Local resident Mark Brabyn has organized a family camp at Quail Island for the weekend of November 10 and 11. An amazing opportunity to take your family over to the Island to camp for the weekend. This is a three hour event in the morning where family teams of up to four people will be treated to a series of activities and discoveries around Lyttelton township. Cost $5.00 per team. Registration open now. More information to follow in the next weeks Lyttelton Review.

In total there are 38 walks to choose from over the two weekends. Most walks will cost just

Everest Indian Restaurant

In a Flash Number Two London Street Changes

A chance conversation on London Street and we learn that we have new owners at the Indian Restaurant.

Parminder Singh is the new manager and the business is now Everest Indian Restaurant. He is originally from "Its Indi" and luckily he has transferred to the new business. Parminder comes from a back ground in hospitality so this venture isn't new to him.

We wanted to know what differentiates this business from the former. Parminder says "our biggest draw card is the new chef. He is Nepalese so the food will reflect that style of cooking". "One of our signature dishes is Everest Chicken Curry".

Other dishes that Parminder recommends includes the Chicken Jhal Frezi, Dal Makhani and Aloo Sagh.

The editorial team at the Lyttelton Review have also sampled some of the dishes and can confirm they were all delicious.

"For something that isn't available anywhere else in Christchurch try our Indian Chilli Chicken" Parminder adds.

All food tastes are catered for. Everest Indian Restaurant can cater for dairy free, gluten free, and vegetarian taste buds. You just need to ask and they can cater for you. Another great attribute is they are a BYO wine restaurant. With corkage at only $6 per bottle, this is an attractive way to have your selected wine with your meal. Everest Indian Restaurant are also fully licensed but we think its great to have the choice.

Everest Indian Restaurant are hoping to expand the dining area with more tables outside, and now they are also offering a lunch menu. You can get a great lunch curry special for just $10. In the near future they hope to have special deals midweek.

Everest Indian Restaurant and takeaway is open seven days a week. Dinner is served from 4.30pm until late Monday to Sunday and lunch 11.30am to 2.00pm Tuesday to Sunday. For reservations call 328 8185.

Ortho-Bionomy® Comes to Lyttelton

Meet Janet Taylor

Janet Taylor a Lyttelton resident for fourteen years has discovered Ortho-Bionomy. But what is Ortho-Bionomy? This week the Lyttelton Review chats to Janet Taylor to find out.

A quick look at the natural therapy web page: www.naturaltherapypages.co.nz and we find that: "Ortho-Bionomy is a system of bodywork that was developed by Dr Arthur Lincoln Pauls in the 1970s in Britain. This therapy is used to promote wellbeing, and to assist the relieving of pain and restrictions that may be caused by injuries, poor posture, stress-related problems and structural problems."

"Ortho-Bionomy is based on techniques found in judo, homeopathy and osteopathy and is designed to be gentle. In addition to practitioner-based exercises and corrections, a person can also practice some self-help techniques to assist in the everyday management of their condition. Ortho-Bionomy is suitable for both the novice and the professional and, because it is so gentle, it is suitable for all age groups."

What Ortho-Bionomy is About:

Ortho-Bionomy is about re-educating the body, so that it is able to maintain balance and function as well as possible. Some techniques used in this therapy include joint compressions, gentle movements and the use of preferred positions. These are all designed to stimulate the body's natural healing functions and self-balancing reflexes."

Janet came to this therapy after years of experiencing pain in her knee and the problem was traced and fixed by a practitioner of Ortho-Bionomy. This led Janet to explore all the ins and outs of the treatment, and resulted in her beginning the training course for this therapy. To date there is only one other person working in this field in Christchurch. When Janet qualifies shortly she will boost the numbers. She has almost completed the training and would love to share her new found skills with the Lyttelton community. "I think this treatment is just perfect for earthquake therapy, it's so relaxing and holistic" Janet said.

