with. He loves events and creating spaces to make things happen.

Rich's involvement in last years festival began after a discussion with Coralie Winn from Gap Filler. His idea was to create a warm and welcoming space for all ages. With few buildings still standing he and partner Courtenay Stickels had the vision to erect a yurt on the corner of Canterbury and London Streets, to sell chai tea, food and create a warm, friendly festival space.

Everything was set for the June 17th street party and then as we all know June 13th was shake rattling and rolling. The street party was postponed however Rich's Gap Filler idea went ahead. The quake enabled an organic back to basics result. Like in summer Lyttelton had its own private winter Street Party with all the local muso's who were supposed to be playing on Main Stage jamming on the street corner to a hundred or so chai sipping locals. Rich remembers it with fond memories. "There was just such a beautiful community vibe, with people bringing down cakes and fire wood for the braziers". The event was a real gem and most will remember how locals spilled out onto the road and thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

As well as creating interesting spaces Rich also brings a wealth of media and communication skills to the team. He is a cameraman and documentary film-maker by trade and produced a great promo video for the last years' festival. His ability to tap into another demographic that our regular media doesn't reach is invaluable. Rich is bringing film back to the 2012 festival. A strong feature several years ago.

He has created Life in a Lyttel Town: a site specific, documentary installation that explores the notion of community and re-imagines the past, present and future of our small port town. Live in London Street on Saturday June 9th 6.00pm to 7.30pm. He asks you to Bring Your Own chair and come down early. Check out www.evisionz.tv for more details.

Rich just really fits into the groove of the event and he especially loves how we follow the full moon cycles to decide the events date and how this year Matariki leads into the festival. "It just symbolizes a new beginning, and is such a great time to get out there to share and celebrate"

Unravelling Civil Defence

Visit Us at the Street Party

The world of Civil Defence is slowly starting to become clearer. Most of us know that individually it's our responsibility to have our basic emergency kits and supplies ready so that we can look after ourselves when an emergency strikes. When the emergency does happen teams of local volunteers who are trained to run an emergency centre step into action and create a safe place where we can get information, food, shelter and other necessities if needed.

It's amazing to see the actual numbers of people that you need to effectively run our emergency centres. Even if you are only operating eight hours a day you still need at least ten people to run the Lyttelton Centre. Add another day shift and you need twenty. Back up and you need forty etc, etc. Have an overnight accommodation centre and you need more again.

Last year our trained Civil Defence team was not big enough to cope with everything happening here. That's why there was no overnight accommodation. That's why the sector posts weren't open either. In an emergency you really need a core group of people with basic training to run things. They can then call on others to help. We were very fortunate to have the services of the Coast Guard, Police, Navy and St John plus the Lyttelton Time bank and the wider community who stepped up. By chance we ended up with enough resources for a day only operation in Lyttelton.

The message from this is we do need to ensure that we have as a minimum 20 people who can step in to do eight hour shifts at an emergency welfare centre. Tasks include work rosters, information gathering, catering, registration, reception, communications, accommodation, first aid, animal welfare, getting supplies etc. Our community team is going to be hosting a stall at the Festival of Lights. Come and talk to us and find out more. Become a trained volunteer or be a buddy of a volunteer so they have a shadow. Think about how you think our community can be more resilient and share your ideas on the night.

Lyttel Town Proves That It Can

Congratulations Harbour Co-Op Exists

On Tuesday May 15 the proposed Harbour Co-Operative passed the $50,000 fundraising mark and so the purchase of Lyttel Piko business is now able to proceed. The final day of trading for Lyttel Piko will be this Thursday, 31 May. The shop will then be closed on Friday June 1 for stock taking and finalising the transfer of ownership. Also on that day, and starting at 9am, a Working Bee will be underway, giving new member owners the chance to roll up their sleeves and tackle some of the odd jobs that need doing around the shop. Old signage will come down, the place will get a good tidy-up, and a new look will emerge signalling a new beginning for the building and the Co-op

Harbour Co-Op Grand Opening

Saturday 2 June will be the grand opening of the Harbour Co-Operative. Head along to the shop and help Lyttelton and the Co-Op celebrate. It will be a chance to say good-bye to the Lyttel-shop-that-was and hello to the new Co-op-to-come. It will be a day to acknowledge the incredible community that saved a vital shop and invested in its own future. There'll be festivities during the day, and in true Co-op fashion organisers welcome any ideas of possible events, activities, or entertainment.

Never Too Late to Join

The Harbour Co-Op may have reached the initial target, but they are always accepting memberships. This means that if you are not a member yet – you still can be. Please print an Investment Statement and Membership Application Form from www.harbourcoop.co.nz. Or forms will be available from the shop and Project Lyttelton, though the Co-op encourages you to help minimise expenses by printing off a copy at home.