To date Janet has been helping a few children with increased anxiety as a result of the earthquakes. Because she has had such a positive experience herself and the friends she has helped have also benefited she would like to extend her knowledge and skills with the wider Lyttelton community. If you are interested to find out more Janet would love to hear from you.

Rumour Has It

Irish Bar Opening Late October

That the Irish Bar is re-opening Labour Weekend. After various flurries of activities over many months it seems everything has now finally fallen into place. Owners Ross, Janet, Roger and Sandy are all set to go. The Lyttelton Review had a quick peak inside the other day and were impressed by all the hard work being done to get things ready for opening. The facility is much improved. The kitchen is amazing and they have thought of everything to make it a really safe working environment. Loos, a much talked about topic in Lyttelton have all been upgraded and a proper disabled toilet is a new feature! The entire space flows more easily with indoor and outdoor entertainment areas. Fingers crossed that everything falls into place and Lyttelton will have another new venue to frequent come Labour Weekend.

Lyttelton Farmers Market Corner

Seasonal New Produce | New Vendors Delight

Caddie Gardens: Chilies

Last year the Caddie Gardens Serrano chili crop was very successful. Plants produced well and the chilies were of a good heat and flavour! The Caddie Gardens team recommends them for the home gardener for glasshouse or warm sheltered spot. They grow well in five litre pots and are ready for planting now.

If you prefer something that packs a slightly smaller punch, Caddie Gardens also has available:

- Anch St Luis a chili that's not hot but rich in flavor and great for sauces
- Mulato mild to medium, ripens to dark brown, an essential ingredient for mole sauce
- Anaheim mild, pungent, ideal for stuffing
- Hungarian Hot Wax mild to medium heat, banana shape, adds flavor without excessive heat

Ground Gourmet Innovation

Jenny is a constant innovator, with new delicious recipes and ideas ever flowing to the Ground market stall. This month Jenny has house cured Salmon gravlax - sold pre-sliced and packaged. Also for those that simply can't wait to get it home - a gravlax sandwich with saffron aioli and salad. Also, look out for sweet spiced meringues and rosemary pesto with pistachios. So good!

Volcano Gives Barbeque Advice

Do you want to be the most popular person at the barbeque this season? Then read through Sue's tips and advice. Two ways of using Volcano sweet chili sauce:

- Mix up equal quantities of sweet chili and natural yoghurt slather it all over a butterfly shoulder of lamb left over night is ideal but four hours would do. Then barbeque or bake on a high heat on a rack with a dish underneath to catch the drippy goodness, and cook until still pink in the middle simply delicious!
- 2. Volcano sweet chili sauce also makes the perfect Satay sauce just add peanut butter and coconut milk to your chili sauce heat slowly in a pan serve with your favourite kebabs.

Volcano also have a new salad dressing that Lois discovered on her travels in Ireland from a Michelin star restaurant called Cliff House in Ardmore Cork - it is an organic apple vinaigrette which they used as their house dressing - really nice.

Freeman's Fresh Pasta

It is wonderful to have Dave and the team at the Lyttelton Farmers Market selling beautiful fresh pasta. Seasonal ravioli and cannelloni, beautiful fresh pasta sauces and made to measure tagliatelle. They even have gluten free pasta! Watch them spinning the pasta machine and sample something out of the ordinary - the squid ink tagliatelle is incredible!

Oyster Mushrooms

Andrew brings to Lyttelton Farmers Market his wonderful mushrooms; sample a tasty morsel sautéed in garlic butter if you need convincing of this great product!

Naval Point Club News

New Season | Sunday Racing | Twilight Racing

Another Season Begins

Activity around the Club is picking up as the new season's programme gets into gear. Saturday racing is under way. Preliminary meetings have been held with the junior parents and their coaching programme will commence in the next couple of weeks. Next week's school holiday learn to sail programme is fully subscribed and kicks off on Monday morning. We are seeing strong growth in Waka participation with an increasing youth component.

Sunday Racing

Summer sailing in Lyttelton has traditionally been on Saturdays. However the Winter Series, April to June, has been very well supported on Sundays. The question has been asked; with the change in peoples' lifestyles, would sailing on Sundays during the Summer be popular? Now's the chance to find out. Next Sunday there will be a the first race of a series occurring over the coming season. They won't necessarily be the same format as traditional Saturday races, we plan to mix things up a bit. Sundays event will start at the Start box but, weather permitting will finish at a destination, probably Diamond Harbour.

Twilight Racing Time

The popular Wednesday twilight races are back again this season. Starting at 6.30 pm, boats race around a small triangular course until 7.45pm when the whole thing stops. The challenge is to get as many laps in as possible. With everyone finishing at the same time, the after-race prize giving at 9pm is always well attended. Prizes are allocated by a draw so everyone gets a chance. $5.00 entry fee per race. The pre-Christmas series has a different sponsor for each race. First up next week is Willies Electrical.

LIFT Library Film Evening

Monday 8 October

Have you caught up with the fact that the LIFT Film Evenings in October are now on MONDAY evenings, not Wednesdays? We had a good attendance at the last weeks film "Edible Cities", which was well received. A special thanks to the new folk who came along to join us. As it is springtime, and people are getting into gardening, I was asked to show more on this topic, so this week will include two shorter films:

"Permaculture Soils: realigning with Nature's plan for sustainable abundance" featuring Geoff Lawton, the Australian leader in the field; this film is easy to follow, and inspiring – I got outside after watching it, and dealt with my compost, to my immense satisfaction! Many practical examples of what we can do.

"Think global: eat local: a diet for a sustainable society" which has examples from round the world, of community actions to raise and share food. Some done here, some could be done here.

When: Monday 8 October, 7.15pm film begins

Some really good news is that last Saturday was LIFT's day at the Garage Sale, and we now have money with which to buy more good books and DVD's. If you know of something really suitable for the LIFT Library [up-to-date, easy to read, not too heavy, preferably about ideas for New Zealand] please tell me soon, before I spend it all! Also, if you have books or DVD's of your own that you would like to either donate or lend to LIFT, I'd love to hear from you. You might like to borrow a new addition to the library, when it comes back to me. I couldn't resist buying this one straight away! And a member couldn't resist borrowing it straight away.

Food@home | Christine Dann 2012

The author is well known around here, so it's great to have this book at last. Her chapter headings give you the idea of her content and style: Culinary Confusion; Growing@Home; Community@Garden; Dining@Home; Cooking@Home; Almost@Home; Food@Large; Alimentary Action. There are masses of examples of New Zealand initiatives, foods, recipes, people, gardening methods... and photos. An easy-to-read encyclopedia in 200 pages!

Healing our History: the Challenge of the Treaty of Waitangi | Robert & Joanna Consedine 2001

This book challenges all New Zealanders to accept responsibility for learning the colonial history of their country in order to become better informed, and support change that values all people, regardless of their cultural background. There are multitudes of ways people can respond to the challenge. The book addresses the questions: Why do we need to understand our colonial history? What can the Treaty of Waitangi teach us 160 years later? Why is it so vital that we discover and claim our own stories? It's an easy read, with lots of clear examples of action taken.

And here's today's quote:

Every good movement passes through five stages: indifference, ridicule, abuse, repression, and respect - Mahatma Gandhi

An Idea About Combined Research

Project Lyttelton in recent years has attracted a lot of interest from researchers. The range of the level of research has been wide. As a result, about a year ago the Project Lyttelton Board decided that I would follow up and get some guidelines onto our website so that potential researchers could be self-filtering. The people I approached to help me with this task had other things happening in their lives and so this idea slipped down my list of priorities.

However, recently I spent some time with Marjo Lips Wiersma from the Management Department at Canterbury talking about this issue. Marjo is a Lyttelton resident. Out of that discussion came three points:

- 1. Different projects can be linked to each other where useful for research purposes
- 2. Project Lyttelton could more proactively invite research that would forward its aims rather than accepting or not research offers that come in
- 3. People who are about to do or who have done research co-create a plan with PL about how they will disseminate their research so it benefits the community and Project Lyttelton as well as their own "careers".