Logo Design Competition Winner

The winner of the logo competition is Jenny Braithwaite. Although the Board did not feel comfortable selecting any one design as the permanent logo – Jenny's excellent entry deserved special recognition. The Harbour Co-Op has asked Jenny to head a small focus group which will address the issue of logo and branding. If there are any other members with skills in graphic design who would be interested in participating, please let Jenny know.

plenty to share

In Lyttelton so many residents grow vegetables; or have fruit trees literally dripping with produce. Plenty to Share is about sharing any excess produce with the community. So if your lemon tree is yellow with goodness and you can't keep up with making lemon curd or drinking enough gin and tonics, bring those surplus fruits down to the organisers, where every Wednesday between 3pm and 6pm the swapping of produce is well underway. If there is something on the Plenty to Share table that you would like to take home, then you are warmly invited to do so. You will find Plenty to Share on the corner of London Street and Canterbury Street.

Women's Double - Marie Bishop & Lisa Finnerty.

Women's Six - Marie Bishop, Lisa Finnerty, Anita Thompson, Mel Noonan, Barbara Dolamore and Andrea Mather.

Lyttelton Scrub Fire

Rural firefighters activated a night-flying operation to battle a blaze near Lyttelton amid fears lives were at risk. Department of Conservation rural fire officer Bruce Janes said a fire ripped uphill through pine forest in the Urumau Reserve above Lyttelton township about 1.30am last Friday.

The reserve, which has been closed to the public since the earthquakes because of the risk of rockfall, is above Sumner Road and the Lyttelton Port of Christchurch coal-storage area. He said firefighters were concerned as the fire started to descend towards a ridge above Lyttelton, which could have caused several loose boulders to hurtle towards the township. They either had to evacuate houses at risk or activate a night-flying operation to control the fire. "It's the first time DOC has had to resort to night flying for a rural fire in Canterbury due to the potential risk to life from rock fall."

Helicopters using monsoon buckets were used to fight the fire above Lyttelton, and the fire was stopped at the ridge and contained by 6am. Ten rural fire personnel from DOC, the Fire Service, the Governors Bay Volunteer Rural Fire Force and the Christchurch City Council worked on the fire overnight, Janes said. Two helicopters and a ground crew of 25 worked on the fire to ensure it was completely out. A fire-safety officer will investigate, and it might be some weeks before more details are known.

Metro Bus Service Time Table Changes

According to the Metro bus service web site, a key to the effective rebuilding of Christchurch is an efficient and well patronised public transport network. A drop in the number of passengers and the resulting financial challenges since the earthquake has required Metro to carefully analyse how they can best meet public transport needs. As a result, Metro has identified six services where they need to reduce the frequency of buses.

From Tuesday 5 June 2012 the Lyttelton and Rapaki to City Route 28 service will operate on a new timetable. These timetables have changed as Metro have reduced the number of buses running in off peak hours and/ or made a reduction in evening trips.

At a quick glance, buses still operate between Lyttelton and the City every 10 minutes between 7.15am and 8.00am; then every 20 minutes through to 9am; then back to every 30 minutes for the rest of the day; except between 4pm and 6pm where the service runs every 15 minutes. The weekend timetables are unchanged.

You can download a copy of the new time table from the Lyttelton Harbour Information Centre web site; or visit Metro: <http://www.metroinfo.co.nz/timetables-maps/28-lyttelton-preview.html?route=28>

what did you hear

Here at the Lyttelton Review we love receiving your stories and notices about events. Keeping it local and keeping it relevant has resulted in the growth of the Lyttelton Review. One page at a time we are all working together to help connect residents around the Lyttelton Harbour, and that has to be good thing. During a public meeting last year residents spoke up and said "we don't know what goes on in Lyttelton". So the Lyttelton Review was launched, and it is just one mechanism to help keep residents connected. We couldn't produce the Lyttelton Review with your contribution. So here's a big Thank You from the editorial team to everyone who receives and continues to contribute to the success of the Lyttelton Review - your views, ideas and stories are appreciated and always welcomed.

Lyttelton in the Media

A wonderful Lyttelton Review reader sent this through: I am currently working on a website for an organic farm in Oamaru, and in the course of searching background material on the farm I found these references to Lyttelton. Thought you might be interested to follow up for possible mention in your next edition of Lyttelton Review [if you haven't already].

Christchurch City Libraries Database

The Christchurch City Council libraries CINCH website has an extensive database which has information about city [and Lyttelton] groups which people can access. Prior to the earthquakes the library was regularly reminding groups to update information contained on the website. This has not happened in the usual way since.

Some of this information is very out of date - not only with the contact details listed, but also with the projects that are currently happening. If you notice that the information listed for your group is out of date - or if your group is not listed and you wish it to be - please let the Libraries staff know by following the link to notify the change.

Oops!

Errors, Omissions and Typos are all part and parcel of the unpaid volunteer team that pulls together the Lyttelton Review each week. These quirky additions are offered free for your amusement. But, sometimes we inadvertently get a few things wrong, and last weeks interview with Stephen Estall fell short on some detail:

The article suggested that the exhibition focuses on Gothic Revival and its influence on Christchurch architecture. To be corrected: that the exhibition focus is much broader than the Gothic Revival period, but three of Stephen's photographs in the exhibition are of Gothic Revival windows.

The article suggested that six people were contributing works for the exhibition, including Dr Ian Lochhead and Dr John Wilson. To be corrected: Ian Lochhead and John Wilson are among a group of about a dozen writers who have contributed texts [not works] to accompany the panels. Stephen has also written text for a couple of these.

We also misspelt "Worcester" Street.

Reconstruction: Conversations on a City [23 June 2012 – 16 September 2012]

In acknowledging architectural heritage loss in this city's present and past, this visually rich outdoor exhibition unfolds the ways in which dreams and values have been given form in our built environment. Three of the panels will feature wonderful early images of Lyttelton.

Our apologies for "getting it wrong", and our thanks to Ken Hall, Curator at the Christchurch Art Gallery|Te Puna o Waiwhetu for writing in and clarifying these points.

Rick is also a passionate supporter and chairman of the Banks Peninsula Conservation Trust and has indicated that he will speak about this too.

Heathcote Village Project

Tao Motion Starts Today

Located at the Heathcote Village Church Hall, a new fitness class "Tao Motion" starts Monday 28 May. Gabrielle, originally from Germany, has been studying and teaching body and mind fitness globally for over the past twenty years.

Tao Motion: Tai Chi Chuan is an ancient Taoist meditative art of motion. In Tai Chi Chuan the whole body is flowing and relaxed while moving. The first step is to learn and remember the outer movements. When one practices all the movements in sequence, this is called the Tai Chi Chuan form. The way Gabrielle teaches Tai Chi Chuan, students will also learn to use energy in each posture.

When	Every Monday* 10.30 - 1130am	Every Friday 9.00am - 10.00am (except 11 june)
Cost	$5.00 per one hour session
Where	Heathcote Vilage Church Hall, Corner Martindales and Truscotts Road, Heathcote

No booking necessary. Just come along bring a friend, yoga mat or rug. This is a great opportunity to get fit during the winter months and connect with others. Email: heathcotevillageproject@gmail.com or visit <http://www.taomotion.com/en/>

Building in Lyttelton?

Part Three: Port Influences Overlay Area

Section 16[2] of the Resource Management Act provides local authorities with the right to prescribe noise emission standards in district plans. Under Chapter 33|Noise of the Banks Peninsula District Plan, the Council recognises that the Lyttelton Port of Christchurch and the township of Lyttelton have co-existed for more than a century, and that residential housing is already located closely to the Port.

Yet potential still exists for reverse sensitivity effects on noise generated from port activities to arise. As the Lyttelton Port of Christchurch represents infrastructure of regional significance; cannot be located elsewhere; and is generally required to operate seven days a week, twenty four hours a day - the Council introduced an interesting port noise mitigation plan for managing any future potential conflict between residential and port activity: establishment of a no-complaints covenant in favour of the Lyttelton Port Company Limited.

Such a covenant can be applied to your land title, so that it applies to both an existing and any future owners or occupiers. Property owners essentially along Sumner Road, Norwich Quay, Godley Quay and parts of Reserve Terrace or Simeon Quay should be aware of this no-complaints covenant prior to finalising any designs or building plans.

When building a new home within the defined “Port Influences Overlay Area” the dwelling needs to be designed with an internal sound design level of 40 dBA Ldn [5 day] with ventilating windows open or with windows and doors closed and mechanical ventilation installed and operating. There is an expectation that any acoustic treatment of dwellings required by this rule in the district plan, would be performed by specialists competent in acoustic design, which involves using a port noise contour map and is in accordance with the methodology in Port Noise Standard NZS 6809: 1999 Port Noise Management and Land Use Planning.

The no-complaints covenant in favour of the Lyttelton Port Company Limited will involve a conversation with your solicitor as it will affect your property. In short, you will be agreeing to have a covenant registered against your certificate of title; that will be in favour of the Lyttelton Port Company Limited. The covenant will have the effect that no current or future owner or occupier of the property can complain about any proceedings, equity, nuisance, public nuisance; or otherwise oppose any adverse environmental effects, including noise, dust, traffic, vibration, glare or odour, resulting from any lawfully established port activities undertaken by the Lyttelton Port Company Limited, or its subcontractors.

When rebuilding, meeting your obligations under this stipulation will cost you more, and if your rebuilding through your insurance company, this is a matter you will need to bring to their attention. Additional costs will range from specialist acoustic advice, legal advice, building materials and may even have an impact on the overall design through strategic placements of windows and exterior doors.