The idea of a Research Day was mooted. We discussed the important role that research can play in the development of an organisation, business or community. We realised that if a wide range of organisations/businesses/community groups came together we could take a big picture view and see what we need to have researched within this whole community. More of a planned approach. I have noticed since the earthquake there is much duplication of research which is inefficient. I think it is better that as a collective we work out what we need to know and advertise that need amongst the research community.

So I am sending this message to as wide a group as I can think of -organisations, businesses and community groups - to see what other people's responses are to the idea of collectively working out what research we need. This could possibly be done via a Research Day. Generally how we work in Project Lyttelton is that if an idea fits within our vision statement — and this does AND we have a champion to run with this then we go ahead. We have the idea which fits the vision, but I am not the person who would/could champion the project.

I know that research has the potential to unlock amazing innovative developments. Are you attracted to the idea of getting our big picture clear and then identifying all that we want researched? Please let me know what you think. Feel free to pass this message on to others. I'll give you a couple of weeks to think about this idea and get back to me.

Port Hills Geotech Seminar

Just a quick reminder that the Christchurch City Council is working with the University of Canterbury and GNS Science to present a geotechnical information seminar next Saturday 13 October 2012 from 9.00am.

This is to help explain the complex and technical information in the GNS Science reports which were prepared for the Council in response to the Canterbury earthquakes and contain information on the life-safety risks from rock fall or boulder roll and cliff collapse on the Port Hills.

Details of the day are being finalised and will be sent through to us on Tuesday 9 October 2012. The seminar will be held at the University of Canterbury and you will need to register for the sessions, either online [details to be announced on 9 October 2012] or by phoning the Christchurch City Council on 941 8999.

It is important to understand the sessions are about explaining the information contained within the reports to help understand the science behind the life-safety risks from rock fall or boulder roll and cliff collapse on the Port Hills. The sessions will not cover the CERA zoning decisions or review, the criteria for the placement of section 124 notices or options for mitigation.

Wanted to Rent

Bonnie says: My story goes like this. Before the February earthquake I worked at a Tattoo shop called Southern Ink on Colombo street, you may have heard it fell down on me and my work mate Matti. Matti did not survive and I fractured seven vertebrae in my back and neck and suffered a brain injury. I am doing much better and have slowly built myself up ready to go back to work so me and my two other female artists are opening an all female tattoo/ boutique on London Street thanks to the support and advice from a friend Robin Kerr who I have been receiving acupuncture from since the accident. This shop is a great part of healing for us and also a tribute to our beautiful boy that we miss so much and we very much want to invite the community to come celebrate, share get involved with our opening day, which we are hoping for mid October. In the mean time we are going to rent our own Halswell home out and are wanting to re-school our daughter in Lyttelton. We have a beautiful four bedroom home with a two bedroom sleep out on a large section with trees and shrubs. We would be happy to swap houses with someone if there would be anyone wanting to move to Halswell? If you can help Bonnie, please email her at bonniebooink@gmail.com

"After I heard Rob talk on the radio for five minutes I felt I understood more what was happening to me, and I felt as though I would be able to get through this." Have your say on local water management

The Banks Peninsula Zone Committee wants feedback on its draft Zone Implementation Programme [ZIP] for water management.

The committe is hosting four community meetings for local people, groups and organisations to provide feedback on the recommendations made in the draft ZIP.

How we manage water is a key factor influencing our quality of life and prosperity both now and for future generations.

Community input is vital to ensuring our water resource is managed sustainably.

Once community feedback has been considered the ZIP will be updated and presented to councils as the basis for work programmes and for drafting regional plans.

The draft ZIP includes seven chapters, each focusing on a different priority area for water management.

The seven chapters are:

- Water Supply
- Biodiversity
- Lake Wairewa
- Waste Water
- Run-Off | Contamination | Waterways
- Coastal
- · Education | Communication
